New State Grange Master Selected

HARRISBURG—After nearly a decade as Master of the Pa. State Grange, Charles E. Wismer, Jr., a dairy farmer from Montgomery County is retiring "to return to the farm."

According to Wismer, "I find that my children have grown up and moved away. While they were home I could depend on them to help tend the 135 milk cows and 220 acres of land. Now that they are gone, I find that the farm requires more of my time than I can give and still remain Master of the Grange. I came from the farm to be Master. And I leave the Master's Chair to go back to the farm. I worked only for the Grange and I will work to serve the Grange in any way I can.

During Wismer's tenure as Master of the 115 year old; 42,000 member; family farm organization he initiated many new programs, among them were: Lifetime membership program; 800 telephone number; State Deaf Committee; Grange Day in Harrisburg; 26 new subordinate Granges established; 20 reactivated subordinate Granges; First Master to serve on Board of Overseers University of

Gov. Sends Ag Secretary To Washington

HARRISBURG — Gov. Robert P. Casey this week asked U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng to issue a federal drought disaster declaration for the entire state of Pennsylvania.

"Every county in the state has experienced damage from the 1988 drought to the degree that places our state's largest industry at risk," Gov. Casey wrote in a letter to Lyng.

Gov. Casey said the declaration would represent a first step toward helping Pennsylvania agriculture recover from the current crisis. The designation would make qualified Pennsylvania farmers eligible for low-interest loans from the fed-

Land Conference: Stop Treating Our Soil Like Dirt

BY LOU ANN GOOD

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster) — Lancaster is at a crossroads. Will it preserve its farmland or will it allow development to run rampant?

The planners for the Land, Ethics, and Community Values conference held at Elizabethtown College, on July 21 to 23, believe the county's agriculture and spiritual roots have been largely responsible for its fertile beauty. Now economic growth threatens to destroy it.

Countians have diverse values. Some want to retain its virgin ruralism while others claim commercialism must continue for economic growth.

Is it possible to solve the problem when these two opinions are in direct opposition to each other?

"Yes," Douglas Weidman, president of Lancaster Design Community, told more than two hundred people who attended the three day conference. "We must get below the emotional levels to collectively come to a vision."

He believes that Lancaster is having a midlife crisis. And that countians possess a frontier mentality of squandering resources.

"The problems underlying environment problems are basically arrogance, ignorance and greed," said Calvin DeWitt, professor of environmental studies at the University of Wisconsin.

To instill a sense of responsibility, he turned to the Bible, which teaches that God is owner of the earth, not people who are short-term occupants of the land, and that human beings are responsible for earth keeping.

He said, "Dominion is stewardship." Conflict often enters into deciding exactly what dominion

Heifer Shot In Pasture

PEQUEA (Lancaster) — Unknown to the farmer, a light-caliber bullet (maybe a .22 or .222) grazed the head of a 1,000-pound bred Holstein heifer one night last week on the Daniel Metzler farm on Douts Hill Road. Metzler first noticed that the heifer, which freshens this fall, was not feeling well. Later he noticed that one eye was not focusing correctly.

When the veterinarian was called, at first the only indication of the problem was a low-level fever. But upon closer examination, they found swelling around the head and a healing scar both where the bullet entered and exited the head.

Metzler said it looks like some-

York County Dairy Show

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

Kowraygen Creek Linnan Jean added another jewel to her crown of show-string wins last week when she was named senior and grand champion of the York Black & White Show on July 21 at the York fairgrounds.

Owned and exhibited by C.E. Hubbard of New Cumberland, the winning aged cow is scored EX-90. Her latest completed lactation, at 5 years 10 months, 365 days, totaled 28,671 milk and 1292, with a 4.5 percent fat test. Though now a 4-H "graduate" Hubbard has exhibited the Creek daughter to numerous state and national junior and open class awards.

Judge Creedin Cornman of Carlisle praised her dairiness, tremendous body capacity and well-balanced udder, and noted that she

MOUNT JOY — The first day of September may be diversion day for Farmland Dairies if RCMA can get its present plan to action. At a meeting here Monday evening, Edgar King, Manager of Customer Relations, outlined the plans to divert enough milk away from Farmland Dairies in one day to break the resistance to over-order pricing by the New Jersey-based milk handler.

Up to now Farmland has successfully resisted RCMA's effort to obtain full over-order premiums by paying its own premiums to farm shippers. These premiums exceed RCMA's payments to date.

In addition, because RCMA did not previously divert all milk from Farmland at the same time, Farmland has replenished its milk supply by adding new shippers and expanding its farm pickup area.

But officials at Monday's meeting were hopeful that this new tactic would cause Farmland to negotiate with RCMA before the September 1 deadline.

RCMA, government officials and media representatives seemed to outnumber the relatively few farmers that attended this meeting at the Country Table Restaurant. But officials outlined a plan to con-

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed lower from 3/4 of a cent to 8-1/2 as heavy long liquidation going into the close stressed prices. Late weakness was attributed to weather forecasts calling for milder temperatures along with increased rain probability. Further pressure was linked to lower basis levels and a bleak near term export outlook. December closed out the day at $2.87 after trading as high as $3.01-1/2 earlier in the day.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans closed mostly higher today, with the front two options 2 cents lower and unchanged. Prices bounced around throughout the session with gains made on ideas the market had become oversold and losses occurring on profit taking.

Thoughts of heavy delivery notices this Friday pressured the spot month, while some weakening was seen late in the session on updated weather forecasts predicting cooler temperatuares and increased rainfall.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures settled higher from 5 to 1-1/4 cents this afternoon, but off session highs as sharply lower corn and falling soybean prices began to pressure wheat. Strength on the opening was attributed to news that China would be bidding on 500,000 MT of soft red export bonus wheat, with commercials buying throughout the day prompting ideas that the bid had been accepted. December closed today at $3.75, after posting a high of $3.81-1/2 and a low of $3.69-1/2.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle closed nicely higher this afternoon with gains of 48 to 97 points while feeders closed from 30 to 125 higher. Strengthening cash fundamentals paired with active fed cattle trade at higher prices supported along with speculation that midday quotes would trend higher. Spillover from live cattle and strong technicals boosted feeders, with the August closing 125 points higher.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, July 27, 1988

Trucklot buying interest was light and unaggressive on all items except whole breasts which were short of an irregular demand. Cutlets were fully adequate at current price levels as buyers generally limited receipts to an as needed basis. Legs and leg quarteres continued to increase in availability and trading prices edged lower. Wings were fully adequate with the bulk of sales at unchanged prices. Livers were fully adequate while gizzards were in good overall balance.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, July 27, 1988

Demand for ready-to-cook whole birds was about moderate with offerings sufficient to handle current demand. Rib breasts were in the strongest position while interest on leg quarters was good at attractive price levels. Less than trucklot asking prices were one cent higher at 61-73 cents Live supplies were moderate with sizes light to desirable. Slaughter schedules continued moderately heavy. The undertone was steady but cautious.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, July 27, 1988

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady in most regions with some cautiousness noted in the Midwest. Demand was best where featured, in vacation areas and in restaurants, generally moderate in regular retail channels. Supplies of jumbo remained seasonally short, extra-large were short to occasionally adequate, large were adequate to ample and mediums were generally at least fully adequate. Live supplies of spent hens were limited and prices continued to increase.

Joy feed mill has a feed production line specifically designed by Pennfield to produce PFR (Precision Formulated Rations) custom formulated dairy feeds balanced for each dairyman's feeding program. This customized ration will be pelleted to prevent separation of vitamins and minerals from the feed ingredients. The ration will be balanced to meet specific needs such as PROTEIN, BY-PASS PROTEIN, MINERALS, STARCH LEVEL, ADDED FAT, NDF (Neutral Detergent Fiber), ADF (Acid Detergent Fiber), PALATABILITY, TOTAL RATION DENSITY, and FEEDING PROGRAM PROFITABILITY.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 1-7, 1988

No dry hay on Lammas Day.

Civic Holiday in Canada Aug 1 Hot Saturday' broke all previous New England heat records Aug 2, 1975 Hurricane Celia hit Corpus Christi, Tex , killing 11 and causing $450 million damage Aug 3, 1970 Last quarter of the moon Aug 4 (Thurs) Average length of days for the week 14 hours, 21 minutes American social philosopher Scott Nearing born at Morris Run, Pa , Aug 6, 1883 A sore head hates the comb

Ask the Old Farmer: I painted the cement floor of my screened in porch using a deck paint, but the paint soon chipped and now comes off as a red powder What went wrong, and how can I repaint it properly? A B Canandaigua N Y

It sounds like you painted the floor before it was fully dry and the moisture forced its way to the surface cracking the paint You'll need to remove the paint by sanding then apply a good masonry paint

Home Hints To make your own eyeglass cleaning fluid fill a spray bottle with water and a little white vinegar

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Week begins rainy and cool, midweek partly cloudy and mild end of week cool with showers

Greater New York-New Jersey: Through midweek cool with intermittent rain end of week sunny and warm

OPINION

Let's Find The Shooter

For the second time in as many months, a farm animal has been shot while sleeping in the pasture. Last month a Hereford bull calf was shot with an arrow. Not only did the calf suffer, the farmer had an unnecessary expensive hospital bill from New Bolton Center. In addition, a heifer calf was stolen at the same time.

This week a bred Holstein heifer was shot at night. This animal survives only because the shooter was a poor marksman.

We find it hard to believe that anyone is so deranged that they would want to cause animals to suffer by pinging rifle bullets off their heads and lodging arrows in their throats. But deranged they must be. Any true farmer at heart hurts within himself almost more for the suffering of his animals than for his economic loss.

We can only hope that should you know or see anything or anyone that may provide a clue to who did these horrendous acts of violence to these animals-- we can only hope that you will call the police. You may remain anonymous if you wish.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

Mark Twain used to say there were liars, ---- liars, and statistics. I'd like to amend that and say that there are liars, ---- liars, and budget figures.

Over the last several weeks, farmers from one end of the state to the other have been led to believe that the Governor cut the heart out of agriculture by signing a state budget.

Balderdash! What he did was avert a budget crisis that could have stopped state spending for agriculture altogether. If he had not signed the only state budget presented to him before the July 1 deadline, state funding would have stopped: period.

In the meantime, he has and will continue to urge the State Senate to get serious about passing a budget that is balanced and fair.

When that happens — and I am confident that it will — we will finally see the true budget figures.

In the meantime, let's hope we get a lot less rhetoric and a lot more rain.

To Attend Ag Progress Days

Most farmers do not need much prodding to visit an agricultural show whether it is in the county or half way across the state.

Each year thousands of people have jammed Penn State University's Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center, nine miles weset of Boalsburg on Route 45, to attend the Annual Ag Progress Days. The dates are August 16-18. Activities will start at 9:00 a.m. and end at 5:00 p.m. each day.

This year's show should be one of the biggest and best ever. The theme of this year's event is "An Industry Called Agriculture." Come to Ag Progress Days and see how agriculture research affects your life. Special exhibits will show why agriculture is Pennsylvania's #1 industry.

Take a day out of your busy schedule (you've earned it) and plan to attend Ag Progress Days. Parking and admission are free.

To Observe Poultry Month

The Lancaster County Commissioners have proclaimed August as Poultry Month. So, this is a good time to reflect on the impact this important industry has on the economy of Lancaster County. Poultry products in Lancaster County provide nourishment for over 6 million people. The value of the poultry products sold totaled over $193 million. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 people are employed in the many different areas of the poultry industry in Lancaster County.

The industry is strong because of the dedicated, well-managed poultry farms along with a highly efficient and supportive allied industry. Eggs and poultry meat are two of the most nourishing foods in your health diet. Let's be supportive of this important part of our agricultural economy during Poultry Month.

To Communicate With Legislators

How long has it been since you, as a farmer, have been in contact with your Senator, Congressman, or Representative?

I'm afraid that too many of us are reluctant to inform our legislators how we feel on certain issues. Yet we expect them to represent us and support legislators to our satisfaction.

It often has been said that farmers do not make enough "noise" when it comes to agricultural legislation. This is no doubt true, but it should not be that way.

You have heard the phrase "the wheel that squeaks the loudest gets the grease." I feel that too many times those who sound off the loudest do not represent the majority views of the farmers.

Don't hesitate to be on good terms with your elected officials; they will appreciate your opinions and it will help them with their major decisions.

To Be Aware of the Pollen Count

The "hay fever" season is here. Despite its name, "hay" is not normally the cause of hay fever. Ragweed is the chief cause. Ninety percent of all allergic reactions to grass and weed pollens are due to ragweed.

Hay fever is a seasonal disease. It's a disease that many people tend to minimize despite the fact that one out of every three sufferers develop its serious form — chronic asthma.

In Lancaster County it is widespread from early August through September when the weeds flower. The best way to destroy ragweed over large areas is by the use of a weed spray such as 2,4-D. Cutting the plant low, near the roots is recommended for small areas. The best way to prevent the spread of ragweed is to keep idle land covered with grass.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

SHALL WE LIVE BY THE RULES?
July 31, 1988

Background Scripture: Exodus 19 through 20.

Devotional Reading: Exodus 20:2-17.

A little boy was asked by his Sunday School teacher to name one of the Ten Commandments. In genuine puzzlement, the lad responded: "Gee, I thought they had repealed them!" I think I can understand why it might seem the Ten Commandments are no longer in force. It's not just that people don't seem to be keeping them, but that much of our society acts as if they no longer apply in the present age.

Many people, for example, see nothing wrong with killing ("It's time to rid our society of certain elements"), adultery ("We have an 'open marriage'"), stealing (another term for "shrewd business"), bearing false witness ("it sells newspapers"), and covetousness (a basic ingredient of successful advertising).

THE OLD RULES GONE

The reason behind all of the disregard of the Ten Commandments, as well as all other religious rules and laws, is that many people believe that the old rules are no longer valid for our times. The days in which we live, they point out, are much too complex for us to live by these old rules. Others remind us that even Jesus didn't hold with the strict rules for the observance of the sabbath. Actually, Jesus urged his disciples to live beyond the law, rather than in violation of it. The law, including the Ten Commandments, is a starting point, not the end of the line. So, it is not so much a matter of repealing the old rules, but of taking them several steps further to meet the complexities of the times in which we live.

Actually, there is something even more important than the old rules -- and this is true even in the Exodus 19 and 20 passages about the Ten Commandments. For, behind the rules and prior to them is the covenant relationship between God and his people: "Now therefore, if you will obey my voice and keep my covenant, you shall be my own possession among all peoples; for all the earth is mine, and you shall be to me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation" (19:5,6).

A HOLY NATION

We must never overlook the fact that everything begins and stems from our relationship with god, the covenant we make with him. Recently a poll indicated that a majority of Americans still hold some belief in God. But the real question is, not do you believe in God, but have you committed yourself to him. If you have, then your morals and ethics will follow from your relationship.

We still need the old rules, but much more than that, we need to commit ourselves to him and his will.

KEYSTONE MILLS

"MAXI-SIL"

Proven By Research And Local Farm Results To Provide:

- Faster fermentation...Promotes rapid drop in pH, which causes natural lactic acid producing organisms to grow at a higher rate.
- Less spoilage... Silage on exposed face of trench or pit silos remains palatable over a longer period of time.
- Flexible... Can be used in trench, pit, bag, or upright silos and with any forage crops used for silage.
- Cost Efficient...1 lb. of free-flowing Purina Maxi-Sil will treat a ton of silage.
- Non-corrosive... Will not damage equipment.
- Longer lasting... No refrigeration required and can be stored in any type facility.

NEW

For alfalfa growers

Pounce on leafhoppers.

Introducing new Pounce 3.2EC Insecticide from FMC. It's everything you've ever wanted in a potato leafhopper insecticide and more.

Pounce controls potato leafhopper fast. The high tech pyrethroid chemistry in Pounce provides excellent control of leafhopper and seventeen other alfalfa insects including alfalfa weevil, aphids and loopers. And you can spray Pounce right up to the day you harvest for maximum yield protection.

Pounce is effective at rates as low as four ounces per acre so it's competitively priced compared to what you have been using.

That's Pounce 3.2EC insecticide for effective, quick and economical potato leafhopper control right up to the day you harvest. It's just been cleared for use and it's available at your chemical dealer now.

BRING OUT THE BEAUTY IN YOUR BEAST.

WITH PRO LEAN PIG STARTER PLUS. It has more of everything weaned pigs need for superior health and appearance. More, in fact, than its popular predecessor Pro Lean Pig Starter Pellets.

—Higher energy and quality protein in each bite for faster growth

—More milk nutrients for more weight gain per pound of feed consumed

—More vitamins and minerals, including the maximum allowable selenium level

And it's pelleted, so they eat more, gain more, waste less and use less per pound of gain. For better looking pigs and profits, ask for Pig Starter Plus at your local Agway store or from your Agway Salesperson.

W-L Alfalfas

Why grow anything but the Best?

"W-L is very definitely a high quality seed. The varieties are dependable, the crop is more persistent, and I think the hay quality is better. I took 4 cuttings last year, and the fourth was just like the first!"

Carl Kreider
Quarryville, PA

"I plant 900 acres with W-L because it gives me tonnage and quality. WL 316 comes back quickly and stays fine. When you're doing as many acres as I am, that leaf to stem ratio is important."

Dean Stuart
Corning, NY

"The WL 318 has done very well. We've got one bed we planted 8 years ago, and it's still producing. We got four cuttings this year! And we planted some 316 this Spring, and it did exceptionally well!"

Ross Smith, Jr.

Dairymen Receive Silver Cow Awards

SYRACUSE, NY — Two dairy leaders were recently recognized for their outstanding contributions to the dairy industry in Onondaga County. Robert Harrison, a dairy farmer from Skaneateles, NY and Helen Fountain, a 25-year employee of Dairylea Corporation Inc., from Fayetteville, NY, were recently honored with the Silver Cow Award.

The award, sponsored by the Onondaga County June Dairy Month Committee, is presented to an outstanding dairy farmer who has actively supported the dairy industry in Onondaga County, and to an agri-business person who has contributed to the improvement of the dairy community in Onondaga County.

Bob Harrison operates a 465 acre farm in Skaneateles and has a dairy herd consisting of 100 Holstein cows and 100 head of young stock. His dairy has a reputation for producing the highest quality milk. In 1987, Harrison and his wife, Elsie were recognized as Dairylea's #1 Quality Milk Producer among the cooperatives 3,000 members in the Northeast.

Harrison currently serves as Dairylea Sub-District 10B President. He is a district director for the American Dairy Association and he has been involved in the county June Dairy Month Committee for many years. In addition, he and his family have hosted farm tours for students, families and foreign dignitaries and an effort to promote the dairy industry.

Helen Fountain has been involved in agri-business for over 25 years as a Dairylea employee. She holds a bachelor's degree in home economics from the State University of New York at Buffalo and a master's degree from Syracuse University. She joined Dairylea in 1963 as supervisor of women's programs. Presently, she is manager of member programs.

She currently serves as secretary of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, which sponsors the Dairy of Distinction Program. She was instrumental in the organization and implementation of this program in New York state where it originated. The program has since been expanded to New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

For many years she served on the board of the New York State Council of Farm Cooperatives and has been secretary for the past five years. She has been a member of the New York State Fair Dairy Task Force which organizes the annual New York State Fair Dairy Day Program.

The awards were presented at the annual June Dairy Month Banquet, held on June 26 at the Jamesville Grove Restaurant.

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based milk marketing cooperative with 3,000 dairy farmer members throughout the Northeast. Dairylea plants in Syracuse, Vernon and Oneida, NY produce fluid milk, cream, Lactaid and cultured and ultra-pasturized products. With 1987 sales of $342 million, it is among the nation's top 100 food marketers.

Londondale Farms Captures Top Honors

BY BETH HUBER
Maryland Correspondent

SYKESVILLE (Jefferson) — Although the day began with high temperatures and humidity, a much-needed rainfall, turned it into a pleasant occasion at the Jefferson County Holstein show.

Approximately 200 head were shown to judge Ransom "Buzz" Rydell. Returning this year to capture top honors in the show was Londondale Farms of Punxsutawney. Londondale Matinee Dutchess, the 3-year-old daughter of Higher View Matinee, bred by Jim London, returned to capture all the top honors in the open show for the second straight year. Brett Nesbit of Bra-Mar Farm, Marchand, captured the reserve grand champion title with Bra-Mar Very Popcorn, a 5-year-old daughter of Kingway Elevation very.

Receiving junior champion honors were C. Brucrest Warden Mia, sired by Hilltopper Elevation Warden, and Parkacres Melvin Racquel, a Mel-Est Valiant Irose Melvin daughter. Leading these two animals was Dan Park of Parkacres in Brookville. Dan led his intermediate yearling and senior heifer calf to the junior champion and reserve junior champion positions respectively.

Lycoming County Fair Dairy Show Results

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming) — "They should have set the fair up a couple weeks ago then we would have gotten some rain sooner," was a tongue in cheek comment echoed again and again by farmers and fairgoers alike at the rainy 118th Lycoming County Fair. The fair was held from July 14 to the 23 at the Hughesville fairgrounds.

Ironically, at the start of the fair officials expressed concern about possible fire hazards because of the long dry spell and also considered the possibility that some farmers would not bring animals because of the heat. But a two-inch rainfall on the third evening of the fair and showers nearly every day thereafter cooled things off and silenced any remaining fears of fire hazards. All barns were filled to capacity.

Wilbur Rogers, sheep manager, reported a substantial increase in the number of sheep entries this year and the swine section reportedly could have used more space. And in this year of the drought, such wet weather nuisances as wading in mud and carrying an umbrella were performed with nary a complaint by fairgoers, grateful for the life-giving rains.

Holstein Open Dairy Show

Major prizes in the Holstein Open Show on July 20 were garnered by Ritter-Ridge Farms, Muncy, for showing the grand champion Holstein and winning the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards.

According to Paul Ritter, there is a special delight in having their two-year-old, Ritter-Ridge Tempo Cotton, take the grand champion trophy this year.

"This cow is a descendant of my first 4-H project I brought to the fair 28 years ago," Ritter relates with a happy smile.

Cotton's dam won honorable mention in the All Pennsylvania Contest, Ritter says, and Cotton won the junior champion trophy at last year's fair. Currently, he adds, Cotton is producing 70 pounds of milk on test and is projected at 18,000 of milk for the year.

No stranger to the winner's circle, the Ritter family of Ritter-Ridge Farms has won the grand and reserve awards along with the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners at the Lycoming County Fair several times during the past 10 years. For 28 consecutive years, the Ritter family has been showing their cows at the Lycoming County Fair.

Ritter-Ridge is a 250-acre family farm. The Ritters farm an additional 250 rented acres to feed their 250 head of cattle of which they presently milk 106 cows. They maintain a RHA of 18,600 pounds with 650 pounds butterfat. The farm is operated by Hilda Ritter, son, Paul, and his wife, Linda, with some help from a daughter, Janet Ritter Stackhouse.

The reserve grand champion Holstein trophy went to a four-year-old owned by Robert Cross, Unityville. Cross said his entry, Gar-Sher Penn Candy, averaged 26,000 pounds of milk with a 4.1 fat test and 1084 pounds of fat as a two-year-old. He added that Candy was purchased at the New York State Bred Heifer Sale and her dam averaged 22,000 pounds of milk with a 4.7 test.

According to Cross, this is the second time he has shown cattle at the Lycoming County Fair. Wendy Kulp and Bob Cross milk 65 Holstein at their Unityville farm.

Judge for the Holstein Show was Norman Hill, Woodbine, MD.

Colored Breed Show

In the Colored Breed Open Dairy Show held July 21, the grand champion trophy in the Ayrshire division went to a 10-year-old named Star's Delight owned by Betty Staman of Valley Bell Farms, Montgomery. She won best udder of her breed.

According to Staman, she is an Oakridge Commanders Star daughter and has a DHIA rating of 13,401 pounds of milk with a 3.9 percent fat and 522 pounds of fat. She had won the grand championship and the best udder awards previously at another fair.

Although a grand champion, Star's Delight is one Ayrshire among 62 Holsteins at Valley Bell Farms, Montgomery.

"I had her before I got married," Staman explained. "My husband got a package deal."

For next year's fair, Staman said, her husband, Burt Jr., who didn't fare as well in the Holstein competition, had one request ---he wanted her to leave her Ayrshire at home.

Valley Bell Farms is a 200-acre family farm owned and operated by Burton Staman Sr. and Burton Staman Jr. and wives, Marjorie and Betty, respectively.

The reserve grand champion trophy in the Ayrshire breed went to 15-year-old Todd Russell of Lov-Dale Dairy Farms, Linden, for his five-year-old entry, Penn Springs M.B. Gloria.

According to Russell, Gloria in previous years has won reserve grand and grand championships in 4-H competition, the grand champion trophy at districts and placed second in her class at the state show. This year Russell swept the 4-H competition by winning the grand championship with Gloria and the reserve championship with another entry, Lov-Dale Liberace Sweet P, a summer yearling.

Ritter-Ridge Farms' Paul Ritter accepts the trophy for the grand champion Holstein, while Robert Cross, right, receives the reserve grand champion trophy. Beth Ann Cooley, Lycoming County dairy princess, and Carolyn Cline, alternate dairy princess, look on.

Gloria is out of Penn Spring D. Gail and was sired by Madge's Boy. She was purchased from Ronald Martin of Penn Spring Farms, Mill Hall and averages 16,000 pounds of milk.

Concerning his win in the open show, Russell remarked, "I was kind of disappointed because my main competition wasn't there."

At Lov-Dale Farms, Russell says, they milk about 130 cows, mostly Holsteins except for 20 Ayrshires, and farm between 600 and 700 acres.

Twin four-year-olds owned by Ernie and Wanda Derr and Curtis Muffley, Cogan Station, took the top honors in the Jersey breed. Swingles Saint Futti and Swingle Saint Tutti, earned the grand and reserve grand trophies respectively. Swingles Saint Futti, the grand champion, has a record of 10,000 pounds of milk with 5.2 percent fat. The Derrs purchased the champions' dam already bred by John and William Swingles of Canton.

The Derrs' Jersey entries have captured the grand champion trophy several times at the fair during the past nine years, according to Wanda. She noted she and her husband have been showing cattle for a combined total of 22 years at the fair.

The grand champion and reserve grand champion Jerseys are owned by partners Ernie and Wanda Derr and Curtis Muffley of Cogan Station. Curtis, second from right, hold the grand champion, while Ernie and Wanda pose with the reserve grand champion. Standing by are Beth Ann Cooley, Lycoming County dairy princess and Don Koontz, judge.

About winning --- "It's nice to be recognized when you have a good animal," Wanda comments. She reports during the competition she had to restrain a smile when the judge, unaware he was comparing twins, remarked with some puzzlement, "There's just a lot of similarities between the two." The Derrs and Muffley farm 160 acres, keep 75 head of Jerseys, and currently milk 48 cows.

THREE NEW STEPS TO SUCKER CONTROL.

Now you can save time and get effective sucker control by spraying Prime+® over the top and following up later with an application of MH.

It's a simple, sequential application. Just spray Prime+ over the top at the early flower to elongated bud stage. Wait a week, then apply MH. You'll get great sucker control plus the convenience of over the top application.

It's the way to grow quality tobacco. Of course, applying Prime+ by hand with a dropline, by backpack sprayer or from the jug is still went to Stephanie Stackhouse, Stillwater. The grand champion cow was a seven-year-old named Holdren Astro Amanda.

In the Brown Swiss breed Curtis Ulmer, Linden, and member of the State Run 4-H, took home the grand champion trophy for his intermediate heifer calf, Fantasy Johnny D. Princess. Reserve Grand champion went to Lola Shaner, Turbotville for her junior heifer entry, Dolly.

Judge for the colored breed show was Don Koontz, Fredonia, Pa.

Feeding Strategy Meetings Scheduled

LANCASTER — Because of the summer drought, many farmers are facing tight feed supplies and higher feed costs. They find it necessary to make drastic changes in feeding, cropping and financial management.

Two meetings have been scheduled by Penn State Cooperative Extension of Chester and Lancaster Counties to help farmers decide "What to Grow, What to Feed and What to Buy."

On Monday evening, August 8, a meeting will be held 7:30 p.m. at the West Fallowfield Christian Day School, south of Atglen.

On Tuesday evening, August 9, the program will be repeated 7:30 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

Dr. Richard Adams, Penn State dairy nutritionist, wiill focus on the use of alternative feeds and feeding strategies. How can farmers stretch their present feed supplies and make the best use of what they already have on hand? What feeds may be good buys? What precautions need to be observed when using alternative feeds?

Emergency crops that can provide additional feed this fall and next spring will be discussed by farm management agent, Bruce Kreider.

Alan Strock, farm management agent, will discuss herd culling strategies and take a look at what lies ahead for the future.

an extremely effective way to get sucker control too. In sequential application with MH or all by itself.

So look into the benefits of Prime+. Whether applied alone, or in a sequential over the top application with MH, it's a great way to get

Atlantic Dairy Coop Awards NICE Youth Scholarships

SOUTHAMPTON (Berks) — In its continuing commitment to youth education, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has awarded scholarships to six high school students to attend the 1988 National Institute on Cooperative Education (NICE), July 26-29, in Rochester, N.Y.

The youth scholars, sons and daughters of Atlantic members, were selected to attend the NICE conference based on their participation in the 1988 Cooperative Business Seminars for Teens, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives.

Representing Atlantic are: Jennifer Harnish, Christiana, Pa.; John Hess, Gettysburg, Pa.; Kathy Jones, Mt. Holly, N.J.; Noel Scheib, Phoenixville, Pa.; Robert O'Toole, Loysville, Pa.; and Scott Youse, Oley, Pa.

Jennifer Harnish, the daughter of R. Edwin and Arlene Harnish, is a senior at Solanco High School. She is president of her Future Farmers of America Chapter and is a member of the marching and concert bands, orchestra and the National Honor Society. She is active in the Bart Youth Group.

The son of John and Bonnie Hess, John Hess is a senior at New Oxford High School. He is president of his Future Farmers of America Chapter and is a student government representative. He is also a member of the Bethel Mennonite Church.

A senior at Rancocas Valley Region High School, Kathy Jones is the daughter of Lester Jr. and Diane Jones. She is a member of the marching band, orchestra, string ensemble, field hockey and track teams and the student council. She is active in 4-H and the St. Martin's Church.

Noel Scheib, the daughter of Clyde and Alda Scheib, is a tenth grader at Owen J. Roberts High School. She is a member of the Key Club, concert and marching bands, yearbook staff and the German club. She teachers Sunday School at the Centennial Evangelical Lutheran Church and is a 4-H member.

A junior at West Perry High School, Robert O'Toole is the son of the Frank and Carol O'Toole. He is a member of the Future Farmers of America and the Computer Club. He is also active in the community orchestra and the Sandy Hill United Church of Christ.

Scott Youse, the son of Paul and Linda Youse, is a junior at Oley Valley High School. He is president of his Future Farmers of America Chapter. He is also active in the Berks County Junior Holstein Club, the 4-H Dairy Club, the Oley Valley Fair Association and the Fleetwood Grange.

The American Institute of Cooperation, based in Washington, D.C., sponsors the National Institute on Cooperative Education to explain the role of cooperatives in today's business world. The theme of this year's conference is "Designing for Opportunity."

Truck Regulation Meeting Set

WESTMINSTER, MD — Carroll County farmers with trucks over 10,000 lbs. gross weight need to be aware of new regulations regarding farm trucks, according to David L. Greene, Extension Agent, Agricultural Science, Carroll County. The Maryland State Police are more vigorously enforcing these new requirements with a beefed-up force.

Maryland Farm Bureau in cooperation with the Maryland State Police are sponsoring regional meetings to explain the requirements regarding the operation of farm trucks according to the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations. These federal regulations were adopted by the state of Maryland in 1985. Since that time, personnel have been trained to enforce these regulations and compliance problems are coming to light.

A meeting scheduled for the region will be held on Tuesday, August 2, 8:00 p.m., at the Lisbon Fire Hall (Howard County).

Greene says, "It is very important for anyone that owns or operates a truck in excess of 10,000 pounds gross vehicle weight to attend the meeting. The regulations are in effect and will be enforced. They include driver qualifications, safety equipment, log books, vehicle inspections and hazardous materials. Noncompliance with the regulations could result in fines up to $1,000."

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Congressman Goodling, Farmers Discuss Drought Issues

BY JOYCE RUPP
York Co. Correspondent

BAIR (York Co.) — Where is all the surplus corn in this country?

And, one thing farmers don't need are more low-interest loans.

Those were two key issues of discussion as Congressman Bill Goodling (R-19th) met July 21 with area farmers, facing a third consecutive year of drought-induced crop shortages.

More than 200 farmers, farm agency officials and agribusiness representatives, from as far away as Northampton County, converged on the York 4-H Center for the session.

"This large a turnout underscores just how bad the situation is," observed York Extension Agent Tony Dobrosky.

Congressman Goodling, after displaying two barren ears of corn from a local field, reviewed a summary of the Drought Assistance Act of 1988.

Through most of the session, however, Congressman Goodling listened and took notes, as farmers related the problems of feed shortages and higher costs, increasing debt and slashed cash flow.

"I want to go back to the Ag Committees and tell them that the farms they're working with are large farms; here we have small farms," Goodling said.

He related that he had no answers on where the surplus corn is, or how farmers would go about buying it, but it would be the first question he intended to pursue on returning to Washington.

A group of Delta-area farmers, represented by feed firm operator Marlyn Flaharty as their spokesman, distributed a two-page summary of drought-response suggestions. They included a suggested two dollar first class milk price increase and one dollar excess price reduction per hundredweight, no more buyouts unless totally Federally funded, and either a quota system or revised base shipping period.

The group also called for revised Emergency Feed Assistance Programs, disregarding hay, silage and pasture in assessing qualification for grain for livestock and dairy. Those who purchase all feed grains normally would need to be addressed separately.

Also suggested by the "Delta group" is possible mandated crop insurance coverage, in order for producers to qualify for future disaster assistance. Setting aside bank principal payments on loans for a year, to enhance cash flow to the farm input supply system was another recommendation.

Current crop insurance program, however, came in from criticism from some already involved, as being "inadequate" and in some cases useless without "cross compliance." Complicated paperwork and time involved in signup for farm programs also elicited verbal jabs from disgruntled participants.

Frustration with the farm cost-prize squeeze, enhanced by the nationwide drought, was evident as speaker after speaker addressed cash flow problems, low return for long hours and high input costs,

Congressman Bill Goodling, displaying a copy of the WASHINGTON POST, expressed concern that Congressional Ag Committees positions, and ag-related legislation, tie too closely to areas and needs of large farms, not the smaller ones more typical of Pennsylvania.

The Master's Chair will be filled by State Overseer, William H. Ringler, a retired Dairy farmer from Somerset County.

Ringler is from Berlin, Pennsylvania, where he has been a farmer for 47 years. He is married, has two children and five grandchildren. Ringler and his son own and operate the 180 acre, W-J Farm. .

Ringler's activities over the years have been many, with Grange interest heading the list. He has been Master of Wills Grange and Overseer of Somerset County Grange. He has had legislative and political experience with the Grange when he was Legislative Committee Chairman. Ringler was Deputy State Master and Overseer of the PA State Grange until recently when he became the State Master.

Ringler received several awards including Granger of the Year, Grange Family, Master Farmer and the Century Farm Award.

Whose Milk Is It Anyway?

If you're not in RCMA you're not in control.

You're up early, and you work long hours. That's part of dairying We all know that. For too long another part of dairying has been that farmers have not had any say in pricing their milk That may have been okay a few years ago when the government-supported price was enough to make a living on, but now prices have dropped through the floor And they're expected to keep falling

Have a say in what your blood and sweat is worth.

Right now, dairy farmers have an opportunity to gain a say in establishing a fair price for milk Some milk dealers want you to leave pricing strictly to them They want you to believe they have your best interests in mind Think about it Their businesses come first, and they'll pay only as much as they really have to for your milk RCMA premiums will be here tomorrow, month in, month out Not just for as long as some milk dealer thinks they should be Want to gain control of your milk?

Valiant Duaghter Brings Top Bid At Sale

BY LISA RISSER

KUTZTOWN (Berks) — Carrying on the family tradition, MC-R-R Art-Acres Kay U2-ET brought top dollar at the Sire Power Sale held here Wednesday. The 10-month-old daughter of Modik Valiant Count out of Art-Acres Marbeth Kay U was sold for $8,000 to Junge Farms Inc. of New Tripoli, Md. She was consigned by Kay U Syndicate of Hagerstown, Md.

The dam was sold at the 1985 Sire Power Sale and brought the sale high of $25,000. Art-Acres Marbeth Kay U carries a Cow Index of +56 protein, +62 fat, +1970 milk, and +$212 as recorded in the June index. Her latest record is 36,040 pounds of milk and 1,341 pounds butterfat in 365 days. The EX-90 cow has two Excellent and eight Very Good maternal sisters and is sired by Cal-Clark Board Chairman.

Art-Acres Elevation Kay, the second dam, is classified as EX-91 and has a life-time record of 138,980 pounds of milk and 4,370 pounds of fat. She has 17 sons in AI, including one EX-91, and three Excellent and 14 Very Good daughters.

The next dam, Art-Acres K I Kyland, possesses a life-time record of 109,830 pounds milk and 3,771 pounds of butterfat. She is classified Very Good-86.

The sale's second highest bid went for Mims-Dreams Leader Bubbles, a two-year-old rated Very Good-87, consigned by Miriam Hess of New Windsor, Md. Purchasing the Kinglea Leader daughter for $7,200 was Marlin Hoff in partnership with John L. King Jr. of New Windsor, Md.

Mims-Dreams Leader Bubbles has a Cow Index of +40 protein, +45 fat, +1534 milk, and +$173 as reported in the July index. For her first lactation of 354 days she had 23,920 pounds of milk and 883 pounds of butterfat. She is bred to Modik Valiant Count.

Her dam, Mims-Dream Klansman Buttons, is a Very Good-85 with a Cow Index of +22 protein, +32 fat, +1263 Milk, and +$124. This Coldsprings Klansman daughter carries a record of 25,980 pounds of milk and 951 pounds butterfat in 365 days.

Mims-Dream Cinnamon Bran, the second dam, is a Coldsprings Amos Govern daughter with a EX-90 rating. Her records top at 34,090 pounds of milk and 1,337 pounds of butterfat in 365 days.

The sale brought $150,050 with an average price of $2,420.16 per animal. The purchaser who went home with the most animals was James B. Johnson of Hampton, N.C. He bought five animals.

Remsburg Sale Service of Jefferson, Md. and Backus Associates Inc. sponsored the sale. Denny Remsburg shared the auctioneering duties with Mike Weimer. Norman Hill and Jay Howes worked the ring.

This 10-month-old daughter of Modik Valiant Count out of Art-Acres Marbeth Kay U was the highest-selling animal at the Sire Power Sale on Wednesday. She was purchased for $8,000 by Junge Farms Inc. MC-R-R Art-Acres Kay U2-ET stands here with friends.

Mims-Dreams Leader Bubbles, a two-year-old rated Very Good-87, brought the second highest dollar amount at the sale. Marlin Hoff and John L. King purchased her for $7,200. Standing with her are members of the sales force and Sire Power.

Lebanon County Authorized For Emergency Haying, Grazing

HARRISBURG-The US Department of Agriculture has approved Lebanon County for emergency haying and grazing of 1988 conservation reserve and conservation use acreage.

Under provisions of this program, producers may request authority from the local county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office to permit other producers use of this acreage or to harvest and sell hay from this acreage. "The purpose of this relief is to allow an improved supply of livestock feed in severely affected areas of the state," said Don Unangst, State Executive Director of ASCS.

This brings to 63 the total number of counties approved to date.

Director Lists Ways To Preserve Farmland

BY ALAN R. MUSSELMAN
Executive Director, Friends of Ag Land Preservation

Saving Lancaster County farmland from development is an important issue for most folks. We are the "Garden Spot of America"; we all depend on our countryside in many ways. To many it is your livelihood, your family's future and part of you. The land is of financial, family and emotional dimensions. What happens to the land in the future is important.

Now we number more than 400,000 people and our cities and towns have given way to suburbia and spillover rural development which has begun to affect our agricultural future.

Farmland preservation is not a matter of "growth or no-growth" as some have attempted to make it but a matter of both sound planning for how and where our communities will grow and protecting our best farmland resources for ourselves and for the next generations.

The tools used to preserve farmland are many:

FAMILY COMMITMENT

This "preservation tool" has been around for 200 years and, for the most part, it works. Family decisions not to sell for development; to hand the farm down from generation to generation or, when sold, to sell to a young farmer are the most longstanding, persistent factors in Lancaster County's countryside being what it is. However, the pressures are mounting; the decisions are tougher as development and land value pressures grow. What can you do? Congratulate those who have worked hard and maintained a commitment to the land and farming. It's not easy.

If you are a member of a farm family, get the extended family together and talk about your values and hopes for the future of the farm. What would be gained and lost if it were sold from the family? If it were developed? How would neighbors and community be affected?

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING

This is an important long range layout of policy and maps to show how the community should grow and how it can be protected and improved. Townships and Lancaster County have continuous planning processes and adopted plans. Know your community plan. What are the policies for farmland protection? Are those policies being implemented?

EFFECTIVE AGRICULTURAL ZONING

This is zoning which actually protects farmland from extensive development. Most Lancaster County Townships have effective agricultural zoning. The most common approach is to permit one new house, on small lots for every 20 or 25 acres on an original farm. (No more than several houses per farm.) This is called Non-Exclusive Agricultural Zoning. Zoning is regulatory and changeable. Effectivev agricultural zoning should include strong provisions for permitting compatible on-farm businesses. Most Townships have a strong commitment and this is the most widespread and important measure available to protect farmland. Some Townships, however, still have agricultural or rural zoning districts which permit development of every acre of land. Among these Townships which include Strasburg, Pequea, Manor, East Hempfield, Leacock, Penn and Rapho development pressures are as strong as ever.

AGRICULTURAL AREAS

Agricultural Areas (previously Preserves) are mapped and formally adopted areas which do not regulate land use but establish eligibility for compensation for conservation easements (or deed restrictions), protect farm areas from public condemnation for unplanned capital projects and provide insulation for the farmer from nuisance complaints and suits concerning normal agricultural activities.

Agricultural Areas focus both priiority and preservation dollars on a defined area. Seven agricultural Areas have been established in Lancaster County.

The process involves landowners, Township government and County government.

CONSERVATION EASEMENTS

A conservation easement (or deed restriction) is a legal instrument which protects land from being extensively developed by becoming part of the deed to property and is held in trust by a qualified conservation organization or government.

A conservation easement can be permanent or for a term of years, usually more than 25. Permanent easements, if donated, have an appraisable value which can be used as a "charitable conservation contribution" and reduce federal income taxes over a period of up to six years. Esements donated for a term are not tax deductible. Conservation easements can also be sold either permanently or for a term. Lancaster County acquires easements, only in established Agricultural Areas, on the basis of the easements appraised value. Lancaster County's approach will be better funded when the state farmland preservation program is enacted, possibly in January 1989. (CONTACT YOUR STATE LEGISLATORS.)

If a landowner elects to sell a conservation easement for an amount less than the easement's appraised value this is a "bargain sale" and may also be eligible for tax advantages.

Conservation easements are strong legal instruments which protect farmland, natural land and can be drafted to protect historic buildings as well.

FARMLAND PURCHASES, EASEMENT AND RESALE

Both public and private preservation organizations may buy a farm when it comes on the market, place a permanent easement to protect the property and immediately offer the farm for resale.

This purchase and resale method can be expensive but is very targeted to those properties most likely to be converted to some other land use. Many conservation organizations are making this approach more feasible by LIMITED DEVELOPMENT - selling a small portion of the land for development to save most of it. The Agricultural Preserve Board limits purchase and resale to Agricultural Areas, other conservation organizations need not limit acquisitions.

FARMLAND REGISTRY

Similar to family commitment but more formal a REGISTRY may involve a handshake or more formal agreement between the means. Dewitt explained that the translation from original Hebrew means that "As the Lord keeps his people, so must you keep the land."

Farmers are often considered guilty of misusing the land by using harmful pesticides, too much fertilizer and raping the land of its natural resources to get it to produce more and more. DeWitt said that according to scriptural principals, human beings must give the earth its sabbath for a time of regeneration and recuperation. That requires that the land lie fallow every seventh year.

"We should not confuse growth quality with quantity," he said. He quoted from an Amish Diary which interprets rich as meaning to possess more than necessary for contentment and urged the audience to think about how that applies to land destruction.

Participants of the three day conference discussed land use issues during lunchtime. Above Erma Weaver, Manheim, and Omer Brubaker, Lancaster, agreed that solutions to land usage will not be easily solved. "But," Erma stressed, "it's important to have meetings like this or land policy will never get changed."

Stewardship farming

Ron Kroese, founder and director of Land Stewardship Project in Minnesota told the audience that stewardship farming must be practiced to help farmers use internal resources and move to more sustainable farm programs. "Too often," he said, "the system operates in conflict with nature."

He spoke of U. S. agriculture using violent methods of weed control, which he believes is waging war on the land. He challenged, "The land that we use and draw substance from, we must stop abusing."

Kroese urged, "Let's stop treating our soil like dirt." He stated that in the U.S. we have approximately 5 million tons of soil runoff yearly and the average homeowner puts 600 pounds of nitrogen on lawn.

"Weeds have a purpose," Kroese claims. "Each one likes a nutrient that the soil has and that causes it to flourish. Weeds help bring the soil into balance the natural way."

"We won't get agriculture problems straightened until society changes values as a whole," Kroese contended. "What we are seeing in agriculture reflects crisis in our culture and in society." We need to get USDA to make a committment to support farming that works with nature.

Left, Calvin Dewitt, professor of Environmental Studies at the University of Wisconsin, discusses enviromental issues with Ron Kroese, right, founder and director for the land stewardship project in Minnesota and Dr. John Hostetler, who helped planned the Conference on Land, Ethics, and Community Values, held at Elizabethtown College on July 21-23.

A panel discussion on land ethics and the religious perspectives" was led by Dean Steinhart, director of the office of environmental education for the state Department of Education. During the discussion the audience asked questions and gave their views on land problems.

While some scholars spoke of ideals and mystical land ideas, a women from the audience charged, "You're talking on too high of level. What are you going to do about it? I can't believe it's practical for society to return to the Amish way of farming."

Panel participants replied that ethics rule the community. Rev. Jonathan Jenkins of the Luthern chuch said, "We must choose to develop land ethic or ideology that should embrace all people in vision."

Boyer Has 4-H Supreme Champ In York

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Top prize at the York County 4-H Dairy Roundup, held Wednesday at the York Fairgrounds, went home with veteran 4-H dairy exhibitor Bridgette Boyer.

Sunnybend Sexy Icicle B Star, a 4-year-old sired by Ocean-View Sexation, won the Supreme Champion trophy of the Roundup for her owner-breeder. The Supreme trophy award capped her earlier winning of the senior and grand champion honors in the Holstein category.

Eighteen-year-old Bridgette made a clean sweep of the senior Holstein awards, capturing reserve senior and grand with the champion's maternal sister. Her reserve winner, Sunnybend Kitten Bootmaker, by Paclamar Bootmaker, is a three-year-old. The maternal sisters were also named champion and reserve bred and owned.

Junior champion honors in the Holstein category went to Downa Doll with Dar-Dale Pabst Betty, an intermediate calf by Char-Sam Elevation Pabst. Matt Reheard took the reserve junior championship with his senior calf class winner.

Jersey senior and grand champion honors went to Tim Warner, exhibiting Top-O-Hill Silver Beacon Gem. Sire of the senior two-year-old is Valleystream Silver Beacon.

Sue Eisenhart exhibited the Jersey reserve senior and grand champion. Her homebred junior two-year-old, Eisenharts Silver Gem Kelli, by Tenn Silver Gem, was also named best bred and owned.

Junior champion ribbons also went to Sue Eisenhart, with her Jersey senior calf, Eisenharts Silver Gem Odie, a paternal sister to her grand champion. Annie Rauhauser was named Jersey reserve junior champion winner. Her senior yearling, Lilac-Springs Royal Lady, by J.S. Quiksilver Royal, also claimed the reserve bred and owned spot.

Kim McCleary captured both Brown Swiss top awards. Her dry class entry, Beaver Creek Telstear Penny, by Norvic Telstar, took the senior and grand champion place over the reserve winner, Beaver Creek Danny Bertie, by Beaver Creek Improver Danny.

Rookie 4-H'er Patrick Luckenbaugh earned the Brown Swiss junior champion honors, with an intermediate yearling, Alert L. Valine Rockey, by JoHann Evilo Rocket Brown Swiss reserve junior champion placing went to Kelly Jo Myers, exhibiting Welsh Ponderosa Titan, a junior calf by Lar-Le Stretch Titan OCS.

A two-year-old, exhibited by Kelly Morris, topped the Guernsey awards. Senior and grand winner was Beas Bonus Tinkerbell, sired by Lyndale Bonus J. Telestar.

Jenelle Boyer took the Guernsey reserve senior and grand award, showing Golden Lock Tex Premier Greta. The three-year-old was sired by Avalong Premier Gerry Germaine. Junior honors in the Guernsey show also went to Jenelle, with a daughter of her reserve champion. Golden Lock Fayette Tex Gretel, a junior yearling, was sired by Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette.

Reserve junior champion and best bred and owned Guernsey was the entry of Paul Rauhauser. Lilac-Springs Fayette Allie, a junior yearling, was sired by Dutchmill Telestars Fayette.

Fitting and showmanship competition wrapped up the day-long roundup, with 4-H dairy club members in three age-level groups. Junior winner was Brad Walker, age 11, and a four-year member of the Southwest Dairy Club. Sisters Jenelle, 15, and Bridgette Boyer, 18, won the intermediate and senior classes. Both are members of the Central Dairy Club.

Type judge for the show was Steve Wood, and fitting-showmanship judge was Chri Wood. The Wood's operate Penn Gate Registered Holsteins in Adams County.

Pioneer Holds Alfalfa Field Day

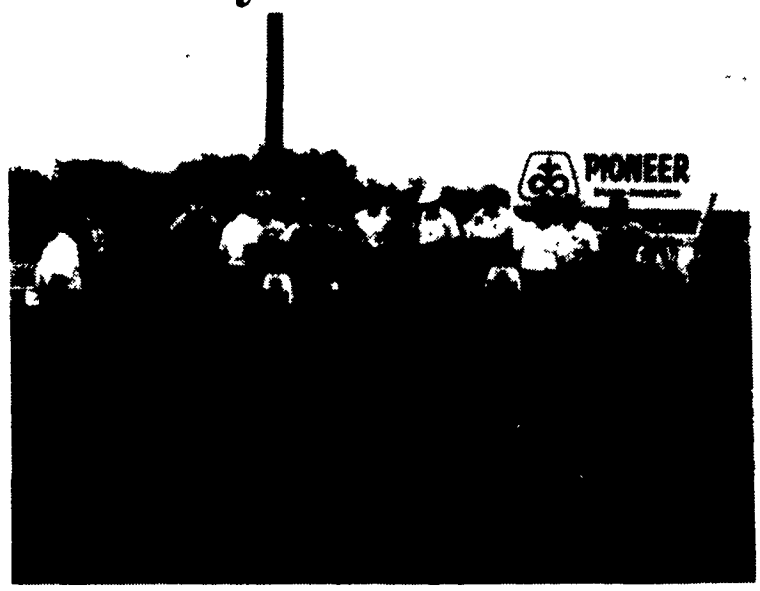
QUARRYVILLE — While the field day here at the new Pioneer Research Station was meant to discuss alfalfa, John Weidman, Area Sales Manager, could not help take the opportunity to tell farmers about seed corn for 1989. "You will hear a lot of rumors about the shortage of seed corn next year," Weidman said, "but our best estimates show that we will have enough seed corn for our present customers. We will be very fair. We've gone through blights and droughts before, but with our diversity of products we believe we will be able to serve our farm customers again."

The event brought together more than 400 farmers to see alfalfa research in action and to get tips on alfalfa management. Bill Fleet, Field Sales Agronomy Manager, said early drought does not cause alfalfa roots to go deeper. "In new seedings the alfalfa just sits there on top," he said.

Fleet listed some management practices for alfalfa in drought conditions, such as: Clip after rain if dormancy has been induced. When you seed provide a firm bed with uniform seed depth.



A group of farmers that toured the Pioneer Research Station this week. More than 400 persons attended.

On established stands avoid compacting the soil and supply adequate fertilizer. "Acid soils adversely affect the alfalfa root system," Fleet said. "So do shallow soils."

Sid Bosworth, Forage Specialist at Penn State University, said that harvesting alfalfa has a definite affect on alfalfa yield. "To stay competitive in the dairy industry, we must consider cutting management," Bosworth said.

In the Southeast region, when cuttings were delayed from early May to early June, alfalfa lost about two percent protein per day, and the acid detergent fiber increased three percent. Studies show that for every one percent increase in ADF, dairymen can have a 40-pound milk loss per ton of forage.

The new alfalfa research station was opened last year to give Pioneer Hybrid International Inc. a place to test new alfalfa varieties in the East where their alfalfa seed will be sold. The greenhouse that is part of the operation allows researchers to continue their new variety development throughout the year.

Varieties that do well in California or the Midwest may not do well here, and the local research into the effect of disease, climate and soils in this area gives the company an especially good opportunity to produce seed that will do well here. Pioneer also does some soybean and corn variety testing at the Quarryville location.

landowner and conservation organization requiring notification to the conservation organization if the land is to be sold or developed in any way. This gives both parties the opportunity to explore preservation options.

In Lancaster County, aside from family commitment, ZONING and EASEMENTS are effective short and long term protection for farmland. Plans and Agricultural Areas simply show where we should put our priorities and avoid public land conversion. A registry has not yet been established. One farm has been purchased for easement and resale. Favorable agricultural property tax policy is also important but not yet a significant issue for farmland preservation in this county.

Currently 31 or 41 Townships have effective agricultural zoning in place and easements have been donated or sold on 58 farms (about 5,000 acres). There is progress but farmland preservation efforts remain in their infancy.

Good planning for inevitable development is of critical importance as is the long term protection of our best natural resources. Lancaster Countians are encouraged to get involved in both, for which the following contacts are provided:

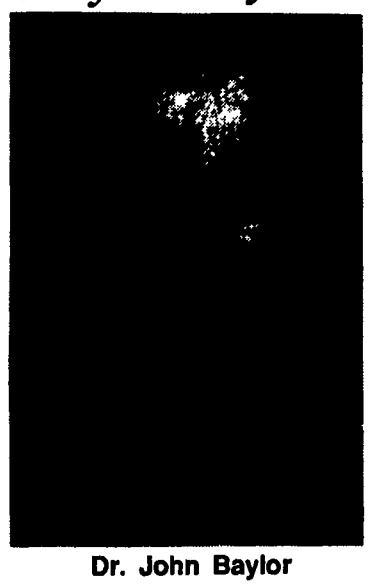
Baylor Named President Elect Of Agronomy Society

CAMP HILL (Dauphin) — Dr. John E. Baylor, director of market development for the Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, was named president elect of the Northeastern Branch of the American Society of Agronomy during the group's recent annual meeting in Morgantown, West Virginia.

Dr. Baylor was extension forage specialist at Penn State University prior to his retirement in 1983, when he accepted his current position with Beachley-Hardy. In addition to his work with the seed firm, he also currently serves as executive director of the Atlantic Seedsmen's Association, an organization serving industrymen in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeastern states.

Other officers of the agronomy society include: president: Dr. Fred Magdoff, head of the department of plant and soil sciences at the University of Vermont; secretary-treasurer: Dr. Gary Griffin, of the department of plant science at the University of Connecticut; and past president: Dr. James Mitchell, of the department of plant science at the University of New Hampshire. Serving as the Branch's representative to the American Society of Agronomy is Dr. James Starling, associate dean of the Penn State University College of Agriculture.



Dr. John Baylor

Local Vocational Educators Receive Recognition

LITITZ (Lancaster) — Four state vocational educators were honored recently for their efforts by the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teacher's Association. Receiving awards at the PVATA Awards Breakfast during the PVATA Professional Technical Institue were Carole Fay, vo-ag teacher at Penn Manor High School; Ronald Frederick, Twin Valley High School; J. Richard Wood, of Ephrata; and Donald M. Robinson, head adult instructor for the Eastern Lancaster County School District.

Fay, who resides in Palmyra, was selected among teachers who have taught for five years or less and have shown outstanding professional growth and interest.

Fay was born and raised in Tioga County where she was active in 4-H prior to earning a degree in agricultural education at Penn State. She has completed four years of teaching at Penn Manor's vocational agricultural program. She has served as co-advisor to the Manor FFA chapter and especially enjoys working with FFA members preparing for various contests and leadership activities.

Frederick was recognized as first place winner in the "Ideas Unlimited" contest sponsored by the PVATA. His award-winning ideas were two computerized units of instruction, one in wildlife and one in greenhouse.

The award recognizes outstanding, innovative ideas that improve instruction or the overall effectiveness of some aspect of the vocational agriculture and FFA programs in Pennsylvania high schools.

Wood was honored by the PVATA for 25 years of service to Pennsylvania vocational agriculture. Wood has taught vocational agriculture at Solanco High School for seven years, Brownstown Area Vocational Technical School for eight years, and was a supervisor at Brownstown AVTS for 10 years. Wood received a gold watch.

Robinson also was honored for 25 years of service to state vocational agriculture. He has taught vocational agriculture at Eastern Lancaster County School District for the past 21 years after having taught at Pottsgrove High School in Pottstown for four years. Robinson received a gold watch.

Gov. Sends Ag Secretary

eral Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The request was sent to Washington, D.C., and delivered to Lyng's office by state Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff, who was in Washington to brief the Pennsylvania congressional delegation on the need for federal drought-assistance legislation that will help state farmers recover from the crisis.

Gov. Casey said he wrote to Lyng today even though the state Agriculture Department hda not yet officially received necessary information from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) to support Pennsylvania's request for an emergency declaration.

"I have personally toured representative farms and met with Pennsylvania farm leaders to witness the loss to our crops and livestock," Gov. Casey wrote in the letter. "For nearly one-half the state this is our second consecutive year of dry weather conditions."

The governor informed Lyng that drought assessment reports had been completed for all Pennsylvania counties and that the Food and Agricultural Council/ State Emergency Board voted Tuesday to recommend a request for a statewide declaration.

Officials have indicated that preliminary assessments indicate Pennsylvania's crop losses from the drought will total $300 million, "far transcending the capacity of state government to deal with such a disaster."

Federal designation would make Pennsylvania farmers eligible for low-interest FmHA loans if they have federal crop insurance, experience serious crop damage and cannot obtain loans from other sources.

Normally, the designation also makes farmers eligible for feed assistance, but that was authorized by Lyng on a county-by-county basis earlier this summer as the drought became extensive.

In a small news conference in the Secretary's office Thursday morning, Wolff said that in addition to delivering the letter from the Governor he wanted to make sure Congressional members knew the seriousness of the drought in Pennsylvania and to ask for a speedy passage of the legislation that would include all segments of agriculture. "Because of its widespread effect, we need emergency action," Wolff said. We figure that on the average size 52 milk cow dairy herd in Pennsylvania, the feed cost will increase $8,000 because of the drought this year. And the 50 cents a hundred increase in milk price support proposed by legislation will net the same size farm about $3,000-$4,000.

In addition, within the state the Governor has asked that weight restrictions be lifted on trucks hauling hay and that bankers be as lenient as possible on farm loan repayments in drought areas.

RCMA Plans Diversion

tact 26 Lancaster County farmers who became Farmland shippers since April. These farms were pinpointed on a map and three teams of volunteers and RCMA personnel planned to make personal visits to all the farms on Tuesday.

In a new move, RCMA announced it is prepared to offer whatever Farmland is paying plus the RCMA premiums guaranteed for six months. "Our milk should be worth just a little less than what it costs to ship it in," King said. "RCMA has come a long way but we must continue to work together."

Of the 25,000 dairy farms in the Northeast. RCMA claims 22,000 members through cooperative memberships as well as independent shippers who have voluntarily joined RCMA. According to King, the 3,000 non-members cause a loss of bargaining power for the organization. For this reason, RCMA was able to bargain for only one third of what would have been available if they had the support of all dairy farms.

Donald Ranck, Lancaster County Representative, said later in the week that when they visited local farmers they found that many had joined Farmland not necessarily for price, but for other reasons.

While they did not press for these farmers to join RCMA at the time, Ranck said they were hopeful that many would cooperate in a goal to get all Farmland shippers to divert their milk on September 1.

Ranck used the analogy of the Amish ban: If a brother gets out of line in the Amish community, he is shunned until he comes back in line. "That's what we want to do with Farmland," Ranck said. "We want Farmland in our community. We hope the September 1 diversion program will bring them back."

N. Y. Dairy Princesses Attend Seminar

SYRACUSE, NY — Dairy princesses, alternates and maids from 35 counties across New York State participated in a three-day dairy training seminar July 6-8 at the SUNY-Morrisville campus. The event, sponsored by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC), provided the participants with valuable information concerning local and national dairy promotions as well as hands-on work experience.

Professionals from various agricultural businesses shared their knowledge of writing press releases, public speaking, nutrition and supermarket display case organization with the young promoters. The instructors even tested the promoters within the workshops by having them prepare their own press releases, give impromptu speeches and answer dairy-related questions.

For the first time, the group was exposed to dairy case management. The seminar given was a smaller version of the one ADADC presents to management personnel at the supermarket level. The one presented to the seminar participants discusses the techniques behind dairy case management such as setting up displays to increase impulse purchases, product and case care along with general product knowledge.

"There is a lot more to a dairy case than people realize," said dairy princess program coordinator Shirley Griffith. "There is a definite psychology to where things should be placed."

The knowledge the young promoters received will be put to good use throughout the year as they visit local supermarkets. They will know how to rotate dairy products and which ones to use when doing a promotion.

The dairy princesses will be able to test the skills they obtained at the seminar when they compete for the 1988-89 State Dairy Princess title. The state pageant follows the seminar each year. This year's pageant is being held at SUNY Cortland on August 18 and 19.

New York's county dairy princesses pose during three-day seminar held in Morrisville, N.y.

Atlantic Schedules Cowan's Gap Picnic

SOUTHAMPTON, Pa. — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative districts in southern Pennsylvania and northern Maryland will hold their annual picnic at Cowan's Gap State Park, Allen's Valley, on Thursday, Aug. 4.

Dr. Paul E. Hand, Atlantic's general manager, will be the guest speaker. Hand will report on cooperative business and dairy legislation, particiularly efforts to stop additional cuts in the support price for milk.

The picnic is open to members in Districts 16, 25, 26, 30, 36 and the East Berlin and Littlestown Locals of District 24, the Juniata Local of District 18 and the Fulton County Local of District 21.

Members are asked to bring their own lunch. Milk and ice cream will be provided. Registration begins at 10 a.m.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents 4,000 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

"DISEASE WAS EATING MY EARLY WHEAT ALIVE.

P.L. ROHRER & BRO., INC. HELPED ME FIGHT BACK WITH TWAIN."

The best way to win the battle against disease is to plant a winner like Twain. Twain's an early maturing soft red winter wheat that offers excellent protection against viral and soil borne diseases, plus very good protection against foliar disease. And Twain's a big winner in yield, too. This season, fight back and win. See us for details.

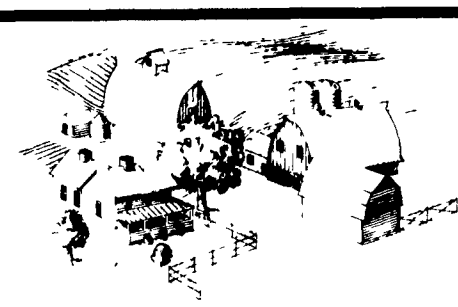
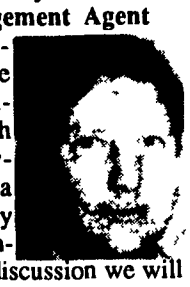
FARM MANAGEMENT



BY ROLAND FREUND
York County Ext.
Farm Management Agent



In any transaction there are two parties involved, each with his own viewpoint of what is a fair price to pay for a given commodity. In this discussion we will call the party on whose land the crops grows, the Landowner, and the party interested in purchasing the forage, the Buyer.

When an asset is leased or sold, the seller gives up all other "opportunities" for gain. The price which it might have brought if sold elsewhere is called the opportunity cost. The buyer also figures his cost for substitute or other similar feeds. If both parties can agree upon a price which leaves each of them better off, then a "deal" can be made.

Alfalfa or Hay Field - 1 acre for 1 year (4 cuts)

Landowner's viewpoint: The minumum price would be the land rent value plus enough to recover the cost of establishing the stand.

Example:

Annual land rent value	$50.
Establishment cost	$140.
Life - 4 years
Annual establishment charge ($140/4)	$35.
7% interest on $70 (1/2 Est. Cost)	$5.
Minimum annual price for Landowner	$90

At this price, the Landowner is as well off as if the land had been cash rented all the time. But there is no "profit" on the hay establishment. On the other hand, there is no risk either because that risk is transferred to the Buyer.

Buyer's Viewpoint: The Maximum price the buyer should want to pay is the cost to purchase the product elsewhere, less buyer's machine and haulage cost, less buyer's risk from weather and pestilence. These risks are considerable and will vary from season to season and location to location. Buyer can reduce some risk by careful scouting and spraying to control insect pests. Insufficient rain or too much at harvest time are risks over which buyer can exercise little control. Twenty percent of yield potential may be an average risk factor. Estimating yield potential is perhaps the biggest problem for the buyer. Livestock producers and dairymen tend to be eternal optimists when it comes to crop yields. Windrow yield may need to be reduced by 30 to 40% to compensate for harvesting, storage or ensiling losses.

Example:

Hay value - 4 tons @ $70	=$280
Less-risk of loss, rain, etc, @ 20%	$56
-machine cost and labor value	$80
-spray, fertilizer, twine used	$20=$156
Maximum value to Buyer	$134

The price range within which they might haggle $90 - $134.

PASTURE:

Local supply and demand usually determines what people will charge or pay for pasture. Our problem is that it is extremely difficult to determine what a pasture will yield. The yield is highly dependant upon the grazing management applied, and this is limited by the potential for subdivision fencing to control the animal's grazing rotation. Who will provide the fencing, and who will control the animal movements? These factors can make a big difference.

A good pasture properly managed can be expected to yield as much feed value in a season as the above hay field. We have just said that feed value is $280. What is the harvest machine and labor cost? How much risk is there from rain damage?

Most buyers who are paying the national average of 50% and 60% of cropland rent value to graze an acre of pasture are probably getting a bargain. However, there are poor stands which are not even worth that much.

Short of weighing growing livestock onto and off of a pasture, it is difficult to quantify its contribution to production. It gets back to the old story of "what the man with money in hand is prepared to pay."

Raising A New Crop Of Farmers, Scientists

ST. LOUIS, MO — When farmers Glenn and Carol Meyer mention a new field, they do not necessarily mean "the Back Forty." The Meyers more likely are referring to the biotechnology field and how this science relates to current agribusiness decisions.

These hog and soybean farmers from Steeleville, Ill., recently participated in the "Adopt-A-Scientist" program initiated this year by the American Farm Bureau Federation. The St. Louis-based Monsanto Company was one of three companies involved.

"Adopt-A-Scientist" brings biotechnology researchers to the farm to better understand farming operations, practices and how new techniques are considered and adopted by farmers. In turn, the farmers visit the scientists' lab to learn about state-of-the-art methods and their agricultural applications and advantages.

The Farm Bureau launched program at a corn farm in Iowa, a vegetable farm in New Jersey, a hog operation in Illinois, a soybean farm in Indiana, a dairy farm in Missouri, cotton farms in Mississippi and Texas and at a potato operation in New York.

Dr. Peter Calcott, an animal health researcher who develops new animal products through biotechnology at Monsanto, visited the Meyers' farm in June. "I got a good taste of the sorts of work and hectic scheduling farmers go through," he says. "It also gave me a well-rounded feeling about the equipment, facilities and energy of people needed to run a farm."

During his visit, Dr. Calcott focused on animal health and livestock nutrition practices. He says, "Seeing how farmers actually store animal medications will help me prepare even better products to fit their rugged usage on farms. I also talked with the Meyers at length about what particiular aspects they want to see in the compounds.

"All in all, my visit to the Meyers' farm allowed me to be sure our research and development direction is moving in a way that will fit into operations like theirs."

The next step was for the farmers to turn in their work clothes for lab coats. The Meyers recently got a firsthand look at the research Dr. Calcott performs in the lab when they visited him at the Monsanto Life Sciences Research Center in suburban St. Louis. The tour of the facility included detailed explanations of the company's sustained (controlled) pharmaceutical delivery systems; patenting procedures; quality control measures; crop genetic transformation experiments; environmental impact research; and gene splicing.

A highlight of the tour was Monsanto's 123 plant-growth chambers in which all atmospheric conditions such as temperature, humidity, rain and sunlight are controlled by computers. They also saw livestock research at Monsanto's nearby Dardenne Technical Center.

The farm couple say they were excited to see the other side of agribusiness. "We didn't realize Monsanto was so deeply committed to agriculture. When you use a product on your farm, you don't normally think of all the people behind the scenes who make that product possible," says Carol. "And hosting a scientist who wanted to share our farm and listen to the problems as well as the positive factors in our industry was fantastic."

"The number of cows that Monsanto's working on at their farm was enough to tell me they have quite an interest in the health of our animals. And I learned a lot about the shelf life and purpose of medications. I truly understand the importance of following label instructions now," adds Glenn.

Monsanto is a multinational company involved in biotechnology and its applications to human health, animal nutrition and plant agriculture. The American Farm Bureau Federation is the nation's largest farm organization with more than 3 million members.

MMI Set Price Increases For Milk Processors

STRONGSVILLE, OH — In order for dairy producers to survive the economic effects of the drought and escalating feed costs, Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) is increasing the prices charged to processors for milk delivered to them by the members of MMI. MMI is a regional dairy marketing cooperative owned by 7,000 dairy farmers in the eastern corn belt.

The price increases, according to MMI General Manager Gordon Riehl, will mean that area milk processors can be more readily assured a milk supply to meet consumer needs.

The price increase is effective August 1. Prices to milk processors will increase between 60 to 70 cents per hundredweight for bottled milk. Prices charged to processors for soft dairy products (ice cream, yogurt, cottage cheese, etc.) will increrase 20 cents per hundredweight and for hard dairy products (cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk powder) the price will increase 50 cents.

Riehl said that dairy farmers have been doubly caught by the drought. The cost of feeding their cows is increasing at a time when the prices they are now receiving are at a ten year low.

"In order not to jeopardize the milk supplies, now and in the future, farmers need to know that they can afford to purchase feed from other areas to maintain their animals. If feed costs continue to climb and if producers are forced to sell their animals for slaughter, the supplies of milk available to this area will obviously diminish. So will the number of dairy farmers," says Riehl.

"Further price increases will be necessary as local feed supplies are used up," he adds.

"The public is already aware of the impact this drought is having on farmers. What they need to realize is that some of these costs were squeezing the farmers before the drought ever hit. Since Jan. 1988, prices received by farmers have dropped nearly 9 percent," he says.

Riehl cites as an example, the price of 16 percent protein dairy ration, a major feed input necessary for milk production, has increased more than 40 percent, from $155 per ton in June, 1987 to $217 a year later.

"We started with increasing production costs and declining farm prices. Now we have a drought added to this already tough economic picture. This price increase is the only way we have to assure the future of our producers and the future of the area's milk supplies," says Riehl.

MMI is also pursuing legislative action to assure protection for farmers.

Bill Perry, MMI manager of governmental affairs, has been working with area Congressional members to develop a drought relief package that will provide to farmers emergency feed assistance, funds for transportation of forage, and availability of government grain stocks.

"But even if this action is passed by Congress, it might be too late to help farmers that need immediate assistance. That's another reason why we need this price increase now," explains Perry.

Even with these increases, Riehl points out that milk and dairy products are still one of the best food buys in the market. The Consumer Price Index shows that even though dairy product prices have increased eight percent since 1982, overall, the basic food items category has risen 16 percent during the same period.

MMI is a 7,000 member dairy farmer owned cooperative encompassing an eight state midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. Last year MMI marketed more than 4.1 billion pounds or 475 million gallons of milk.

IT BURNS UP ANIMAL CARCASSES WITHOUT BURNING UP YOUR WALLET.

The sanitary way to get rid of animal carcasses is with a Shenandoah incinerator. It's pollution controlled and convenient to use. It's also extra efficient because we've lined the burning chambers, and in some models even the afterburning chambers, with one and a quarter inches of refractory cement. That keeps the heat up and the energy costs down.

Choose among eight easy-to-install smoke and odor controlled models. You even have the option of burning gas or oil.

Ask your local Shenandoah dealer about efficient, inexpensive incinerators. You'll find out how our bright ideas in farm equipment can mean a bright spot in your day. And still leave a green spot in your wallet.

Farmers' Spokesman Calls For Drought Relief

LITITZ — A spokesman for the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) recently called for speedy action on drought relief legislation during a meeting of farm leaders with U.S. Sen. John Heinz (R — PA) and USDA Deputy Secretary Peter Meyers at the Lancaster County dairy farm of Marvin Witmer.

Guy Donaldson of Gettysburg, vice president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, said, "Even with the recent rain, we can't change the damage that's already been done here and across the country. Our farmer members who are facing the prospect of large crop losses and higher feed bills need to know as soon as possible what kind of federal assistance programs will be available."

Donaldson said PFA believes drought legislation scheduled for consideration in Congress this week should meet three basic goals:

(1) aid should be available for all farm commodities, not just those involved in existing government programs.

(2) benefits should only be for proven product losses.

(3) legislation should be enacted for the current drought situation and should not rewrite the 1985 farm law.

PFA is a voluntary, general farm organization representing over 23,600 farm families.

ASCS Urges Farmers To Prepare For Drought Aid

HARRISBURG — "Farmers should prepare now to apply for drought aid so they will be ready to show eligibility after pending legislation is enacted," according to Don Unangst, state executive director.

"We probably won't have the details of drought assistance for several weeks," Unangst said, "but there are some things producers can do to help make sure they get the benefits of any new legislation."

"For example, appraisals will be made when necessary by ASCS on drought-damaged crops before they are destroyed or harvested to salvage for feed," said Bill Clayton, compliance specialist in the ASCS State Office, Harrisburg.

"Producers may have to leave representative strips for appraisals if they are unable to wait for an ASCS appraisal.

"Harvests of disaster affected participating and nonparticipating grain crops or soybean acreage for grain or beans should: Request bin measurement before using any for livestock feed (there will be a charge for bin measurement) and maintain acceptable production evidence if the crop is sold or stored off the farm.

"Production records for nonprogram crops, such as fruits, vegetables and other commercial crops should be maintained for the current and previous years," said Clayton.

"The bottom line," Unangst said, "is don't destroy any evidence you may need later to prove your eligibility for benefits."

was a bit more "in bloom" than his reserve selection.

Reserve champion and best-bred-and-owned honors went to the Knight family, Woodbine Farms, of Airville with their home-bred four-year-old, Woodbine Valiant Marty. Sired by S-W-D Valiant, the EX-91 is a granddaughter of the Knight's famed Mollie, one of the breed's few EX-97 individuals. Her last lactation was more than 20,000 milk.

Along with their reserve win, and several first places that included best three senior females, Woodbine Farms earned both the prestigious premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners.

A junior yearling took junior champion ribbons for Coredale Holsteins, the Rodman Thompson family of East Berlin. The Thompson's winning heifer was Penn-Gate Starbuck Flare, sired by Hanover Starbuck.

In the reserve junior champion spot was 4-H'er Downa Doll of Glenville, with Dar-Dale Pabst Betty, by Char Sam Elevation Pabst. The intermediate topped her age class of 20 head earlier in the show and was anmed best junior animal bred and owned.

Drought Feeding Alternatives

These past weeks many dairy farmers have been asking what to do about forage. Some are already out. Some just want to conserve what they have. Here are some ration alternatives that might be helpful while we wait for enough rain to grow more forage.

One additional suggestion is to cull. As long as beef prices are high enough, feed prices are high, and forage is scarce, you might be smart to cull a bottom percentage of your herd right now.

All sample rations in the table are formulated for 1,350 pound cows producing 55 pounds of 3.7 percent milk per day priced at $13.50 per hundredweight, using a wide range of ingredients and forages to cover as many conditions as possible.

As you can see, feed cost per cow per day and amounts fed of the various forage sources vary widely. Not all possible rations have been calculated. Your county Extension agent should be able to customize a ration for other specific needs.

The 50 cents per cow per day difference in the least expensive ration (1) and the most expensive (8) is worth consideration. Alfalfa cubes at $130/ton are a good way to stretch forage. Whole cottonseed, corn gluten feed, soy hulls, fats and other industrial byproducts may be other attractive alternatives. And in some situations, wet brewers grains are a good buy.

When formulating rations and trying to minimize roughage, strive for a minimum of 12 pounds of dry matter from roughage (hay, silage, chopped hay, cubed hay, cottonseed, or cottonseed hulls). Feedstuffs like small alfalfa pellets, soy hulls and wet brewers grains are not good as roughage replacers. Peanut hulls and rice hulls, though high in fiber, are very low in energy and should be used with caution on lactating cows. Peanut hulls must be free of pesticides and molds. Rice hulls can compact in the rumen and so must be fed in small amounts only.

Stunted corn may be more valuable as green-chop or silage than as harvested grain. But check for possible high nitrate levels—a constant danger in drought times.

This drought emergency also is a good time for dairy farmers to make a new resolution. As our ancestors did in the old country, resolve never to be without a one-year's supply of feed for your cows. Do this and sleep better at night!

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-The 1958 wheat harvest here may go down in history as one of the most prolonged in recent years. At the beginning of this week, an estimated half to two thirds of the County acreage remains to be harvested.

Combining has been stopped by frequent rains which have kept the crop too tough to be harvested. An exceptionally heavy straw growth this year aggravated the situation.

-Lancaster County poultrymen will stay at home this year while going on the Lancaster County Poultry Assn.'s annual tour.

A six stop family tour has been arranged by Mark E. Myer, Richard Kreider, Arthur Graybill and Harry S. Sloat. Beginning at 8:30 a.m., the tour is expected to end at about 4 p.m. A picnic lunch will be held at noon.

The tour will assemble at the New Holland Machine Co., New Holland. Here guided tours will show the construction and assembly of farm machinery.

-Lancaster County's two contestants for Queen of the Furrow will meet contestants from Lebanon, Schuylkill, Dauphin and York Counties Saturday at Hershey to decide the district title.

The two contestants from Lancaster County are Misses Ruth Ann Carroll, Peach Bottom, and Rosemary Andrews, Willow Street. They were selected June 23 in a contest held at Millersville's State Teacher's College.

-United States Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will be guest speaker on the second day of the 16th National Plowing Contest and Conservation Exposition to be held here Aug. 21-22, the exposition committee announced today.

-Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest winner is Mrs. Barbara Marks, Wantagh, Long Island, N.Y. She cooked a dish called Chicken Tarragon Champignons. Present at award ceremonies were Lloyd H. Geil, PENB general manager, and Maryland Congressman Ted Miller. Mrs. Marks received a $350 gas range, $500 in cash and a silver tray from PENB.

Sponsors FFA Scholarships

CHICAGO, IL — Sandoz Crop Protection Corporation recently announced its sponsorship of two $2,000 scholarships for National FFA Organization members planning to major in agribusiness at Cornell University or fifteen other agricultural universities.

"At Sandoz, we believe the strong, dynamic leadership fostered by the FFA is vital to the long-term success of our industry," said Dale Miller, president and chief executive officer of Sandoz Crop Protection, a leading manufacturer of biological and biorational products to control insects, weeds and diseases in North American agriculture.

Sandoz Crop Protection also has supported exceptional young farmers through the FFA's National Proficiency Award Program for the last two years. "We remain committed to the development of young people interested in agriculture," Miller said. "It is an urgent challenge for every corporation in our industry to encourage the brightest and best students to enter the agricultural field."

High school students who graduate in 1989 may apply for the Sandoz scholarships if they plan to major in agribusiness at one of the following universities: Cornell University; University of Illinois; Iowa State University; Kansas State University; Western Kentucky University; Michigan State University; University of Minnesota; University of Nebraska; North Dakota State University; Oklahoma State University; Rutgers University; South Dakota State University; Texas A & M University; Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University; West Virginia State University; and University of Wisconsin.

The scholarships are funded through the National FFA Foundation. Copies of the scholarship applications are available at the Cornell University college of agriculture or at the National FFA Foundation, P.O. Box 5117, Madison, Wis. 53705-0117.

#1 Best Food Buy

According to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), milk and milk product prices have, through the years, shown the smallest increase of any major food group reported in the monthly Consumer Price Index (CPI).

The attached graph shows the average percentage increase of various food groups through the years 1970, 1980, and 1987. In the base year of 1967, all food groups were given a value of 100 percent.

Of the major food categories, milk and milk product prices have also remained the most stable. Through 1987, milk and milk products stood at 264.8 on the index, a 164.8 percent increase since 1967. During this same period, fruits and vegetables have increased 256.7 percent; cereal and bakery products 237.2 percent; food at home 218.5 percent, and the increase for meat, poultry, and fish has been 190.6.

Based on the historical price movements of these various food groups, milk and milk products continue to be an excellent food buy. Consumers not only get the increased nutritional benefit of milk and milk products in the form of calcium, vitamins, nutrients and other minerals.

Land Conference:

tine Sisters in Erie said stewardship determines obligations. "We owe a debt to the next generation. We are building a new society in the shell of the old. It must be a balance between realistic and practical."

Robert Rodale

The nationally known publisher of Rodale Press, Inc., reasoned, "One thing I learned, people become immune to bad news, but they do not become immune to solutions."

Rodale, who isn't afraid to dream big and isn't discouraged by impossibilities, said that Lancaster County farms should be set aside as a living park where farmers continue their daily duties. A degree of protection would come if the area were accessible only by walking, bicycling or arriving in a horse drawn carriage.

The farmland must be saved, Rodale said. "The problem calls for dreams and a challenge to be inventive. Make Lancaster priceless."

Audience response

Discussion was wide-ranging during conference breaks as conferees wrestled with viable solutions and rejected others promoted by the conference speakers. Said Victor Ziegler who owns farms in Lebanon, Myerstown and York, "It's great to dream. But we must be willing to put up the finances to offset the losses of persons being hurt by restrictions." Ziegler who practices conservation methods and has also sold off building lots from untillable farmland believes, "We should farm the rich fertile land and live on the rocks and hills."

Erma Weaver, former organic vegetable farm grower, said, "Meetings such as this one are important. If the ideas aren't discussed by educators who get paid to sit and think, it's not going to happen anywhere. Policy would never get changed."

She added that her husband is disillusioned with coming to meetings similar to these because they're too idealistic. She said, "The bottom line is that farmers need to earn more for their products. If they earn enough, the land will stay in farming."

Another conferee, Omer Brubaker, a small parttime farmer with a job in the Agriculture Stabilization Conservative Service, added,"People complain of rising food costs, but when you consider that only three cents goes toward the cost of the wheat in bread, then we know we need major price hikes for food. It's a crime we can pay any cost for recreation, but we don't want to pay labor for food. Consumers are willing to pay for materials they can see such as plastic bags, but they aren't willing to pay the farmer enough to cover his costs.".

Workshops

Eight workshops were held during Friday afternoon sessions. Some such as the one led by Cliff and Lois Kenagy, Oregon vegetable farmers, who play a major role in their state farmland preservation movement, shared their story in hopes that others could glean ideas and insight to apply to their are.

They said Oregon farmers ran into difficulty as they dealt with enroachment. "Farming was being pushed out; we needed to go further for equipment and supplies." Neighbors in nearby housing developments complained when water from the Kenagy's irrigation system went on the other side of the fence.

The Kenagys organized a support group and appealed to the county for farmland protection. They fought for and won legislature that agricultural land tax should not be based on resale but on farm use value, that planning should happen by the citizens, that state wide planning goals are necessary, that agricultural lands should be preserved and maintained for farm use consistent with existing and future needs for agricultural products, forest and open spaces.

The Kenagys believe that with proper planning "There's a space for all, but the community decides where." She said, "You'll need to do things differently in Lancaster because it's a different area, but it's possible to find a Lancaster County way."

Congressman Goodling

and dwindling standards of living for farm families.

Dover grain and livestock producer Mike Hoffman drew audience applause as he summarized concerns of local farmers. He cited tremendous increases in grain prices in a 30-day period, noting that it has hurt those who purchase feed, and not helped local grain growers because they have little left to sell after back-to-back years of drought. In addition, grain producers may expect to lose the last half of their deficiency payments, due to the increased market prices.

"It's not gospel, it's not law, it's not even out of the Ag Committees," Goodling warned as he reviewed key points of the Drought Assistant Act of 1988, offered in similar legislative packages in both the House and Senate. The Congressman added that he anticipated the legislation coming up for voting under "closed rule," which would allow no amendments.

Major points of the Drought Assistance Act of 1988 include:

- establishment of new emergency feed assistance programs; extending producer eligibility to those who substantial loss of feed production and producers not normally growing their own feed;
- provide disaster payment to producers with losses of 35 percent of the 1988 crop due to drought; crop insurance participants could receive insurance benefits and disaster payments, not to exceed normal crop yield income.
- directs the Secretary of Agriculture to forego the 50-cent milk support price cut schedulcd for January 1, 1989;
- allows producers to retain advance deficiency payments on any unit of production failed or unplanted due to the drought, unless disaster payment had been received on that unit;
- directs the Secretary to make available operating loans for 1989 production, and exercise forebearance provisions in relation to FmHA loans.

one shot for the center of the brain but missed far enough so that the skull bone behind the eye reflected the bullet up toward the horn bone. "You can feel a lump and a groove across the head where the bullet glazed it," Metzler said.

Metzler said a lot of shooting takes place at nights in the southern Lancaster County area. Stop signs are drilled full of holes and deer have been shot out of season. "It could have been kids shotting at random out of a car window," Metzler said. "But we're sure it wasn't a stray bullet from a groundhog hunter, because it was the wrong time of day and we know all the groundhog hunters that come on our farm."

Metzler said he wasn't looking for publicity and hesitated even to call police. But the officer from the Lancaster barricks encouraged Metzler to report the incident so that if other farmers have the same problem they will report it too. Thus the culprit can be more easily apprehended.

Just like the bull calf that was shot last month on the Robert Hess farm, Salunga, this shooting also looks like someone did it on purpose. In the Hereford shooting, a target-type arrow entered the 3½-month-old bull calf behind its right eye and lodged deep in its throat. Mrs. Hess said this week that the calf has recovered after an expensive operation at New Bolton Center. No eye damage has occurred. But the heifer calf that was stolen at the same time has not yet been recovered. However the police did get some fingerprints from the arrow and received a report that someone was seen walking in the area with a bow.

Anyone who may know anything about either of these shootings should call the Pennsylvania State Police at 717-299-7650. Any help you can give to solve these incidents will be appreciated and may prevent additional attacks of violence to farmers and their livestock.

KES POULTRY MIST SYSTEM

ADVANTAGES OF THE KES POULTRY MISTER:

• Each KES spray nozzle will operate at water pressure as low as 20 PSI. Does not require additional pump.
• Easy Spray Head is directional, designed to avoid dripping and can be individually shut-off.
• The filter is rewashable, not disposable. When the system shuts off the filter is automatically cleaned.
• Where water contains a high concentration of minerals, a low-cost water conditioner is available to prevent nozzles from clogging.
• System is thermostatically controlled.
• Water management and dust are controlled by timer.
• Each nozzle sprays one gallon of extremely fine mist per hour, insuring efficient evaporative cooling without residual moisture.
• The system can be manually operated during a power failure.

The All New LOW-PRESSURE ANTI-DRIP Cooling System

KES, is the established name in automatic misting systems. KES's unique systems are used in greenhouses and supermarket produce cases. KES has recently introduced an exclusive Low Pressure Evaporative method of cooling Poultry Houses.

Carol Hostetter: One Ordinary Woman Making A Difference In The World

BY LOU ANN GOOD

McCONNELLSBURG (Fulton) — One ordinary woman. Can she make a difference in the world?

Yes, believes Carol Hostetter. An industrious farming partner with her husband Eugene in McConnellsburg, Carol makes an impact on society even though she seldom leaves her home.

Carol didn't start out intending to do anything profound. She wanted to get married, have children and settle peacefully into her rural community.

She did marry. She worked with her husband to purchase a 125-acre farm where she daily milks 50 cows, feeds the calves, and helps with the field work on their farm and on an additional 100-acre rented farm.

For many years, Carol's dream remained incomplete. She yearned to hear tiny barefeet pattering across her kitchen floor, to wipe tiny, sticky fingers that enjoyed her home-baked cookies.

But for six years their home was silent.

Out of this silence, Carol contemplated other options to fulfill her dreams. Foster care was one. In 1984, the Hostetters took two sisters, Angela and Missy (names have been changed to protect their families) into their home.

"It's only for one month," the case worker claimed.

Carol had been warned not to become attached to the children since their stay was so temporary. As she held three week-old Angela, mixed emotions surged through her. Part of her wanted to keep the baby, but part of her warned, "Don't love her. You're only hurt yourself because you can't keep her."

Dutifully, for one month, Carol cared for the baby and her five-year-old sister. She rocked them, bathed them, fed them, but within Carol, a battle raged. She could not love them. She was scared. Scared of the risks that comes with loving and with separating. So she closed her heart to the emotions that accompany love.

A strange thing happened. Although Carol faithfully provided every physical need, the baby did not grow. Carol recalls, "One day, I sat on the rocking chair, holding her. Inside, I felt God saying, 'Love this child.'

Carol sobbed, "I can't."

The voice grew louder, more insistent, until Carol hugged the baby tightly and said, "I will."

From that moment on Angela and Missy were like the Hostetters very own children. Their temporary stay grew into months and then years. During this time, the children had visits with their natural mother, an alcoholic who struggled to overcome her problems.

The Hostetters learned to cope with the trauma of overnight visits the girls had with their natural mother. They were heartsick when Missy's behavior showed signs of sexual abuse. "We learned a lot about abuse and what causes it," Carol remarked. Although Carol finds child abuse intolerable she says that she believes people should not down the abuser. "Studies show that abusers generally were victims of the same treatment. And I ask myself, 'What would I be like if I had been treated like that?'"

"Abuse," Carol continued, is like a vicious cycle. It happens not only in the poor homes but in middleclass and in rich families. It can be broken with help."

Always industrious, Carol, during this era in her life, also compiled her collection of recipes and had them published in a colorful edition titled: "Favorite Recipes From Our Best Cooks."*

Three little children, abused, neglected, uncared for until she loved them. For two little girls, it was only a little bit of time in a lifetime of living. But Carol believes that is how the world is changed—a little bit at a time, by herself, by me, by you.

When the girls had been with them for 14 months, the agency asked the Hostetters to consider taking two-year-old Wesley. Carol recalls, "I thought I was too busy. I helped milk twice a day and feed the calves, but then I thought of how it must be for the little boy who had no one to love him, so we said, 'Yes.'"

She could not love them. She was scared. Scared of the risks that comes with loving and with separating.

With two in diapers and a preschooler, life was hectic. "But," Carol said, "other families sometimes have babies that come that closely spaced." So she bundled them up and took them to the barn for the daily chores.

Fear that the natural families might try to kidnap the children nagged Carol. One day a woman appeared at their door and claimed that her car, parked quite a distance from their home, had a flat tire. The woman acted suspiciously. Later, Carol found out it was the girls' mother. "I didn't trust going to the barn without them. But they didn't mind being bundled up and taken along. They were always delighted to go see the calves."

Their growing family required adjustments. There was sibling jealousy, and as typical with many children from broken homes, psychological problems. Then, because the children were in foster care, the agency required that the oldest girl attend the head start program. With providing transportation to the program, numerous appointments with doctors, dentists, therapists and the barn and house work, Carol recalls, "I was working around the clock. But the children put a lot of joy in my life."

Besides the everyday chores, occasional accidents added more pressure. One day after they had filled their 50-foot silo with high moisture corn, Gene, unaware that the ear has the most gas, climbed to the silo's top to open the door. That was the last he remembers. Sometime later, he awoke in a daze while lying flat on the concrete looking up the chute. He saw his cap hanging above him about 10-feet. Disoriented from the gas, Gene climbed back up and got it, then wandered toward the barn and later to the house. When Carol found him, she was alarmed at the 2-inch gash on his head and the brushmarks. Gene lay on the couch for a week while Carol carried on most of the farming chores. "It's a miracle," Carol insisted, "that he only needed rest."

The Hostetters knew that the children's agency always worked toward the goal of returning the children to their natural home. The agency had emphasized, "ALL our children return to their natural home." Carol knew that studies showed that children are generally happier with their natural parents even if circumstances are not favorable. She flunctuated between wanting to help the parents and hoping they wouldn't get straightened out so she and Gene could adopt the children.

In March 1987, the agency decided to return the girls to their mother who had moved to another county. The Hostetters had loved and raised the girls as their own for three years. Devastated by the pain of separation, they begged the agency to allow them to adopt the girls if that option ever arose.

Six months later, the Hostetters learned the children had been removed from their natural home and placed in another foster home. Later, the girls' mother died from cirrhosis of the liver. Yet no one ever contacted them or tried to see the girls were returned to the Hostetters who loved them and had raised them most of their lives. The Hostetters are still working to get them back, but government red tape, and the agency's protest that "the girls were placed in your home for foster care not adoption" hinders the process.

In the meantime, the Hostetters adopted Wesley. "We saw such a big difference in him after adoption," Carol said. "Long term foster care is for the birds. It makes children feel like they don't belong. Adoption gives them more stability."

Wesley confirms her statement by exclaiming, "Now they can't come and take me away."

The Hostetters are frustrated by the red tape that prevents adoptable children from being adopted. "Adoption saves the state money." They believe that agencies don't push adoption because they get more money as long as the children are in foster care.

The pain of separation still haunts the Hostetters. Since their experience, the Hostetters have switched to a private foster care agency, which although they abide by state rules, allows them to raise

"It's been my dream to write a book," Carol Hostetter said. For starters, she compiled an attractive and colorful 132 page cook book titled "Favorite Recipes From Our Best Cooks."

Carol Hostetter, her husband Eugene and adopted son Wesley own a 125-acre farm in McConnellsburg. They also rent a 100-acre farm and an additional 125-acres. They erected a new barn that has double four parlor and 80 free stalls and a 20x60-foot silo. It has a tapered board feeder down the middle of the free stall barn and a manure pit at one side of the barn.

Wesley brings a lot of joy to Gene and Carol. He loves to farm. Like his dad, he drives his tractor every day it doesn't ran. Unlike his dad, he plows, plants and chops his corn all in one day.

Carol Hostetter

foster children more like their own.

Why do they continue to be foster parents instead of going through adoption agencies?

Carol believes foster children need love, acceptance and security. She said, "One time I was so discouraged, but God gave me the promise that "More are the children of the barren woman than of the married wife."

"It's easier to adopt, but there are many rewards in foster care." She glances fondly at Wesley, now five-years-old, and says, "Wesley loves to farm. Like his dad, he drives his tractor every day it doesn't rain. Unlike his dad, he plows, plants and chops his corn all in one day."

Making a difference

Carol doesn't consider herself an extraordinary person. If you met her on the sidewalk, you'd probably pass her unnoticed. One woman, one life to live and that one filled with some major disappointments, can she change the world?

"Studies show that abusers generally were victims of the same treatment. And I ask myself, 'What would I be like if I had been treated like that?'"

Carol believes each person can make a difference in the world by touching one life at a time. For her, it was loving three abused children as her own. It was sharing recipes to fill hungry mouths.

Maybe that is not very impressive to some who compare change with huge numbers, but then Carol believes that the most effective change in righting society's wrongs is filling a need. She said, "I long to see the girls again, to know how they are. Her voice grew softer, and she added, "They loved living on the farm so much. I'm sure they'll retain many happy memories."

Three little children, abused, neglected, uncared for until she loved them. For two little girls, it was only a little bit of time in a lifetime of living. But Carol believes that is how the world is changed—a little bit at a time, by herself, by me, by you.

*The book contains 132 recipes of delicious recipes from not only Carol's kitchen but also many of her friends and acquaintances. The thumb index contains information on equivalents, weights, measures and substitutions. It has an herb guide, six steps to a perfect pie, ways to use leftovers, recipes for crowds, sea food cookery, diet menus, freezing guides, a stain chart, first aid instruction and other helpful information.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Why would a supposedly grown woman be sitting, alone in a parked car, barely off the road, in a pouring rainstorm, laughing her fool head off? Perhaps it was comic relief. The windows of the little car had fogged over, cutting visibility to the inside. Otherwise, someone might have called for a "wagon" to haul me off for "observation."

I'd have to take his car home, the youngest had announced with teenage-son authority. He would bring the pickup and trailer to haul another load of cattle to the show. No problem. His recently acquired first car—vintage 1973 subcompact, redone by him in red with white racing stripes—couldn't be any more of a driving challenge than the old pickup.

Shoving the floor shift into gear, I headed homeward, noting that I'd best park this thing at the gas tank. He'd let it get down much too close to empty. Luckily, home is only ten miles south.

Thick, black clouds smothered visibility in that direction. Maybe, after weeks of watching rains bypass our parched crops, we'd get a decent shower for once. Halfway home, the first fat drops splattered his windshield; I managed to locate the wiper button.

Inside thirty seconds, my nose was near glued to the windshield, in an effort to see the roadway through sheets of pounding cloudburst-rain. Hoping this small car would "float" over the streams pouring down the roadway, I crept along.

While I headed up the hill into the last town before home, the pounding rain eased just enough to barely improve visibility. Then, near the hill's crest, the dash suddenly lit up with glaring red warnings and the car "died."

A temporary washout, I hoped. With the tiny amount of remaining uphill momentum, I steered into the local gift shop parking lot, to dry out.

But no! The gauge on that gas tank had slid in the space of a few miles down under "E." When this car said "empty" it meant it.

Thus, I hoped that the fogging windows hid me, in a pouring rainstorm laughing hilariously at this predicament. Joy was in the relief from weeks of frustration at the lack of crop moisture. It was raining and that meant it had to be pouring like this on the crops just down the road.

Besides, there was a gas station right across the road.

"When I get my hands on him, I'm gonna..." I muttered to myself between giggles, about the kid who'd sent me home in his empty-tank car.

When the rain eased a bit more, I ran across the street, for a gas can and purchase of gas. Thunder, lightning and pouring rain continued as I cranked the pump, dashed back across the road, and fervently hoped no one I knew was in the after-work traffic splashing by. By now, I was soaked through, and my hair hung in dripping strands. I'd come out of the shower drier than this.

"When I get my hands on him, I'm gonna..."

Can in hand, I raced around the car hunting the tank cap. And again. And again, I raced around the car. Good grief, where was the gas tank in this car?

Aware of the eyes of the shop's owners, who were observing what must look by now like a one woman Three Stooges act, I plunked the can down and raced into the shop and explained my predicament. Ignoring the puddle I was dripping on their floor, they kindly urged me to just wait it out a bit.

When the storm eased, the gentleman dashed with me through the rain to the car. I yanked at a vent covering between the rear and side window—which I'd tried to lift earlier—and there was the gas tank cap. He pried up the cap, then refastened it securely after I'd poured in the fuel.

Rejoicing in rain—handy filling stations and in helpful strangers, I noticed the stunted corn throughout the neighborhood already looked as though it had perked up.

"Naw, you couldn't have run out of gas," scoffed the car's owner when I confronted him. "It had a quarter of a tankful yet."

Uh huh. Sure.

He laughed. "Gee, thanks, Mom, for finding out how many gallons that tank holds. That was the first full tank of gas I've checked. That gauge must really be off."

Gosh. At least he said thanks.

Fruit: Perfect For Warm-Weather Dining

When it comes to summer meals, almost every cook has the same requirements. The dish should be refreshing, kind to both pocketbook and waistline and get you out of the kitchen fast!

Impossible? Of course not. It's easy when you use fruits and vegetables.

Take advantage of the delightful fresh fruits of the season. Match them to one of our contributor's recipes, and you'll have a tailor-made dish to soothe picky eaters even on the most sultry days.

Recently, I read that women did not include enough fruits and vegetables in their diets. Don't be one of the statistics. All you need is some fruit and a few minutes to concoct a dish that's a summer dream.

FROZEN WALDORF SALAD

1 (9-ounces) can crushed pineapple
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
⅛ cup mayonnaise
2 medium apples
dash of salt
½ cup whipping cream
⅓ cup diced celery
½ cup chopped nuts
⅓ cup small marshmallows

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Mix together eggs, sugar, lemon juice, salt and syrup. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Remove and cool. Fold in mayonnaise. Dice apples and combine with pineapple, celery, nuts, and marshmallows. Whip cream and fold into cooled egg mixture. Pour over fruit and mix thoroughly. Turn into 8-inch square pan and freeze.

STEWED APPLES

6 to 10 apples, peeled and sliced
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Dash of cloves
¾ cup raisins
½ to 1 cup water

Place all in crockpot and cook on low for 8 hours or simmer on stove top until soft (2 to 3 hours), stirring occasionally.

PRETZEL SALAD

2 cups crushed pretzels, unsalted or salted
4 tablespoons sugar
1 cup melted butter

Mix together and press in a 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes. Meanwhile, mix together:

1 large box fruit-flavored gelatin
2½ cup boiling water

Add:

2 cups crushed berries
1 quart large can of fruit cocktail.

Let set until jelled.

Mix together:

8-ounces whipped topping
8-ounces cream cheese

Spoon the cream cheese mixture on top of the pretzel crust. Top with jellow mixture and let set in refrigerator.

¾ cup whipping cream
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Prepare pastry crust. Stir together sugar and flour; spread half of the mixture in a pie crust. Place each peach half cut side down on sugar (overlap halves if necessary). Sprinkle remaining sugar mixture over peaches. Pour cream over peaches, sprinkle with cinnamon. Cover edge with a 2 to 3 inch strip of aluminum foil to prevent excessive browning. Remove foil during the last 15 minutes of baking. Reduce oven temperature and bake 10 additional minutes. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or longer. Cool.

Apple Parfaits, in their red, white and blue glory, are a great way to celebrate summer. Excellent for calorie watchers, the dessert is a light refresher perfect for warm-weather dining.

SCALLOPED PINEAPPLE

4 cups bread cubes
½ cup butter, melted
1½ cup sugar
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup evaporated milk
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple

Place bread cubes in mixing bowl; pour butter over top. Toss until coated. Add sugar, eggs, milk and pineapple; mix thoroughly. Pour into well-greased 1½ quart casserole. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40 minutes to 1 hour or until firm and browned. Serve with baked ham or ham loaf.

Carol Hostetter, a farm wife from McConnelsburg, has done some extraordinary things.

For one, she has compiled a cookbook "Favorite Recipes From Our Best Cooks."

It has 132 pages of her favorite recipes and those of the friends and acquaintances.

Interspersed between the recipes are colorful photos of food.

The thumb index contains information on equivalents, weights, measures and substitutions. It has a herb guide, six steps to a perfect pie, ways to use leftovers, recipes for crowds, seafood cookery, diet menus, freezing guide, stain chart and first aid and other helpful information.

If you would like a copy of the book, send your name and address with $6 to Mrs. Eugene Hostetter, Rt. #2, Box 161-A McConnelsburg, PA 17233.

To read more about Carol and the extraordinary things she does, turn to page B2. And don't forget to try her recipe for Swedish Meatballs.

Swedish Meatballs

2 pounds ground beef
2 eggs
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1½ cups milk
½ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup flour
10½ ounces beef broth
1 teaspoon dill weed

Combine meat, eggs, crumbs, ¼ cup milk, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Mix lightly. Shape into small 1-inch balls. Brown in butter. Place meatballs in a 2-quart casserole. Reserve pan drippings.

Stir flour drippings and mix until well blended. Add beef broth, 1¼ cups milk and dill weed. Cook until thickened stirring constantly.

Pour over meatballs. Bake in a preheated oven at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 10 servings.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't seem to find it anywhere, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION - Mrs. Florence Gruber would like a recipe for Mush cake or Mush pie. Her mother made it so that it could be eaten with sausage or as a cake.

QUESTION - B. Nolt from Lititz requests a recipe for vanilla wafers.

QUESTION - Lana Stoner, Greencastle, requests a recipe for pineapple fritters. She said the batter is deep fried and the juice from the pineapples is used to make a sauce to pour on the fritters.

QUESTION - Virginia Brubaker, Manheim, requests a recipe for a pear tart that appeared in this paper a few weeks ago. She recalls that the recipe, which she misplaced, uses sour cream.

QUESTION - Mrs. E. Young, Dewart, requests recipes for both cream of broccoli and cream of cauliflower soups.

QUESTION - J. M. Hege of Millen, Ga., requests a recipe for sweet gherkins pickles.

QUESTION - Edith Moore, Pennington, N. J., requests recipes using blueberries and all kinds of recipes for muffins.

QUESTION - Martha Smith of Millerstown requests recipes for goulash, especially the Hungarian kind.

QUESTION - Margaret Gockley of Mohnton would like to know if fondant that is used in chocolate coating cherries can be used in other ways.

QUESTION - Sandra Reith, Emmaus, requests a recipe for "Dairy Queen Ice Cream" that appeared in this paper.

QUESTION - Bonnie Blain, Halifax, requests a recipe for cinnamon raisin biscuits similar to those made at Hardees and she'd like a recipe for Oreo® cookies.

QUESTION - Terry Lerew, Gardners, requests the recipe for monster cookies submitted by Wayne Erb of Mount Joy.

ANSWER - On July 9, the "Home on the Range" section featured vegetable dishes. As usual, many recipes arrive too late to appear in that section. They should appear in the newspaper office the Monday before the scheduled date. If they are late, I try to use them later. Here is one from May Ozinmek of Flemington, N. J., that I thought you might enjoy. She writes that children love it.

Broccoli Casserole

1 bag (24-ounces) frozen broccoli, chopped

Cook in small amount of water until tender. Drain, put ½ of it into a 1 quart casserole. Top with one cup shredded processed cheese. Top with remaining broccoli and another cup of cheese.

In a plastic bag, crush 25 buttered-flavored crackers with ½ stick of butter. Work with hands until crumbly. Sprinkle over broccoli and cheese.

Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden.

ANSWER - Renee Hankins of Norristown requested a recipe for creamy rice pudding. Thanks May Ozimek of Flemington, N. J., who sent one that she claims is exceptional.

Creamy Rice Pudding

In a 3 quart pot, stir:
2 quarts milk
4 ounces long-grained rice
5 ounces sugar

Cook mixture uncovered over medium heat until boiling. Turn to simmer and stir often for 1½ hours.

When liquid thickens and rice cooks, turn off heat and add:
3 beaten eggs
1 tablespoon vanilla

Pour into shallow 9x13-inch pan. Cool at room temperature. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Chill.

ANSWER - V. M. Martin, Springfield, Va., requested recipes for all kinds of crackers. Thanks to Bonnie Blain, Halifax, Terry Lerew of Gardners, and Adelia Arrington of Christiansburg, Va., for the following recipes.

Whole Wheat Crackers

¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
⅞ cup whole wheat flour

In a bowl, mix the water, salt and enough flour to make a moist dough, but one that will roll out without being sticky. Knead for a few minutes. Roll on a floured board. Turn over several times and flour board as needed, but lightly, or they will get hard as plywood. Put the dough on a large cookie sheet and roll dough very thin. Score with a sharp knife into 2-inch rectangles. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes. Yield: about 24.

Corn Crackers

1 cup cornmeal
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water

Mix cornmeal and salt in a bowl. Pour the water over the meal and stir well. Grease a large baking sheet. Shape the mixture into a ball and place on the sheet. Roll as thin as you can. Score into small rectangles with a knife. Bake at 350 degrees until crisp and brown (watch for scorching). Baking time depends on the thickness of the crackers. Makes about 24.

Thin Wheat Crackers

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine in mixing bowl:
2 cups whole wheat flour
2 tablespoons wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons dry milk solids

Cut in 6 tablespoons margarine with pastry blender. Combine separately and stir in:
½ cup water
1 tablespoon molasses.

Knead a little until smooth. Grease two 10x15-inch cookie sheets and sprinkle with cornmeal. Divide dough in half. Roll out half of dough directly on cookie sheet with floured rolling pin, rolling dime thin. Sprinkle lightly with paprika, garlic, onion, or seasoned salt. Run rolling pin over once more. Prick with fork. Cut into squares or triangles. Bake 10 minutes.

Rice Krispie's Cheese Ball

½ pound butter, softened
1 pound cheddar cheese, grated
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups flour
2 cups rice krispies

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together butter and cheese. Add salt and pepper. Blend in flour and krispies. Form into walnut-sized balls and place on ungreased baking sheets. Dip a fork in water and flatten each ball. Bake until golden brown.

ANSWER - Martha Hohmeier, Lincroft, N. J., requested recipes for light and fluffy yeast buns. Thanks Adelia Arrington, Christiansburg, Va., for your recipe.

Honey Whole Wheat Rolls

2 packages dry yeast
1 cup warm water
¾ cup salad oil
¼ cup honey
2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups hot water
6 cups whole wheat flour or white flour or a mixture.
2 cups raisins, if desired for sweet buns

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl. Add oil, honey, salt, eggs, and hot water; stir well. Gradually mix in flour. Cover with plastic wrap. Chill overnight. Heat oven to 425 degrees. Shape in 2-inch rolls. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes. If adding raisins, mix in flour. For pull-apart buns, dip balls in melted margarine. Roll in cinnamon-sugar mixture and stack in tube pan (well-greased). Bake at 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Turn out immediately on plate. Contributor writes, "These rolls are always light and fluffy."

ANSWER - Stephanie Sudal, Pine Island, N.Y., requested a recipe for onion bread that is made without yeast. Thanks Nancy B. Wallace of New Holland for your response.

Onion Cheese Bread

2 cups onions, sliced
3 tablespoons butter
2 cups flour

(Turn to Page B9)

Fruit

CANNED FRESH FRUIT PIE FILLING

6 quarts fresh fruit, apples, peaches, berries, damsons, or red plums
4 cups sugar
½ cup tapioca
½ cup cornstarch
1½ tablespoon cinnamon or nutmeg or apple pie spice

Mix well. Seal. Cold water pack for 50 minutes in boiling water or pressure can 10 pounds for 12 minutes.

Adelia Arrington
Christuansburg, Va.

PEACH PUNCH

2 cups sugar
2 cup water
1 pint peach nectar*
1 6-ounces frozen orange juice concentrate
1 6-ounces frozen pineapple juice concentrate ¾ cup lemon juice
2 large bottles gingerale, chilled

Combine sugar and water. Stir to dissolve. Add all juices. Just before serving add gingerale. Fills large punch bowl - 20 to 25 servings. May be topped with lemon or lime sherbet.

*Peach Nectar:
1 pound peeled peaches, well ripened
2 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pure ascorbic acid OR 1 teaspoon commercial preparation

Peel peaches, cut in quarters, weigh and immediately sprinkle with ascorbic acid.

Place in food processor and convert to liquid (15 to 30 seconds)

Pour in pint container. Gently stir in 2 tablespoons sugar. Leave ½ -inch headspace. Fasten lid and freeze.

Terry Lerew
Gardners

APPLE PARFAITS

1 cup vanilla yogurt
2 teaspoons orange juice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 apples, cored and diced
½ pint strawberries, hulled and halved
1 cup fresh blueberries

Blend together yogurt, orange juice and cinnamon. Layer diced apples, strawberries, and blueberries with yogurt in parfait glasses or dessert dishes. Chill until ready to serve. Serves 4 to 6.

QUICK CHERRY COBBLER

1½ cup pitted cherries
1½ cup sugar
1 cup flour
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons soft butter

Cook cherries and ¾ cup sugar in saucepan until cherries are tender. Sift together flour, remaining ¾ cup sugar, salt and baking powder. Add milk and butter; beat well. Pour boiling cherry mixture into square baking pan; pour batter over cherries. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Any fruit may be substituted for cherries.

Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF

Do you spend more time and money keeping up your car than you do keeping up your body? Just for a minute, think of your body as a car. Cadillac, Rolls Royce, or whatever model you like. If you take good care of it and keep it repaired, it will give you good service and performance.

What happens when you put the wrong kind of gas into it? It will give you problems. If you continue to do this your problems may become more serious. Your body works the same way. A continuously poor diet leads to poor health. A poor diet may have alot of junk foods in it and a lack of nourishing foods which your body needs in order to keep running well.

Do you eat a lot of your meals in fast food restaurants?

Do you eat sweets for snacks?

Do you omit vegetables from your meals?

Research studies have shown that many people eat too few fruits and vegetables. People are eating out more than ever, which may result in diets high in fat, sugar and salt. Fruits and vegetables, often omitted in restaurant menus, are essential to our diets. They supply us with many vitamins, minerals and the fiber we need to perform necessary body functions.

This summer at picnics. barbecues and parties include raw vegetables instead of chips or crackers to nibble on or dip into your dips. Try raw turnips, carrots, celery, cauliflower, broccoli, zucchini, green pepper, cucumber and tomatoes. This will help cut down on your salt intake. For sweet munchies, replace pies, cakes, cookies and candy with fresh fruit.

CAN IT CLEAN, HOT AND FAST

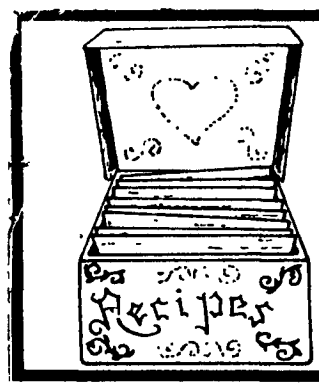
The best home canning equipment won't prevent spoilage if the produce to be canned isn't well washed and trimmed before processing.

Dirt contains some of the hardiest bacteria around. Wash foods in as many changes of water as it takes to get a clear rinse. Don't soak foods; they lose flavor and food value.

Trim well and peel. Root crops and some fruits have a rough skin and washing alone won't remove mold spores or other hidden bacteria.

The hot pack method of filling the canning jars is recommended. With this method, you bring foods to a boil or cook uncovered for a specified time, pack hot into jars and then heat process. It's an extra step that is really essential because hot pack helps remove bacteria prior to canning. Hot pack not only gives you a safer product; you get more food per jar, fewer unsealed lids and a better looking product.

You used the hot pack method and still had problems? Maybe the phone rang, a neighbor arrived or a child came in crying. The few minutes you spent dealing with the interruption may have been long enough for the temperature of the food to drop enough to cancel the benefits of the hot pack. If you are interrupted, bring the food back to a boil before packing it into jars for processing.



Cook's Question Corner

2 tablespoons baking powder
¼ cup shortening
2 tablespoons parsley
1 cup milk
½ cup grated cheese

Saute onions in butter until soft. Cool. Sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture looks like coarse meal. Add parsley and milk. Stir just until moistened. Pat out dough in large rectangle. Spread with half of the onions and cheese. Roll up like jelly roll and place in greased bread pan. Spread remaining onions over top and sprinkle with cheese. Bake 425 degrees about 25 minutes or until done.

From PA To Maine: 4-H Exchange

CHAMBERSBURG—Sixteen Franklin County 4-Hers and five chaperones recently spent a week in Maine as part of the 4-H exchange program.

The 4-Hers lived with host families in Oxford County, Maine, from June 30 to July 9. They also toured historic sites in Boston and New Hampshire.

Next summer, the local 4-hers will host a group from Maine.

Those participating in the exchange included: Denise Kessler, Jennie Gloss, Patty Gloss, Jodi Stoner, Kelly Boyd, Chris Reichard, Michelle Miller, Sandee Brechbill, Sam Welty and Ryan Meyers, all of Chambersburg; Stephanie Myers, Tim Cashell and Toby Horsh of St. Thomas; Karen Beaver and Kevin Egolf of Waynesboro; and Chris Rice of Greencastle. Chaperones were Larry Dice, Nina Hill and Carla Crider of Chambersburg; Linda Horsh of St. Thomas; and Molly Reichard of Waynesboro.

Tips On Raising Australian Shepherd Puppies

Remember a few weeks ago we printed a picture of two little kids and their dog sitting at a table eating a snack? The children were Mark and Amanda Shughart with their Australian Shepherd puppy named Peanut. The Shugharts wanted some information on how to train their puppy.

Thanks Rachel Lapp of Cassadago, N. Y. who sent us information. Rachel wrote that her family has two females and one male Australian Shepherds to help herd the cows.

Rachel says, "I am by no means a professional trainer, but I enjoy working with dogs and Aussies are especially pleasant to work with. They have sharp brains, and natural herding instincts. We will always have Aussies now. We're hooked on them."

Not all lines have the original good brains, nor working instincts. She says that you must buy from a good working line to be assured of a worker.

She says that the male is the most handsome and intelligent, but he doesn't work yet at nine months. She doubts that he'll be a serious worker, but mated with their female workers, they expect to get some good workers.

Flash, one of their females, has a litter of ten puppies. Flash is a gentle worker and nice with dairy cows. Flicka is quick, a real worker and has a winning disposition.

For those who would like information on training the Australian Shepards, Rachel recommends the following books. Check your local bookstore or library for them.

"All About Aussie" from Alpine Publications, Inc. It is a beautiful color illustrated book about the breed.

"The Perfect Stock Dog" by Ben Means, is Rachel's favorite book. She said it's put together for the novice trainer.

"The National Stock Dog Magazine" has good training tips and articles about all working dogs. Write to them at 3184 CR 75, Butler, IN 46721. A one-year subscription is $12.

Thanks Rachel for your helpful information. She would like to hear from others who have the dogs. Write to her at R.#2, Box 174, Cassandaga, N.Y. 14718, or call 716 595 3210.

Joshua is hot on the trail of something interesting. His pal, Bandit, a German Shepherd mix, gallops along side of him.

On hot days, Joshua and Bandit cool off by taking a swim in the Conestoga River.

Summer Pet Care Pointers

Fun in the sun should be in store for your dog this summer—and can be if you follow these helpful hints:

• Dogs need less calories in summer than in winter. Now may be time to reduce your pet's diet a bit. Your veterinarian is your best source for dietary information.

• Make sure that your dog keeps away from the family pool. Dogs are natural swimmers, but they can still become trapped and drown.

• Give your dog a daily brushing in warm weather. You can also keep your dog comfortable and your house fur-free and flea-free with the use of a low-pH shampoo such as Scratchex® Flea and Tick Shampoo. It gives extra insurance against fleas, and leaves your dog's coat glossy and smelling fresh. Between shampoos, use a safe, natural pyrethrin-based spray on his coat to kill fleas and ticks. You can also use this to spray areas where he sleeps and eats.

• Remember—now that the hot weather is upon us, give your pet a place in the shade to protect it against heat stroke.

For an informative, free booklet containing coupons worth $3.00 write to: Fighting the Flea, c/o Sulfodene/Scratchex Pet Skin Care Center, P. O. Box 328 MC, White Plains, N.Y 10602.

Joshua, a 4-month-old Australian Shepherd, views the world from on top of his house.

Dog Tales

Here are a few dog tales that could prove interesting to the estimated 39 percent of American households with dogs.

There are about 42 million dogs in America.

●The longest-lived dog was a black Labrador named "Adjutant" who lived for more than 27 years.

●To keep Fido's coat clean and silky, a variety of combs are available, including one battery-operated model.

●The smallest breed is the Chihuahua which, full-grown, can weigh as little as one pound.

●As any dog owner knows, it doesn't make any difference how nutritious a product is if Fido turns "paws down".

●The heaviest dog on record was a Wisconsin Saint Bernard, who, at age five, weighed 295 pounds.

Those Pesty Fleas

Ever wonder about those pesty, little fleas that plague your pets in summer weather? "The National Geographic" magazine gives the following facts:

• As carriers of plague, fleas have claimed more victims than all the wars ever fought.

• Some fleas can jump 150 times their own length -- vertically or horizontally -- equivalent to a man jumping nearly 1,000 feet.

• Man is the only primate afflicted by fleas.

• The attempts of mammals to rid themselves of fleas by biting and scratching are frustrated by fleas' ability to withstand enormous pressure.

• Fleas of various species can survive months without feeding or remain frozen for a year and then revive.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

It's not much fun to cook a meal for one. However, if you have a microwave in your kitchen and a "starter food" in your freezer, it's easy to get along.

Turkey Sandwich Mix is a "starter" for a pizza burger, a pita, a tortilla or a cold sandwich. Make the basic mix ahead and refrigerate it or freeze it in single portions. When you're ready for a quick lunch, follow one of the recipes below. Serve with a salad or fruit and a glass of milk for a delicious meal in minutes.

Ground turkey is the convenience food in this reipce. But it fresh in large supermarkets or frozen in smaller stores. It's a good low-sodium alternative to canned turkey, which usually has salt added. And, it's a welcome substitute for fresh turkey pieces since it eliminates the bother of slow cooking, boning and chopping.

Microwaving ground turkey is about the same as microwaving ground beef or pork. Adding seasonings to it before cooking helps it flavor through. Using it undrained keeps it more flavorful. Microwaving uncovered is best because it allows excess moisture to escape.

One big difference with ground turkey is that it can get a "boiled" taste. However, usually this doesn't happen if it's cooked uncovered with seasonings added. It can toughen, so it must not be overcooked. Microwave just until it is no longer pink. Stir several times to make sure it is well-cooked throughout, but don't overcook. Ground turkey will form a tougher and firmer lump than other ground meats if it isn't stirred thoroughly during cooking. Crumble it into cooking dish and stir with a fork to break up turkey several times during cooking.

TURKEY SANDWICH MIX

1-1¼ pounds ground fresh turkey
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon dried Italian herbs
¼ teaspoon salt)optional)
¼ teaspoon pepper

Crumble ground turkey into microwave-safe 2-quart casserole. With a fork, stir in onions, herbs, salt and pepper. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes, stirring with a fork at least once cooking toi break up turkey. Cook just until turkey is no longer pink. Serve warm in Turkey Pitas (or Tortillas) or Turkey Pizza Burgers or cold in Turkey Salad Sandwiches. Or refrigerate or freeze for later. Makes enough for about 6 sandwiches.

To double recipe: Double ingredients and microwaving time. Stir every 3 minutes to break up turkey. If desired, cool; then freeze in meal-size portions.

To thaw one serving: Place in microwave-safe dish. Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) for 45 to 90 seconds, breaking apart with fork halfway through heating.

Each serving: 102 calories, 19g protein, 2g fat, 1g carbohydrate, 46mg sodium, 48mg cholesterol.

Turkey Pizza Burger

⅓ cup cooked Turkey Sandwich Mix
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheeses
Dash garlic powder
Dash oregano
1 split and toasted English muffin
1-2 tablespoons shredded mozzarella cheese

Stir together thawed Turkey Sandwich Mix, catsup, Parmesan cheese, garlic powder and oregano. Spread on tops of toasted English muffin halves. Sprinkle with mozzarella cheese. Place muffins on microwave-safe plate. Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) 45 to 90 seconds or until cheese melts. Serve hot. Makes 1 serving.

Each serving: 347 calories, 30g protein, 8g fat, 38g carbohydrate, 867mg sodium, 38mg cholesterol.

Turkey Pita (or Tortilla)

⅓ cup cooked Turkey Sandwich Mix
1 6-inch pita (pocket bread), halved or 1 large flour tortilla
Shredded Mozzarella cheese
Shredded lettuce
Chopped tomato

If desired, warm thawed Turkey Sandwich Mix in a small microwave-safe dish by microwaving (High) 20 to 40 seconds. Spoon turkey into pita. Top with cheese, lettuce and tomato. (With tortilla, spoon turkey onto center of tortilla; top with remaining ingredients and roll up.) Makes 1 serving.

Each pita: 320 calories, 29g protein, 4g fat, 35g carbohydrate, 116mg sodium, 57mg cholesterol.

Each tortilla: 245 calories, 26g protein, 6g fat, 21g carbohydrate, 117mg sodium, 57mg cholesterol.

Turkey Salad Sandwich

⅓ cup cooked, chilled Turkey Sandwich Mix
2 tablespoons chopped celery
Lettuce leaf
1 tablespoon mayonnaise or salad dressing
Buttered roll or 2 slices bread

Stir together cold Turkey Sandwich Mix, celery and mayonnaise. Spread mixture on roll or on one slice of bread; top with lettuce and roll top or second slice of bread. Serve cold. Makes 1 serving.

Each serving: 325 calories, 22g protein, 15g fat, 23g carbohydrate, 374mg sodium, 58mg cholesterol.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Last week I took a day trip to Williamsport on a bus. Now this may not sound exciting but it was a very pleasant trip with several highlights.

Our first stop was the Lycoming County Historical Museum. here they traced the lives of the original Indian tribes and the industry of the area. It seems that lumbering and especially the log boom contributed to the rapid growth in population and wealth. In the 1870's there were 18 millionaires living on one street in the town.

The heavily forested wilderness with white pine and hemlock surrounding Williamsport brought workers who put in 13 hour days at $2.50 per day. The 100 men in a logging camp cut trees which were floated down the Susquehanna River to sawmills. However a boom in the river to contain logs was broken several times during floods and finally its use was ended in 1909 and railroads took over the transportation of lumber.

The museum has an extensive toy train collection. It consists of 337 complete trains and 100 individual locomotives of which 12 are "one of a kind."

One room in the museum looked like a bedroom from my house. The golden oak furniture was made in Williamsport and I was amazed to learn that the 1896 price was fifteen dollars. it was a wedding gift to my Grandmother Shreiner. The room also contained a chamber pot, a human hair wreath, a large old Bible and framed cross stitching—just like mine.

After a box lunch along the Susquehanna River, we boarded an old fashioned paddle-wheeled riverboat named the "Hiawatha." Here we were told more tales of the river folk as we passed Bald Eagle Mountain.

After touring some large homes and a church on "Millionaire's Row", we ended our day with a nice evening meal at a restaurant in Lewisburg and a jaunt through some gift shops.

Families Sought To Raise Seeing Eye Puppies

MORRISTOWN, N.J.—The Seeing Eye, Inc., is anxiously seeking families to raise puppies destined to become dog guides for blind people. Puppies born at the Scientific Breeding Station in Mendham Township are ready for loving homes.

The Seeing Eye, Inc., pays veterinary expenses and provides a monthly allowance to help defray other puppy-raising costs. The adults and youngsters who raise the puppies take them to local 4-H meetings to teach them basic obedience, and a Seeing Eye representative visits the home periodically to record the progress of each pup.

It is important for at least one family member to be home during the day to care for the puppy; therefore, raising a Seeing Eye puppy is a family project. As part of a family, a puppy gets the confidence it needs to be a Seeing Eye dog. When it's old enough for training, it will already be well adjusted to family life. Sometime between 12 and 14 months of age the pup will return to The Seeing Eye in Morris Township, NJ, for specialized training with qualified instructors.

Since 1941, 4-H families have been raising puppies for The Seeing Eye. For more information contact your 4-H county extension at 394-6851.

Poultry Queen Contestants Named

Six young ladies will compete for the title of Lancaster County Poultry Queen at the annual contest to be held August 5, at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

The winner will be crowned by Teresa Martin, Ephrata, reigning Lancaster County Poultry Queen. The Poultry Queen represents the Lancaster County poultry industry, promoting its products and educating the public during her reign.

Contestants include: Rebecca Barley, 17, daughter of Henry and Marsha Barley, Lancaster. She will be a senior at Penn Manor High School in the fall. She lives on a pullet growing farm. She enjoys field hockey and gymnastics.

Karen Brubaker, 18, daughter of Bob and Lois Brubaker, Manheim, graduated from Lancaster Mennonite High School in 1988. She lives on a poultry farm which can house 210,000 broiler birds. She enjoys tennis, swimming and volleyball.

Alissa Hoober, 17, daughter of Mervin and Ruth Hoober, New Holland, will be entering her senior year at Garden Spot High School. Alissa's family raises 65 to 68 thousands pullets per year. She enjoys sewing, crafts, field hockey, piano and violin.

Yeshashwork (Lily) Kibour, 18, lives with her guardian Grace Zimmerman, Reinholds, on a broiler farm. Lily will be a senior at Garden Spot High School in the fall. She enjoys swimming, bike riding, volleyball, and basketball.

Lisa Nolt, 18, daughter of David and Shirley Nolt, Paradise, graduated from Lancaster Mennonite School. She enjoys bowling, swimming, volleyball and running.

Melissa Weidler, 19, is the daughter of Ralph and Julie Ella Weidler of Manheim. She graduated from Manheim Central High School and is presently employed at Kreider Farms, in the retail egg division. She enjoys swimming and just relaxing.

The winner of the contest will receive either a $500 educational scholarship or $300 in cash. The runner-up will receive a $300 scholarship or $150 cash. All contestants receive a watch.

Chairpersons for the event are Milton and Thelma Landis R. D. 2, Parkesburg, Pa. 19365.

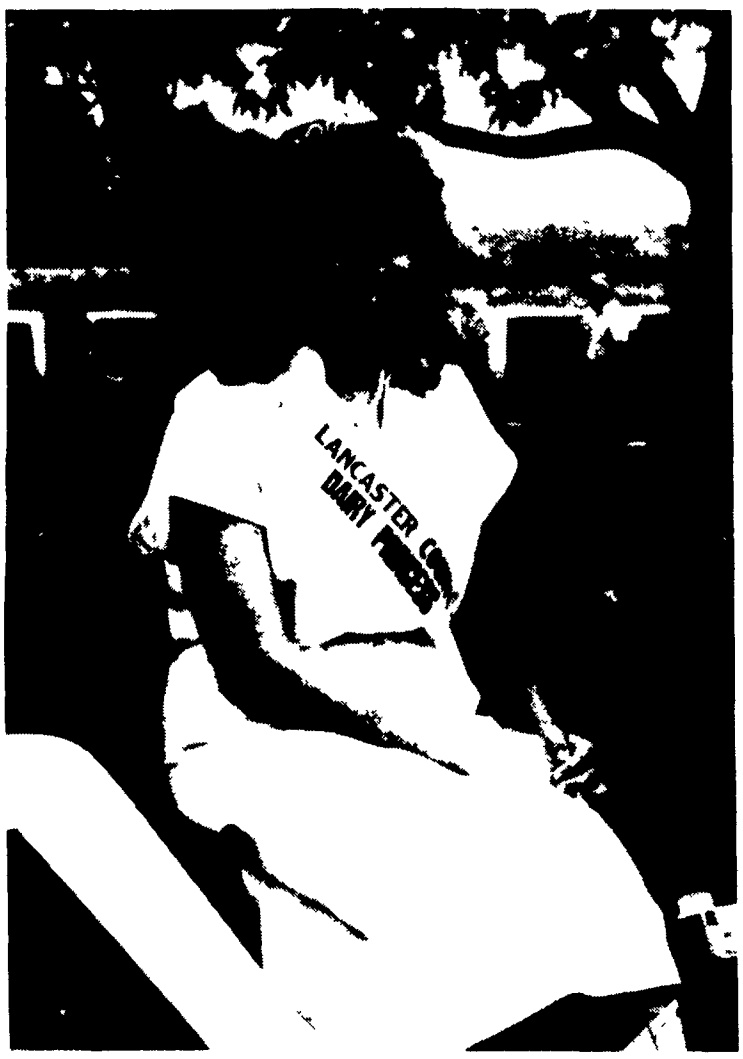
Princess Promoted Ford New Holland Field Day



Lancaster County Dairy Princess Julie Greider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Greider, Columbia, looks right at home on a Ford model 1710 tractor. Julie spoke about 40 Lancaster County farmers at the Ford New Holland field day demonstration held at Welk Acres Farm, Quarryville.

Julie stressed the importance of using milk related products and promoted July as Ice Cream Month.

Child Discipline: Positive And Negative

LEBANON — There is probably no topic that generates more discussion among parents than the subject of discipline. Parents feel strongly about managing a child's behavior and handling conflict.

In America a large number of parents rely on the use of physical punishment or the threat of it as a way of dealing with undesirable behavior. Physical punishment not only takes the form of spanking or slapping hands but it also means hitting and even injuring a child.

There is an increased awareness of the seriousness of child abuse. Formerly, it was thought to exist only in low-income families. Now information shows child abuse is not limited to families who live on a limited income. The problems cuts across all income levels.

Underlying both physical punishment and child abuse is the widespread belief that the use of physical force to punish is the acceptable way to deal with children's misbehavior.

There is an old cliche, "Violence begets violence." Unfortunately, this truth is supported in studies that looked into the use of physical punishment as a means of disciplining children. Studies as early as 1957 and even now show that when physical punishment is used, the aggressive behavior of children tended to increase rather than decrease. Numerous studies have also found that this aggressive behavior stays with a person as an adult. In other words, if a child was abused in childhood, when he or she reaches adulthood, he or she will use the same treatment on his or her children.

When we discipline our children, we must consider the far-reaching consequences of physical punishment. Preschool children tend to receive a lot of physical punishment. A more effective way is to distract them. Children of this age are easily distracted, like variety in what they are doing and need large doses of attention.

As an alternative to physically punishing a child for playing with a lamp, for example, try changing that child's attention with a momentary bit of attention from you. Try distracting the child by suggesting that he find his toy car or truck. Or if you see him heading for the forbidden lamp, instead of administrating a swift and forceful swat on the southern portion of his body, tell him you need his help right now with something you are doing.

The child probably is heading for the lamp because he finds it interesting at that moment or he wants to get your attention and he knows that's a good way of getting it. If you divert his attention to something more constructive such as finding his car, then you will avoid the temptation to swat him. Most importantly, you will be giving him some attention.

Another way to avoid physically punishing the child is to move a little furniture around. If a valuable or highly breakable object is the source of curiosity for the child, move it to higher ground. That lessens your frustration and possibly even your anger.

Some parents believe that children should learn to handle themselves around breakable and dangerous objects. But please, remember, a young child does not have the coordination necessary to maneuver his body. He can't be made to do something he is incapable of doing. When he gets older, he will be able to maneuver better.

Look around your home...look for the light cord, the pile of laundry left on the table, the candy dish that belonged to who knows who in the family's past, the electrical outlet that does not have a safety cap, the pot on the stove with the handle sticking out over the edge...what about your home?

Another way to avoid the need to physically punish is to tell the child what you want he or she to do. Instead of repeating "No" or "Don't" over and over again until you get so frustrated, try cooling down and tell the child exactly what it is you want the child to do. For example, instead of yelling, "Get your feet off the sofa," tell them where you want them to sit.

Telling the child exactly what you want them to do won't work if the child is not paying attention. Sometimes you may get frustrated and angry when you have to tell the child something time and time again. The reason may very likely be that you didn't have her attention—she did not hear you the first times you told her. So make certain you have the child's attention before you tell the child.

You might be in a rut or habit of disciplining harshly. It takes time to change, but keep trying. The above examples work.

You might find it helpful to think about yourself. Do you fit one or more of the following descriptions?

•Are you a pacifist? Then you seldom, if ever, scream or yell and hardly ever use physical punishment.

•Are you a threatener? You probably yell a good deal and issue many aggressive-sounding threats, but hardly ever use physical punishment.

•Are you a silent attacker? You seldom use verbal aggressive attacks, but use a lot of physical punishment such as hitting, slapping and spanking.

•Are you a yelling, screaming slugger? You use liberal amounts of screaming, verbal attacks and also large amounts of physical punishment.

Think about how you discipline. Is the punishment for the good of your child? Try to use and think of more constructive ways of handling discipline in your home.

Another way to avoid the need to physically punish is to tell the child what you want he or she to do. Instead of repeating "No" or "Don't" over and over again until you get so frustrated, try cooling down and tell the child exactly what it is you want the child to do.

Photo Contest

FFA'ers and 4-H'ers nationwide are invited to grab their cameras on October 1 and capture the essence of rural America on film. "Country/USA," a special photo contest for 4-H and FFA members is being sponsored by The New Northrup King, in association with Silver Image Productions Inc. of Champaign, Ill.

More than $8,000 in prizes will be awarded and the top 24 photographers will be featured in "One Day in the Country/USA," a unique coffee-table, photo-essay book about the U.S. countryside—its rural areas, small communities and people—as revealed throught the eye of the camera on a single day, October 1, 1988. The book is scheduled for release in fall, 1989, and will feature photographs by professional photographers from around the country.

Given today's modern technology, entrants are expected to concent rate on composition and the compelling shot. "We want photographs that stand on their own, that are intrinsically interesting," said Marvin Black, director of communications for The New Northrup King. "Judges will look for images that differentiate one geography and cultural area from another."

Seventy-four entrants will be recognized for their photographic achievements. Two grand prizes, 22 finalist awards, and 50 honorable mention awards will be given. The grand prize FFA and 4-H entries will receive their choice of a $1,000 scholarship or a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond. Finalists and honorable mention winners each will be awarded $100 and $50 respectively. The grand prize winners and finalists will receive a free copy of the book.

To qualify, all 4-H and FFA entrants must submit color slides that were photographed on October 1, 1988. For rules and entry forms, contact The New Northrup King at 800/445-0956.

Lycoming County Youth Dairy Show

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming) — Four-H'ers showed their dairy animals to a capacity crowd on July 19 at the Lycoming County Youth Dairy Show held at the fairgrounds here. The high humidity produced intermittant showers throughout much of the competition.

For the third consecutive year in the Holstein division, Cynthia Showers, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Showers of Allenwood, took home the grand championship Holstein trophy. Fourteen-year-old Cynthia showed her four-year-old, Try-Oaks Astro Jewel April, who also won the open dairy show last year. April was sired by Knob-View Jewelmaker and is homebred. She currently is producing 15,101M with a 3.4 test, 520 pounds of fat and 495 pounds of protein, according to George Showers.

A member of the Bald Eagle 4-H Club, Cynthis said she is very happy to have won the grand championship this year. "Who wouldn't be," she quipped.

Jason Cooley, fourteen-year-old son of Dale and Sharon Cooley of Allenwood, won the reserve grand champion Holstein award with his entry, Ritter-Ridge Elevation Micky, a two year old. Micky's dam was purchased already bred from Ritter-Ridge Farms of Muncy.

Although Jason noted that he didn't think he had much of a chance to win this year, and he'd never won any major prizes before, he remarked, "It was nice to make the championship round and take the reserve."

Jason has been showing dairy cattle for five years as a member of the Bald Eagle 4-H Club. Appraising his cow, Jason stated, "She has a good udder and she's sharp. She's not tall, but has room to grow. Elevations aren't real good as calves and heifers, but when they grow up, they make real good show cows and milk good for us."

One of the nicest things about winning, according to Jason, is "if your animal leads good and you place good, you're happy."

In the Ayrshire breed, 15-year-old Todd Russell, son of Becky Lovell of Linden, swept the 4-H competition, winning the grand champion and reserve grand champion trophies. His entries were Penn Spring M B Gloria and Lov-Dale Liberace Sweet P, respectively. Todd also won the reserve grand champion award in the open show this year with the same five-year-old, Gloria. Sweet P is a homebred summer yearling.

According to Todd, in previous years Gloria has won reserve grand and grand championships in 4-H competitions, earned a grand championship trophy at districts, and place second in her class at the state show only an hour after freshening.

Gloria is out of Penn Spring D. Gail and was sired by Madge's Boy. She was purchased from Ronald Martin of Penn Spring Farms of Mill Hall and averages 16,000 pounds of milk.

Todd is a member of the State Road 4-H Club and said he enjoys showing animals because he likes them. He believes that training his cows is interesting work, although he warns it takes a lot of patience.

"You just can't go and expect to win the first year ... You'll progress as you go on," he commented.

Sisters, Carolyn and Susan Cline, daughters of Orie and Connie Cline of Linden, captured the grand champion and reserve grand champion trophies in the Jersey breed. Seventeen-year-old Carolyn's entry, a senior heifer calf named Little Pond Valiant Lilly, also took the junior champion award in the open show. Lilly was purchased from Calvin and Judy Watson of Troy.

As a member of the State Road 4-H Club, Carolyn has been showing dairy cattle for eight years. Last year her Hersey entries won the junior champion and reserve champion prizes in 4-H competition at the Lycoming County fair.

According to Carolyn, it took her quite a while until she experienced her first win and, therefore, she advises newcomers not to be disappointed when they lose. "Don't quit because you lose a lot of times," she counseled.

Susan Cline, 15-year-old sister of Carolyn, took the reserve grand champion in the Jerseys with her three-year-old, Nobeldale Douglas Vera. The animal was purchased from Stephen Noble of Gillett. Susan has been showing dairy cattle for seven years as a member of the State Road 4-H Club.

Rhonda Peterman of Muncy showed the grand champion and reserve grand champions in the Guernsey breed. Rhonda's grand champion entry was a four-year-old named Alfa Mar Fayvor Blossom. Her two-year-old, named Peterman's Pride Fayette Amber, took the reserve grand champion trophy.

Bald Eagle 4-H Club took first place in the Club Herd Class with 118 Ag 4-H Club placing second and State Road 4-H Club taking third.

Judges for the event were: Jake Guffey of Bradford County extension office, fitting; Dan Spangler of Union County, showing; and Steve Mowrey of Roaring Springs, type.

Lycoming Youth Market Livestock Sale

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming) — Hoss's Steak & Seafood House in Williamsport paid a ~~record~~ $4,440, or $3.70 per pound, for the grand champion market steer at the Youth Livestock Auction on July 22 at the Lycoming County Fair.

The Angus-cross steer owned by Cathy Murray of Muncy, weighed in at 1,200 pounds. Last year's champion brought $2 per pounds, making it the highest priced market steer up until now.

The grand champion market hog, owned by Shane Corter of Linden, was sold to P. Stone Inc. of Jersey Shore for $388.80 or $3.60 per pound.

The reserve grand champion steer, weighing 1,153 pounds, was sold to Brooks Lumber of Ralston by Laura Lovell of Linden.

The grand champion market lamb went to Jersey Shore Livestock Market, which purchased the 121-pound animal from Laura Lovell for $4.10 per pound. The reserve grand champion market lamb, owned by Shane Corter of Linden, was purchased by P. Stone Inc. of Jersey Shore. The 108-pound lamb brought $3.60 per pound.

The Hatfield Packing Co. went home with the 237-pound grand champion market hog. Owner Michael Corter of Linden was paid $817.65 for the animal. Jackie Snook of Jersey Shore sold her reserve grand champion market hog to Ken Snook Construction of Jersey Shore for $2.05 per pound. The hog weighed in at 241 pounds.

The biggest spender at the sale was Jersey Shore Livestock Auction, which purchased six lambs, four hogs, and five steers for a total of almost $6,000.

Sales receipts for the show totalled $26,990 with 91 animals being purchased. According to treasurer, Nancy Snook, this year's sale brought a record number of animals, buyers and dollars.

Duane Paulson of River Falls, WI has every reason to be pleased with the PRO•CUT Alfalfa he planted last August. The first crop this year went 1.59 tons per acre and carned a relative feed value of 184 It's great to see the special combination of good soil, God's weather, a growers care and a fine alfalfa all come together into an exceptional field of alfalfa like this.

Seeding alfalfa this July or August?

If so, look to our PRO•CUT Alfalfa for those acres. Maybe, its fast start ability, winter hardiness and a 23 disease resistance rating could add a little extra "umpf" to your summer seeding effort. And, if everything clicks along the way, you could have an exceptional field of alfalfa when first crop rolls around next spring.

We have a good supply of PRO•CUT on hand and can deliver it fast. Just give us the word. Pricing is the same as last Spring and Dealer discounts are available.

Check out PRO•CUT for your summer seeding needs or get a head start on next spring's planning. Which ever your situation we think you'll like what you find out about PRO•CUT, our Company and our way of doing business.

Warren County Names Dairy Princess And Dairy Maid

GROVE (Warren)—Tara Jo Harrington was crowned the new 1988 Warren County Dairy Princess and Jolynne Brown was crowned the new 1988 Warren County Dairy Maid on Friday evening, June 24th.

Tara is the 17-year-old daughter of Richard and Roberta Harrington of R-Haven Farm near Corry. She will be a senior at Corry High School this fall, where she is also a cheerleader. Tara is employed part-time at the Corry Country Club and plans to attend Pittsburgh Art Institute majoring in commercial art after she graduates.

Jolynne is the 15-year-old daughter of John and Nancy Brown of Brokenstraw Farm in Lottsville and will be a sophomore at Eisenhower High School. Jolynne is a member of the Western 4-H Dairy Club, where she shows her five Guernseys that she owns. Besides dairy, she is a member of the Lottsville Stitchems 4-H sewing club. Besides her 4-H activities, she is involved in basketball and is a member of the school's Honor Society.

Tara was selected on the results of her personal interview, a skit which centered around a storytime theme, emphasizing the importance of milk and a question "What do you think is the most important duty of a dairy princess?" She replied that a dairy princess should let the public know that milk is good.

Chosen to act as alternate dairy princess were Bethany "Buffy" Spicer, 18, of Gouldtown, daughter of Chevy and Dorie Spicer and Jill Van Ord, 17, of Sugar Grove, daughter of Don and Roxie Van Ord.

Jolynne was selected as dairy maid as a result of personal interview, an essay about dairy promotion and her answer to the question "Why would you like to be the 1988 Dairy Maid?" She replied she is rather shy, would like to practice her public speaking, go places and meet people.

Tonya Gilkinson, 12, of Lander, daughter of Rich and Vicki Gilkinson was selected alternate dairy maid.

Last years dairy princess, Robin Curtis, daughter of Les and Thelma Curtis and dairy maid Deborah Callan, daughter of Frank and Lynette Callan, received their incentive award for their efforts in 1987.

Dean Johnson served as master of ceremonies for the evening. The judges for the event were Dr. David Rice, retired Warren County commissioner and veterinarian, Mrs. Lisa Kempesty, a Chautauqua County, N.Y. Extension Agent, and Phil Roberts, sales representative of Coba/Select Sires.

The pageant was held in the Sugar Grove United Methodist Educational Building, with a dairy bar preceding the event and an ice cream social following the crowning. Approximately 100 people attended.

Jolynne Brown, right, the official Warren County Dairy Maid, is taking over the duties of Deborah Callan, former dairy maid.

Former Warren County Dairy Princess, Robin Curtis, right, stands beside Tara Harrington, the newly crowned princess.

SUPER HOPPER

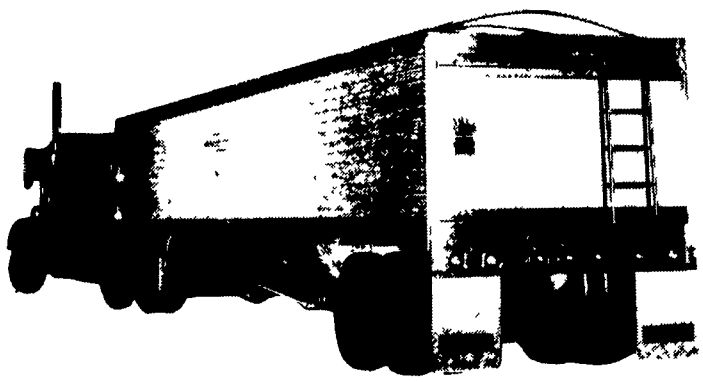
REDESIGNED 1989 TIMPTE GRAIN HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough... the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wind drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

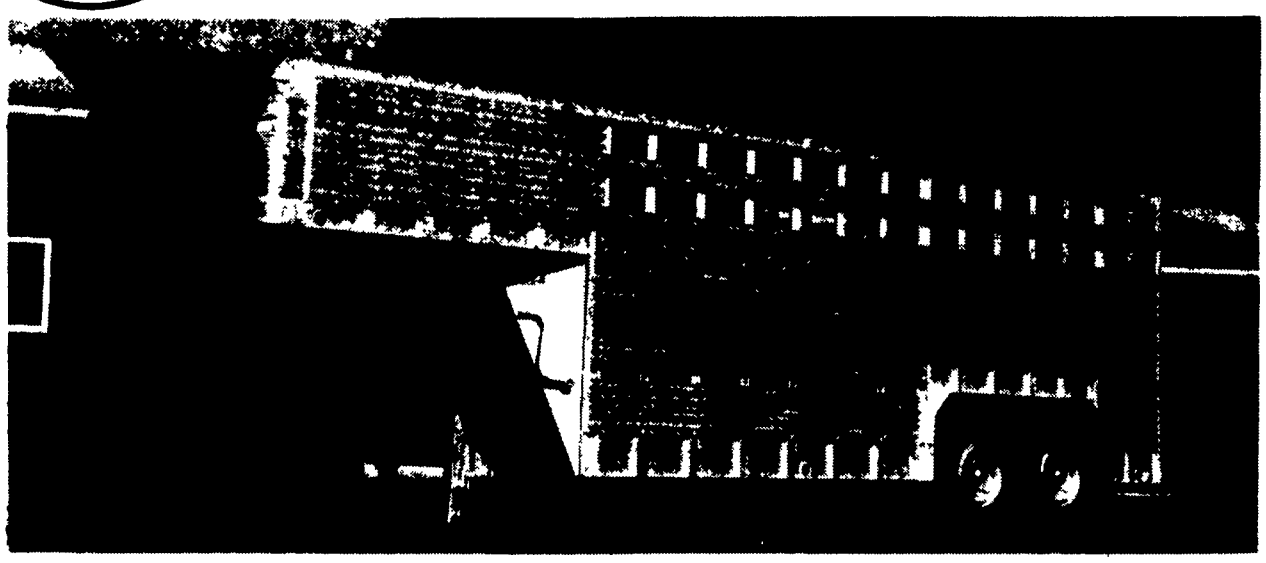
ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS



20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means bètter fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

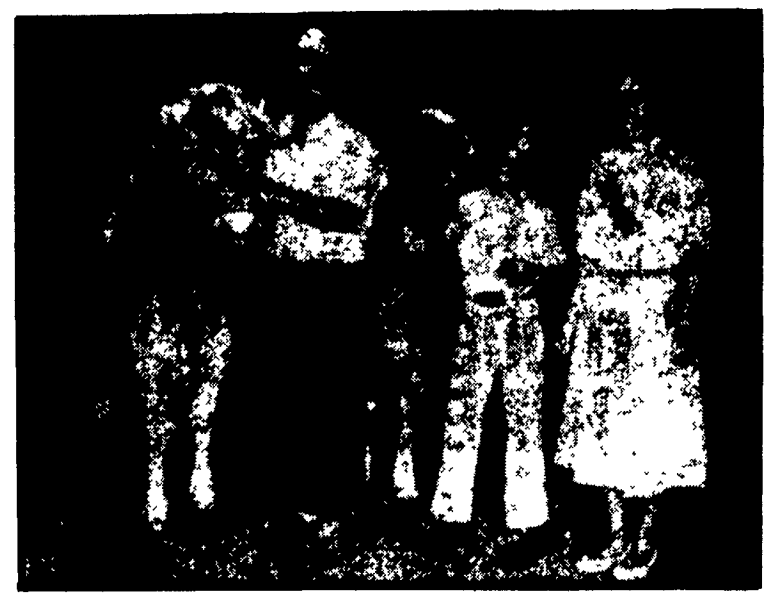
The 1988 Event



Empire Farm Days

Empire Farm Days, the largest, outdoor agricultural show in the Northeast, will take place August 9, 10, 11, 1988 at the Rodman Lott & Sons farm on Route 414, Seneca Falls, New York.

Northeast farmers who are really serious about farming in the year 2000 should make it a point to come to Empire Farm Days in 1988. Empire Farm Days is the only place in the Northeast where farmers can see, touch, smell and hear technology in action. Technology that is setting the pace for Northeast agriculture in the year 2000 and beyond. Agriculture's future - all in one place - all at one time.

This year more than 400 exhibitors will display the latest in agricultural equipment, techniques, services and products. Exhibitors showing off the newest lines in field equipment, chemicals, feed, seed, fertilizer, computers, publications, feed processing and storage equipment, irrigation, financial planning, building, genetic engineering and animal care services will all be on hand. Nonprofit agricultural organizations including breed associations, farm safety, grower groups and agricultural colleges will have displays throughout the show.

In addition to American exhibitors, farm equipment from Canada and other countries will be on hand. One highlight of the show is the farm machinery demonstrations, which allow the farmer to see the newest lines of equipment operate under actual field conditions. This year's machinery demonstrations will be held all three days: 10:00 a.m. Plowing and Secondary Tillage; 11:30 a.m. Corn Silage Harvesting; 1 p.m. Mower/Conditioner Demonstrations; 2:30 p.m. Hay Baling Demonstrations. Other specialize equipment demonstrations are scheduled as well.

New additions to the 1988 show can be found in the exhibits, field plots, daily programs and women's programs. The Seneca County Corn Contest plot is located right on this year's site. Farmers can come, see and compare more than 40 varieties of corn planted in a 10-acre plot on site located on the south east side of the site.

The Corn Tillage Studies plot is a cooperative effort between Cornell University and the Soil Conservation Service. This plot includes a Low Input strip and other varied cultural practices for corn. It is also on the south east area of the site.

The Computer Corner is an example of bringing the Northeast farmer the latest in agricultural technology. Located in the NY Farm Bureau Tent, this new addition to the show features agricultural computer companies showing off the latest in software. This daily, ongoing program is designed to give today's progressive farmer, hands-on experience with computers and programs geared specifically to herd health and management, financial planning and bookkeeping, market information, familyi health, and much, much more. Company representatives will be on hand to explain and guide you through the various programs.

Farmers now, more than ever need to find ways to improve the productivity of their businesses, juggle home and business and stretch their dollars. There are countless ways to accomplish this from employing the use of computers, establishing future estate plans and credit, improving farm safety, finding ways to improve their health, short cuts for family meals, planning much needed-hard to find-mini vacations, enjoying and educating children, and much, much, more. In cooperation with NYS Farm Bureau, NYS Grange and Cooperative Extension-Empire Farm Days has planned countless programs, in addition to the exhibits.

Also located in the Farm Bureau Tent will be a Children's Corner, organized by the Cooperative Extension Association of Seneca County. This is essentially a rest stop for tired children and their parents. In addition to having cold water for drinks and a diaper changing area, it will have a simple activity center for young children, using Cooperative Extension's Mini Environments.

On Wednesday afternoon in the New York Farm Bureau Tent farmers will have the opportunity to meet and talk with the New York Assemblyman and Senators on the Agricultural Committee as they are on hand for informal visits.

The host for this year's event is the Rodman Lott family. The show is sponsored by the Empire State Potato Club, Inc. in cooperation with American Agriculturist, New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, New York Farm Equipment Dealers' Association, New York State Farm Equipment Club, New York State Electric and Gas Corporation, Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation and Cornell Cooperative Extension.

The show is designed for the whole family. There is no admission charge, parking is $2 per car, good food including, ice cream, turkey, beef and pork barbeques are plentiful.

Two Maryland Conservation Districts Win Awards

ANNAPOLIS, MD — Anne Arundel Soil Conservation District and Catoctin Soil Conservation District have been chosen as grand award winners in the 41st Annual Goodyear Conservation Awards Program, according to Richard Wright, president of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

"An independent judging committee of state agricultural leaders selected the winners on the basis of the district's accomplishments in soil and water conservation," said Wright.

The Maryland districts were among the 102 top-prize winners nationwide in the competition sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts.

"I'm pleased that districts, who play such an important part in state natural resource programs, are being recognized nationally for their accomplishments," commented Wayne A. Cawley, Jr., secretary of agriculture. Soil conservation districts implement the State's agricultural soil conservation and water quality programs at the local level.

The grand award-winning districts will receive plaques recognizing their achievements at a meeting of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts in July. A supervisor from each winning district will participate in an all-expenses paid grand awards study tour in December to the Wigwam resort in Arizona courtesy of the Goodyear Company and award sponsor.

FAIR DAYS

Goschenhoppen Folk Festival

Come one! Come all! and learn about "The Pennsylvania German Garden" as the Goschenhoppen Historians present their 22nd Annual Folk Festival. Come rain or shine to the New Goschenhoppen Park, 3rd Street, East Greenville, Northern Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Come on Friday, August 12, 1988 12 noon to 8 p.m. Or come on Saturday, August 13, 1988 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Come and see how a clock is made by the clockmaker. Learn how to make a gun or to make rope. See an organ maker constructing pipes for an organ being made only at the Festival. Come and examine an actual garden that will be set up in the traditional location behind a three-room house. As you visit the Festival, see and learn how the garden played a key role in the lives of our forefathers.

While the garden was maintained primarily by the women and children, everyone was involved with and benefited from the garden. Men repaired fences, hauled manure and made tools. Children weeded, hoed and harvested vegetables. The women planted, cared for and took pride in their vegetables, herbs and flowers.

The garden was an essential source of fresh vegetables for each family. They had no supermarkets to run to when they wanted fresh produce. They needed to rely on the produce from their own garden; the peas, onions, potatoes, beets, cucumbers and the like. Along with these vegetables, were the important medicinal herbs as well as the beautiful array of flowers.

So come, learn how the garden vegetables were grown as an actual garden can be seen. Come and experience authentic Pennsylvania Dutch food, like a ham & bean dinner, peaches and ice cream, sausage sandwiches or warm piece of ground cherry pie. No hot dogs or hamburgers are to be had as they are not traditional.

The Festival is an educational and enjoyable trip into the past. Donation for adults is $4 and children under age 12 are free. Group rates are available by calling Clare Hoffman at 215-754-7434.

Mary Price, Harleysville, uses fresh lima beans from her garden to prepare a lima bean pie at the Goschenhoppen Folk Festival, held in East Greenville, northern Montgomery County, on August 12th & 13th, 1988.

NFO Likely To Testify Groundwater Fact Sheets Available

CORNING, IOWA — U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene ordered a preliminary injunction July 19 to keep Federal Milk Marketing Order 2 and 4 hearings in session until the district court had time to rule on the National Farmers Organization's lawsuit against U.S. Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng.

"Although a final opinion has not yet been filed by the judge, it does appear that NFO will be granted its request: to be placed on the federal order hearing rosters to present testimony on frequency of payment," NFO Dairy Director Al Scott commented. "The issuance of a preliminary injunction means the judge does feel that there is a substantial likelihood that NFO will succeed on its merits."

Scott called the preliminary injunction "a major victory" against the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Secretary Lyng, who have twice previouisly denied NFO access to federal order hearing rosters in Midwestern milk marketing orders. "We are not asking the Secretary to increase the frequency of payments through this lawsuit," he said. "We are merely asking him to allow us to testify in the federal order hearings, which is our legal right."

The July 19 court order stemmed from a legal action filed by the National Farmers Organization against Lyng June 23. The suit charged that the USDA "unreasonably, arbitrariily and capriciously excluded" an NFO proposal to increase the frequency of payments by handlers to dairy producers in Federal Order 2 and 4 hearings scheduled for June 27.

"NFO's proposal to increase the frequency of payments to three times per month, we were told, was rejected because of a finding by the USDA that there is limited support for that proposal based on their discussions with industry representatives," Scott said. "Rejection of a proposal for this reason obviously defeats the purpose of a hearing and denies NFO the opportunity to present its position for dairy farmers. We feel it is unjust and discriminatory!"

The judge's complete ruling and opinion are expected to be filed within 10 days.

Rough And Tumble Engineers Group Plans Reunion

KINZERS (Lancaster) — Rough and Tumble Engineers Association, the farm/steam heritage museum located on Route 30 in Lancaster County, will celebrate its 40th Threshermen's Reunion August 17-20 with a double-barreled event. In addition to the hundreds of operating exhibits of steam and early gas power usually gathered at this annual event, this year's reunion will host the J.I. Case Heritage Expo. The J.I. Case Heritage foundation honors the memory of agricultural pioneer J.I. Case and is dedicated to the preservation of North America's agricultural heritage.

Rough and Tumble is a museum dedicated to preserving and demonstrating machinery formerly used on the farm or in early industry. This machinery once ran on many sources of power, and at the annual Threshermen's Reunion everything that will run is demonstrated. The Cavalcade of Power, a daily event at R & T's reunions, features over an hour-long parade of early gas-powered engines, antique automobiles and trucks, and a collection of steam-powered machinery seen no where else east of the Mississippi River.

This year that daily parade will also include at least a dozen case-made antique automobiles, 10 J.I. Case steam traction engines — some half-scale models, and 50 to 75 tractors manufactured by the J.I. Case Company. The committee expects that a working example of every tractor ever made by Case will be at this reunion - with one exception. They have not yet located a model 10/18, a rare three-wheeler of which only a few known examples remain.

Rough and Tumble's Reunion show is a learning experience for the young and not-so-young, because it shows the evolution of farm machinery from the early, heavy, clumsy, and sometimes whimsical engines to today's lightweight and high speed designs. The Case "circle" will be only one of many such exhibits on the grounds of Rough and Tumble during this show. A tent will house an expansive collection of early household "laborsaving" devices such as butter churns, steam-canning equipment, corn shellers and child-powered washing machines.

A daily pageant of threshing demonstrates this essential chore from biblical times to the puffing, smoking and belted steam-powered thresher, a common sight in Lancaster County through the first half of this century. The steam museum building houses operating steam engines from early teaching models of the Corliss patent to the huge Watts-Campbell, which once powered a paper box factory by itself. Several times during the day, a half-hour tour of this building will be conducted by a "steam man" who can show, through the operating machinery, how America harnessed and used this form of power less than a century ago.

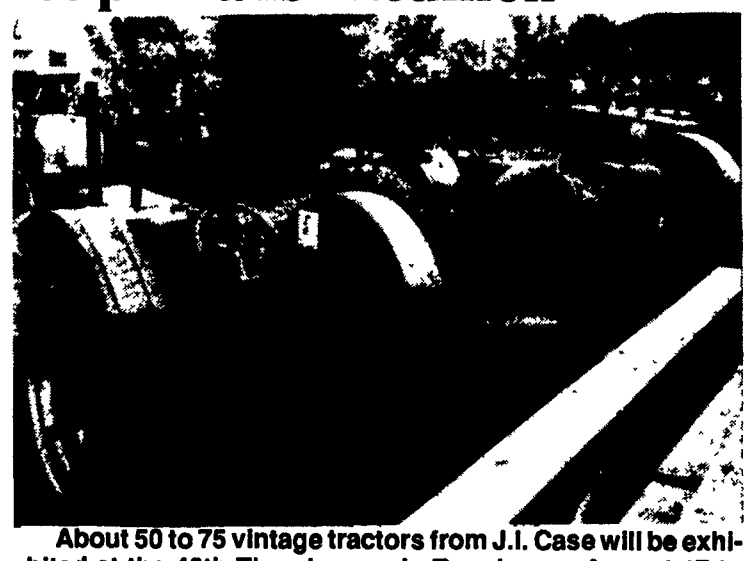
A "model" barn houses a fantastic collection of scale model steam equipment. Row upon row of chugging, sputtering, revolving components show in miniature what the "big boys" outside the building are doing. A miniature steam-powered carousel and a carnival calliope (scale sized) are favorites of children in this area.

Two steam-powered trains run at Rough and Tumble. One was once located in an amusement park as a ride for children. The other duplicates a Shay logging locomotive, to which an observation passenger car has been added. The "Shay" circles much of R & T's enclosed grounds, giving the passengers a view of the acres in which over 300 early gas engines are set up and operating, plus the numerous flea market spaces where the visitor can find almost anything he/she needs.

Most of the craftsmen who are demonstrating their trades can be found in the tree-shaded section of the ground. Chair caners, a blacksmith, a broom-maker and a dozen other early days crafts can be found. The ladies of the R & T Auxiliary may also be seen putting the last few stitches into an original quilt which will be auctioned off Saturday afternoon of the show.

Other members of the Auxiliary and members of the Kinzers Fire Company will be offering tempting food treats, starting with a breakfast menu each day. Homemade ice cream, inches-high ham and cheese sandwiches, funnel cakes and other goodies are available throughout the grounds, as well a full-course meals.

The J.I. Case Heritage Foundation, now 1,200 strong, will have a special tent area where visitors may chat with Helen Case Brigham, great-granddaughter of the agricultural pioneer. Case Expos in the next few years are scheduled for Manitoba, Canada (1989), Salem, Oregon (1990), Mount Pleasant, Iowa (1991), and Rollag, Michigan (1992), so this 40th Anniversary Reunion at Rough and Tumble offers a unique opportunity for Case friends and enthusiasts in the eastern part of the U.S. to see this fine collection. One Case auto owner is presently scheduled to come from Texas, with his vehicles, just for this event.



About 50 to 75 vintage tractors from J.I. Case will be exhibited at the 40th Threshermen's Reunion on August 17 to 20. There also will be threshing demonstrations, steam-powered trains, and craftsmen's demonstrations.

Rough and Tumble has a full schedule of activities for each day and evening of the four-day show. Special evening events include Ray McCoy, of Ephrata, and a fiddlin' demonstration and join-in fiddlin' party on Wednesday evening, Cecil Miller and his square dance band and calling on Thursday evening, steam games and competition on Friday evening and the Greater Overbrook Mummers String Band on Saturday evening. The Rajah Temple Band will play Saturday, starting at noon and continuing until parade time.

Rough and Tumble Engineers Association is located on its own 33 acres on the north side of Route 30 at Kinzers, PA about midway between Lancaster and Coatesville. There is ample free parking, with a free tractor-powered passenger "train" available to give visitors a ride from the furthest parking spots. Admission is a modest $3 for adults and $1.50 for children. Rough and Tumble members are admitted to all four days by just showing their membership cards.

For further information visitors may call R & T at (717) 442-4249 or write R & T, Box 9, Kinzers, PA 17535.

Harford County's First In 25 Years

BEL AIR, MARYLAND — The first Pepsi Pull for tractors and trucks will be a highlight of the Harford County Farm Fair August 5 through 7 at the Harford County Equestrian Center, N. Tollgate Road.

The Redman TNT-sanctioned event is sponsored by the Heart of Maryland Tractor Pullers Association. It will feature eight classes of competition among modified and supermodified two- and four-wheeled trucks and tractors. The Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Havre de Grace is the event's corporate sponsor.

Competition begins Friday (Aug. 5) at 8 p.m. followed by a performance by the Virginia Giant Stomper, a 13-foot high, 800 supercharged horsepower four-wheeled-drive truck. The Herculean vehicle will be on display at Plaza Ford in Bel Air the preceding week.

The pull contest continues Saturday at 1 p.m. For more information, contact Gary Mills at (301) 877-0773.

There's lots more to see and do at the fair Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sunday until 7 p.m. Regular admission will be $3 for adults, $1 for children, age 7 to 12, and free for children, 6 and younger.

The Harford County 4-H and local Future Farmers of America's annual fair top the list of interesting displays and exhibitions.

The 4-Hers will produce animal shows along with an auction, farmers' market and tractor contest. Members of both organizations, so richly connected with Harford's agricultural past and future, will staff exhibit booths.

Selection of the new Harford Farm Queen also will be a fair highlight.

Other organizations and groups scheduled to demonstrate their unique talents include the Maryland State Police Dogs and Medivac Helicopters, Bel Air Athletic Club Aerobics, Planatioin Walking Horses, Harford County Volunteer Fire Departments and the Amateur Jousting Club of Maryland.

Among the other fair attractions will include a potpourri of unusual contests, home arts and farm products competitions and celebrity appearances.

Friday (August 5) will be Senior Citizens Day at the fairgrounds. A reduced admission price of $1 per senior citizen will be charged on that day. Hess Enterprises is the main sponsor.

Free shuttle service will be provided from the Bel Air Senior Citizen Center on Hickory Avenue. The first shuttle will leave the center at 10 a.m. and the last shuttle will leave the fairgrounds at 3:30 p.m.

Children will reign Saturday (August 6) as the fair celebrates Kids' Day. Harford County Veterinarians and the Harford Veterinary Medical Association are the day's main sponsors.

Any child, age 7 to 12, carrying a Pepsi-Cola squeeze bottle up to the gate gets in free. The containers are available at Woolworths' at the Harford Mall and at Klein's Super Thrift. Free gifts and fun activities await the children.

Free parking will be available at the old landfill across from the fairgrounds on N. Tollgate Road. In addition, shuttles will run from the Harford and Fallston Malls and from the Bel Air Tollgate Center.

For more information, contact Clif Dowling at (301) 838-6000, ext. 339 or (301) 879-2000, ext. 339.

Montgomery County 4-H Fair

Montgomery County 4-H members are getting ready for their big event of the year — the 4-H Fair. The public is invited to participate in the many planned activities. The fair will be held at the Creamery 4-H center located on Route 113, one mile south of Route 73, near Skippack. It will be open to the public on Thursday, August 11th from 6:00-9:30 p.m., Friday, August 12th from 9:00 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday, August 13th from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Special events for this year include the world's largest sausage pattie, flea market, chicken bar-b-que, pet show, celebrity goat milking contest, and a presentation of the Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl. On display will be antique autos, crafts and livestock. Also this year there will be a performance by the Daisy Jug Band, horseshoe pitching contest, a square dance, a horseless horse show, rocket launch, llama demonstration, guinea pig races and much, much more.

Featured at the fair are numerous exhibits of 4-H projects which will be on display inside the building. The projects range from clothing, foods and crafts, woodworking, vegetables, photography, rockets, naturer, wildlife, and animal science. The public is also invited to enter finished products in our open classes in clothing, crafts, foods and vegetables. Call 489-4315 for a list of classes.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Indiana County Tractor

The Indiana County 4-H Tractor Club has received statewide recognition for their 4-H tractor-safety program and activities. The club has been recognized in the National 4-H Safety Program sponsored by the General Motors Foundation Inc.

They are a county and state winner in club competition that is designed to teach 4-H'ers how to reduce accidents and injuries, recognize and correct hazards, and think and practice safety. The club will receive a share of General Motors stock, and members will receive individual awards at the county 4-H Achievements Night.

During the last three years, more than 300 people have been exposed to safety principles with demonstrations by club members at extension meetings. More than 100 people have attended meetings in farm rescue, fire safety, and ATV safety. Club members also have been involved in sales of safety equipment and have marketed 100 pairs of disposable coveralls, 100 pairs of safety gloves, 80 slow-moving-vehicle signs as well as safety goggles, respirators, and pesticide storage signs.

Their efforts have resulted in community support, as gained by cooperation with equipment dealers, young farmer groups, and two retail companies. Three members of the club have gone on to compete in national tractor-driving contests. The best result of the club safety program is that none of the club members have been injured in a farm accident during the last three years.

During this same time, club enrollment has reached 30 members. The club program includes a teen leadership project, special activities for junior members, and a club round-up.

Dan Griffith of Marion County serves as the club organizational leader. Project leaders include Leanne Griffith, Scott Simpson, and Carl, Jeff, and Judy Syster.

Recordkeeping Is Essential To Success

DILLSBURG (York) — "If you want capitalize on your success, you need to know what you did," declared Dr. Daniel Skow, a veterinarian from Fairmont, Minn., speaking at a conference on low-input farming. "You must keep records."

Skow suggests that farmers begin recordkeeping on their crops by finding a quiet place where they can go to think. "Think about the day's activities and what you observed on your crops and write it down. It (the information) may seem superfluous at the time, but later it may be valuable."

Where ever the farmer chooses to think, it must be comfortable and warm and peaceful as well as quiet, added Skow. People don't tend to think very well when they are shivering with cold or wet or when they are thinking about how uncomfortable their seat is.

The next step in recordkeeping is to purchase a notebook in which to write. It doesn't need to be fancy or expensive, just something that will be easy to locate and will contain all your crop information.

"Next identify your fields," advised Skow. "This is elementary, but it is rarely done. Make notation about the fields." The notations farmers should make include terrain description, water seepage, slope, type of mechanical tillage used, whether the field was worked wet or dry, planting date, emergence date, soil conditions, planting depth, and when fertilizer was added.

The time that fertilizer is added is important, according to Skow. "On the full of the moon, the air is cold and the soil is warm and expands," he said. Fertilizer spread at this time will soak in and be more effective than if spread when there is no moon.

Skow recommends using meters and monitors to gain data that should be included in the record book. One that he suggests is a pH meter to record the soil's pH during the time when the crop is at its peak drawing period, such as when a corn ear is filling.

A conductivity meter also is useful according to Skow. This instrument measures the dissolved salts in the soil and will show the current flow. Ultimately it tells farmers the amount of biological activity that is taking place in the soil.

The last tool that Skow recommended is a temperature meter. The microphors in the soil work best at 72 degrees. "If you can maintain 72 degrees in the soil, you are not going to loose moisture as quickly," commented Skow.

Can the Northeast Grower of Fruits and Vegetables Compete for an Expanding Market?

BY TOM BREWER
Penn State
Ass't. Professor of Ag Economics

In past columns I indicated that growth of the fruit and vegetable industry since 1970 has been associated with the increased popularity of fresh and frozen vegetables and non-citrus fruits.

Growth has resulted from increased per capita use and increases in population. By contrast the market for canned fruits and vegetables has not grown appreciably. Historically the canning market has been an important one for the Northeast's industry. Thus we have had a production industry with fairly strong dependency on that outlet and it is not growing. As a result the Northeast fruit and vegetable industries have not enjoyed growth equal to that of the market in total.

Perhaps prices of land and other resources have been "bid up," as a result of urban pressures, to the point that the Northeast can't compete and expand production in response to the growing market. On the other hand, the industry may still be adjusting to meet these relatively new market developments and it may yet see some growth. What then, we may ask, are some of the general approaches the industry might take to gain a share?

There are several alternatives that Northeast growers might explore. Some are achievable by individual growers. Some, though, are feasible only as a result of grower cooperative efforts. Let's explore factors the industry should consider and then mention some areas of activity that may prove profitable.

First of all we must recognize the fact that the industry shouldn't even consider abandoning its existing markets. They have served it well in the past. The canning market remains a very important one even though it's not expanding. New products or new markets, domestic or foreign, may someday change it to a growth market too.

Secondly, the industry must recognize that there are often sound reasons, outside its control, to explain why the Northeast has not grown as quickly as the market, while other areas have grown more quickly. For example, much of the increase in per capita fresh vegetable and soft fruit consumption may be due to the fact that today's consumers are willing to pay the higher prices required to buy those commodities when they are out of season in the local production area. Thus much of the growth may have been attributable to year-round consumption rather than to increased daily per capita consumption during the production season.

Likewise the location of much of the frozen vegetable industry may be as much a result of relatively cheap hydroelectric generated power in the Northwest as anything. Perhaps the Northeast's industry shouldn't have expected to gain a proportionate share of the growth in the entire market.

The industry in the Northeast should look for those conditions, situations or circumstances which give it an advantage over competing regions and then take advantage of the opportunity they provide. We can't compete with Florida's fresh winter sweet corn or with Chile for winter asparagus or table grapes. They can grow for those winter markets and dominate at those times. There may be short periods of time when such a "market window" is open only to us. During those periods, if they exist, nearby markets "belong" to the local industry.

The vagaries of weather are such that those "windows" are not always open at the same time each year and the local production industry may not always hit them squarely. Furthermore, they are continually subject to loss to other areas that haven't yet recognized their potentials. There may also be "windows" which we haven't yet discovered.

One that seems underexploited, at least to me, is our locational advantage "window." We often talk of our relative locational advantage and describe it in terms of distance or in costs of transportation of a commodity from competing regions. There is little question we enjoy a locational advantage. A hundred million people live within a few hours' drive of Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Maryland producers. Many producers are an hour or less away from some metropolitan area. They enjoy lower produce transportation costs to such consumers than would growers in the south or on the west coast.

Eastern growers, in addition to cost advantages, enjoy time advantages in serving large Eastern markets. Fresh produce deteriorates with time. Therefore we should be able to provide buyers with produce of higher quality since it should have to spend less time in transit.

Perhaps most important though, location improves our ability to provide a high level of marketing service to Eastern wholesale buyers. We should, if properly organized, be able to respond to their needs much more quickly and precisely than distant growers.

Furthermore, personal contact between buyers and sellers increases when they are in close proximity. Communication is improved when sellers and buyers become better acquainted. Producers can better understand and thus better service a buyer's precise needs. If they were farther separated from one another it would be more difficult and certainly more costly.

These locational advantages may be at least as important as the transportation cost savings associated with nearby supplies. They provide additional opportunities to better serve the conventional wholesale/retail distribution system for produce in the Northeast. I'm not sure we have done as much as we can to capitalize on this advantage.

Being nearby provides the industry with an opportunity to more precisely serve the market's needs. It will take seller effort and perhaps organization to take advantage of that opportunity. Individual growers may need to act as a group in order to meet the volume, quality and level of service required by such buyers.

believe these marketing methods are beginning to reduce total returns as a result of competition among grower-marketers. This is not to say that there is no longer an opportunity for expansion of these marketing channels in some areas or with some products. It is simply believed to be a lesser opportunity than in an earlier day. If that view is correct it suggests that sural direct marketing no longer provides the big opportunity for expansion it once did. Perhaps it was never that great since it handles only a small proportion of the region's fruits, potatoes and vegetables.

How about urban areas, though? That's where most of the consumers are. Many have established or are establishing farmer's market facilities. Some cities have established urban farm markets but indicate a shortage of growers willing to sell there. Perhaps growers near metropolitan areas should explore or promote such opportunities.

Some growers even sell produce out of the back of a delivery truck in a city's residential areas. Could more adopt this long ago practiced merchandising method? Perhaps! It's worth a look. Perhaps there is a sizeable urban direct marketing "window" which as yet is not being taken advantage of. Individual farmers or groups working together certainly ought to explore this potential market. Growers in Texas and Arizona can't take advantage of it here any more than ours can direct market in Phoenix or Dallas. It's worth a try.

Milk Council Says Quick Congressional Action Needed

WESTMINSTER, VT. — Congress must increase the support price for milk if it is to protect the nation's milk supply from the devastating effects of this year's drought.

"Well before the drought began to affect their feed costs, dairy farmers were expecting this year's net income to average 20% less than last year's, because of January's $.50/cwt. federal milk price cut," noted Steve Kerr, Executive Director of the Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives. "Drought-inflated feed costs are now adding an unanticipated $250.00 per cow to the cost of producing milk - $15,000 annually for a farmer milking only 60 cows. That's more than many farmers were expecting to net this year."

Dairy farmers have been hit as hard as any group of farmers by the drought. Those who farm in drought-ravaged areas such as Wisconsin and Ohio are suffering short forage supplies and high grain prices. Dairy cow slaughter is up sharply in these major milk-producing states, and milk supplies are shrinking daily.

Dairy farmers in the Northeast, while so far spared these effects, buy most of the grain that must be fed to their dairy cows. The drought-reduced crops of corn and soybeans - the two primary ingredients in dairy rations - have driven prices for dairy feed up an average of 30% in the past few months. Dairy economists note that a 30% increase in feed costs has the same effect on a farmer's bottom line as a $1.00/cwt. price cut.

"Dairy farmers need a considerable price increase, simply to offset these higher costs," said Kerr. "The only feasible way to guarantee higher farm prices under current circumstances is to increase the support price for milk. The Agriculture Committees must do that through the drought relief legislation that they are now considering."

Feed prices will remain abnormally high until grain farmers harvest an other normal crop. Since that cannot occur before next summer, dairy farmers face at least 12 months of extremely high feed costs. If milk prices do not cover the added cost of feed, a severe cost-price squeeze will likely develop next spring, forcing many producers out of business.

"The support price is designed to support milk prices in the spring when the flush usually pushes them down. While the market alone may well push farm prices high enough this fall to cover production costs, it is unlikely that market prices will cover costs next spring without an increase of the support price," Kerr observed.

The first six months of 1989 will be critical for farmers and the nation's milk supply. Today's support price was determined by Congress when feed costs were considerably lower than they are now.

"The Agriculture Committees have rightly proposed to protect the income of grain farmers until they can harvest a new crop next year," Kerr noted. "They should do no less for dairy farmers."

The Senate Agriculture Committee has tentatively approved a drought-relief package which does not increase the support price. When the House Agriculture Committee reconvenes on Tuesday, July 26, it is expected to consider a proposal, to be offered by Congressman James Jeffords (R-Vt), to increase the support price by at least $.50/cwt. on Oct. 1 of this year.

"It is imperative that the Committee accept this proposal," Kerr commented. "The drought relief bill is the only agricultural legislation that Congress is likely to consider this year. If dairy farmers do not win relief from the effect of high feed prices through that bill, they will have to tough it out as best they can. Dairy farmers - and the nation - will pay a long price if Congress fails to act."

Dairy farmers can help in the effort to guarantee higher farm prices by contacting the U.S. House and Senate Agriculture Committees immediately and urging them to include an increase of the support price in their respective drought relief packages.

Rain Dampens Field Day With Crowd's Approval

BY BETH GRAY
Bedford County Correspondent

NEW ALEXANDRIA (Westmoreland) — As specialists lectured on dry-weather feeding management and drought cropping strategies at the Robert Smith farm here, rain pummelled the barn roof, but none in the 500-strong crowd at this Western Pennsylvania Tillage Field Day seemed dismayed. Commented Dave Rynd of Penn State's Extension staff, "We changed the program twice. We changed (from tillage) to focus on the drought situation. We changed the order of the program because of this," he gestured to the rain, and added, "We're happy."

Smith, damp and smiling, said his farm hadn't received any significant rainfall since the last part of May. Westmoreland County Agent William Kelly said the all-day rainfall, which began the previous night, was reported to total 4/12 inches. The rain fell steadily and while Kelly noted that the area needed that much rain, it didn't need it all in one day. "It softened up the ground and we didn't lose a lot of it."

"What the corn is going to do is anybody's guess," Smith said of the crop situation. "If we get four to five inches of rain in the next two weeks, we're hoping for 60 percent (of the crop). We'll fill the silos. There won't be any to pick." He said his first cutting of hay was normal, but the second cutting was 20-25 percent of the usual amount.

It was this situation that J. G. Hlubik, Penn State Extension dairy specialist, addressed when he asked, "Should hay or other forages be purchased or should forage intakes be kept at a minimum and roughages or high fiber feedstuffs be used?"

When considering feeding methods and management during shortages of home-grown feeds, Hlubik emphasized, "The economics of the situation, including cost formulation of rations and can get help in doing so from Penn State's Merkle Laboratory scientists or county extension personnel, Hlubik pointed out.

Eric Oesterling, assistant county agent here, responding to a question about drought-stressed corn for silage, said Penn State's forage testing laboratory as well as commercial laboratories can test for nitrate concentration. Even with higher-than-normal nitrate levels, the crop, in some cases, can be chopped and diluted with other feedstuffs, he said.

The nutritive value of drought-stressed corn silage also must be considered, Hlubik pointed out. Average corn silage contains 34 percent dry matter, 8.8 percent crude protein, and 29 percent acid detergent fiber. Cornstalk silage is reduced to 27 percent dry matter, 7.2 percent crude protein and an energy level of .59, he added.

Hlubik emphasized efficient feed management for feed-short times. Dry cows and heifers, he suggested, may make good use of relatively low protein and energy hay or straw, but the higher-quality forages should be reserved for cows in milk.

While farm tours and machinery demonstrations had been scheduled throughout the day, the weather interrupted, so speakers presented their information without benefit of on-site inspections. Other participants and their topics included:

Robert Graves, extension agricultural engineer, "Manure Storage"; Robert Hartzler, extension agronomist, "Weed Control Forages"; Joseph Beard, Crawford County agent, "Dry Weather Hay Management"; Elwood Hatley, extension agronomist, "Drought Cropping Strategies"; Dennis Calvin, extension entomologist, "Insect Control on Stressed Crops."

Doug Beegle, extension agronomist, "Nutrient Management"; Joel Myers, state agronomist with the Soil Conservation Service, 'Conservation Compliance effects on cash flow and interest charges, should receive top priority." Palatability and suitability in individual feeding systems also should be noted, he added.

Drought-stressed forages are smaller than normal in particle size and may therefore affect rumin function, he indicated. And they may be lower in vitamin A and E activity.

With his comments directed at diarymen, Hlubik recommended, "At least 40-50 percent of the total dry matter intake should be in the form of normal forages." The lesser amount should not be fed for more than about 120 days. If dairymen need to buy forage to meet minimum needs, "forage feeding rates should be reduced to near safe minimum levels as soon as possible," he urged. "Also, they should consider planting emergency forage crops, such as small grains, for use in late fall and early spring."

Alternative roughages, whose cost and availability should be considered by those who must make purchases, include corn stalks, corn cobs, corn cannery waste, lima bean and pea vine silage, straw and apple pomace. Other high-fiber feedstuffs are beet or citrus pulp, dehydrated alfalfa, wet and dry brewers grains, distillers grains, malt sprouts, oat mill feed, soyhulls, soybean mill feed and whole cottonseed.

Buyers should check costs and availability of energy and protein sources, such as barley, oats, mids, corn gluten feed and whole soybeans, as well. "Ear corn," Hlubik pointed out, "often is a better buy than shelled corn and provides more fiber when forage feed is limited. Consider harvesting corn grain as ear corn if you are short of forage," he added.

Yet much of the corn in western and central Pennsylvania won't make ears this year, and corn is likely to cost dearly. "Often barley and sometimes oats are a better buy than corn," the specialist said.

Dairymen should choose a course of action based on least-Issues"; Lynn Hoffman, manager of Penn State's Rock Springs Research Farm, "Corn Tillage Systems"; Kevin Ganoe, Erie County agent, "Small Grains"; Joe McGahen, extension agronomist, "Corn: Is It Dead?".

Chuck Glasser, Indiana County extension director, "Emergency Feed Program"; Larry Jenknins, Penn State professor of agricultural economics and rural sociology, "Taxes and Drought Tactics"; Bill Waters, extension area farm management specialist, "Strategies for Survival."

Manure System Saves Time, Nutrients

BY BETH GRAY
Bedford County Correspondent

NEW ALEXANDRIA (Westmoreland) — While few visitors to the rain-soaked Western Pennsylvania Tillage Field Day inspected the 750,000-gallon manure pit at the Robert Smith farm here, those who heard Smith's praises of it were doubtless made believers in the system.

Smith installed the concrete, 100-foot by 12-foot structure two years ago to handle manure from his 300-head herd of Holsteins, which includes 150 cows in milk. "It saves all your manure value all summer. It saves aggravation in winter," Smith reported.

Before installing the pit, Smith said he had to have someone haul three loads of manure from the barn each day. Now manure is hauled twice a year.

With the cows housed in a free-stall barn, manure from their housing is pushed off an adjoining ramp into the pit where only a small dumping area remains without a crust. The crust, which Smith estimated to have grown to a thickness of 18 inches since spring, seals in the nutrients. When the manure is removed and put into the ground, "you're getting full value," pointed out Westmoreland County assistant agent, Eric Oesterling.

Smith and Oesterling agreed that every day that manure goes without being plowed under, it loses soil nutritive value, dropping as low as 60 percent. Smith said that in summer, perhaps all of the nitrogen is lost and up to 80 percent of total value.

While Smith continues to buy commercial fertilizer, he expects that his soil tilth is improving and, given more time, his need for purchased fertilizer will decrease. He said he'd heard of a farm with such a system in use about 10 years whose soil test reports "had Xs the whole way across the page."

Smith said when he was hauling manure daily, it would often be spread on frozen ground in winter and "any place you could find" in summer, at both extremes waiting a great deal of time before plowdown. Furthermore, it tied up one tractor daily.

With the manure saved in the pit, spreading is reduced to twice a year. "In the fall I haul and chisel it in. In the spring I haul and chisel or plow it in. I get it buried as fast as possible." Not only is the nutritive value saved, but Smith says the pit saves a lot of aggravation. The convenience is valuable. Instead of requiring a man and a tractor daily, one man and one tractor can handle the spreading two time a year.

Smith operates one of the larges dairy farms in this county, said Oesterling. He grows 200 acres of alfalfa hay and 200 acres of corn.

Farming Museum Plans Open House

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — An open house commemorating the tenth anniversary of the Pasto Museum will be held on from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, July 30. The museum is filled with farm and household items dating back to the 1840s.

Dr. Jerome K. Pasto, associate dean emeritus of the College of Agriculture at Penn State and museum curator, has devoted thousands of hours to restoring antique machines and equipment for the museum. Pasto traces his interests in antiques to his childhood. Born and raised on a small dairy farm in New York, Pasto and his family actually used muscle powered machines similar to the ones he now preserves at the museum.

Pasto was instrumental in establishing a permanent location for the museum a decade ago. The College of Agriculture Alumni Society supported his efforts and recommended naming the museum after him. In 1980 the Penn State Board of Trustees approved the idea. "Each machine has its own challenge — to find out how it works," Pasto says. "Nothing equals the feeling you get when you refurbish all the parts of an old piece of farm equipment and bring the item back to life."

A tour of the museum takes visitors back to the days of churning butter and planting seeds by hand, when machines used in agriculture ran by muscle power — both human and animal. It's a hands-on museum where visitors can turn the cranks and move the levers to these remnants of an age before the advent of electricity.

In the 1860s, students at the Farmers' High School spent three hours every afternoon assigned to chores on the farm lands surrounding Old Main. Today at the museum, alumni, students, and friends can see tools and equipment similar to the ones the first Penn State students used. All are welcome to come and enjoy a "hands-on" look at the history of agriculture. Pasto and a number of guides will be available to answer questions.

New this year is a 1904 grain reaper donated by Penn State alumnus John B. Anstine, of Mifflintown, Pennsylvania. The reaper, fully restored and freshly polished, has been mechanized with an electric motor so that it can operate at the museum. The museum's collection houses more than 280 rare and unusual antiques, including an 1886 hand-cranked corn-sheller, a home tin canner, and an 1876 pedal-powered velocipede jigsaw. There is also a beautifully refinished antique two-wheel, two-passenger cart given by dairy science alumnus J. Edward Stouff and his wife of Downingtown, Pennsylvania.

The museum's collection began with a donation of historic hand tools, given by the late Russell Dickerson, an associate dean of the College of Agriculture. Today, 59 donors, including University alumni and friends from Pennsylvania and four other states, have added to the collection.

The museum was built in the summer of 1978 through contributions from the College of Agriculture Alumni Society and opened for the first time during Ag Progress Days in August of that year. Republic Steel donated the roof and wall panels for the 40 by 80 foot structure, and Agway Inc. provided labor for the construction.

Seventeen items from the Pasto Museum were on display at Penn State's Palmer Museum of Art at University Park this spring, including a miniature 1931 model of the 1831 McCormick reaper, donated by Dr. John Hamilton of Naperville, Illinois. Dr. Kenneth Goodwin, professor emeritus of poultry science, and his wife Mary renovated the model. The antiques were featured as part of the "Energy" exhibit.

The Pasto Museum is located at Penn State's Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45.

PA Crime Stoppers

Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers is offering a cash reward UP TO $1,000.00 for information leading to the arrest of Ralph Eugene Good. If you know this person and/or where he is presently located, you are urged to call Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers TOLL-FREE at 1-800-4PA-TIPS.

Ralph Eugene Good is wanted by the Pennsylvania State Police in Washington, Washington County, for criminal homicide, attempt to commit criminal homicide, and aggravated assault. These charges are the result of an incident which occurred on Monday, June 27, 1988, in West Bethlehem Township, Washington County. The deceased in this case was a 41 year old male resident of that area. Investigators are not certain as to the exact reasons why, however, it is believed the accused was waiting outside the victim's residence. When the victim's girlfriend walked outside, Good allegedly shot her in the right hip with a rifle. She yelled for help and the victim ran outside. He was shot in the chest and died almost immediately. The accused fled the scene on foot and has not been seen since.

Good is described as a white male, age 45, with red hair and blue eyes. He has a stocky build, being 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighing 210 pounds. He has an 11 inch scar on his left shoulder. Good should be considered armed and dangerous. His last known address was R.D.#1, Marianna, PA.

Not only does Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers pay rewards for information leading to the arrest of its "Fugitives Of The Week," cash rewards UP TO $1,000 will also be paid for information resulting in arrests of persons involved in ANY serious crimes or the capture of ANY OTHER wanted persons. If you have information on this "Fugitive Of The Week," ANY OTHER SERIOUS CRIME, or WANTED PERSON, call Pennsylvania Crime Stoppers TOLL-FREE at 1-800-4PA-TIPS. Callers do not have to give their names.

USDA Authorizes Ground Pork Purchases

Washington, D.C. -- To help hog producers hurt by the drought, the U.S. Department of Agriculture today announced plans to purchase ground pork for domestic food assistance programs.

Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng said the purchases will provide needed market assistance to the nation's hog producers, who are facing sharply increased feed costs and declining hog prices. He said the purchases of ground pork will also help stabilize conditions in the commodity markets, which have reacted strongly to the drought news recently.

Lyng said purchases, using a portion of an additional $50 million in Section 32 funds which USDA set aside to help cattle and hog producers during the drought, are planned on a weekly basis beginning in late July.

Under authority of Section 32 of Public Law 74-320, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service purchases temporary surpluses of commodities for donation to schools, institutions, and other eligible food programs. These purchases are funded from customs receipts.

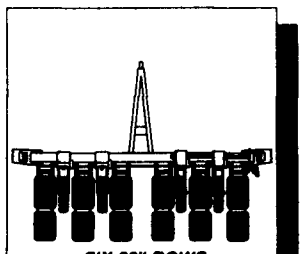
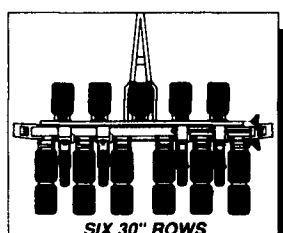
Binkley & Hurst Bros. Is Pleased To Announce The Addition Of The KINZE MFG. INC. Products To Our Equipment Line.

Featuring:

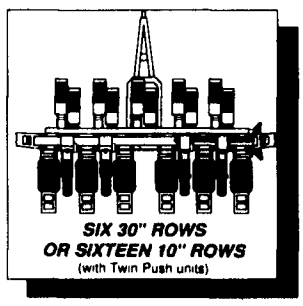
The planter you can grow with...



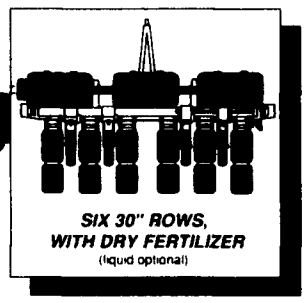
SIX 30" ROWS



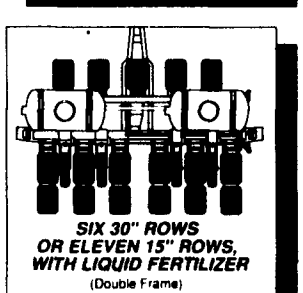
SIX 30" ROWS
OR ELEVEN 15" ROWS
(with Push units)



SIX 30" ROWS
OR SIXTEEN 10" ROWS
(with Twin Push units)



SIX 30" ROWS,
WITH DRY FERTILIZER
(liquid optional)



SIX 30" ROWS
OR ELEVEN 15" ROWS,
WITH LIQUID FERTILIZER
(Double Frame)

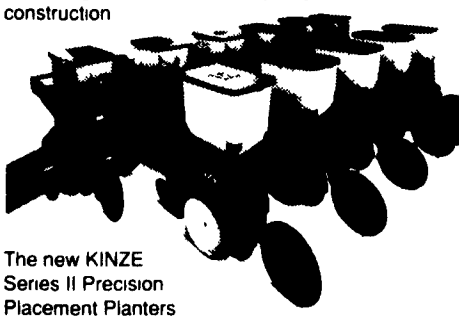
The new KINZE Series II Planters introduce an exciting innovative modular design concept that offers you total flexibility in planting options plus the most efficient precision placement planting technology

Think of the possibilities!

With KINZE s Single Frame Planter you can plant 30" corn and minutes later, convert to 15" even 10" row spacing for beans or for small grains

Or set it up with liquid or dry fertilizer options instead of push units and save the extra trips and expense of other fertilizer application systems

Or you can add the front mounted Double Frame® attachment and do it all—standard rows fertilizer and split rows All with the same planter same drive components same drive system Without sacrificing one ounce of that quality KINZE construction



The new KINZE Series II Precision Placement Planters More planting options More fertilizer options More spacing options A smoother more dependable drive system Like no other planter in the field today!

KINZE SERIES II

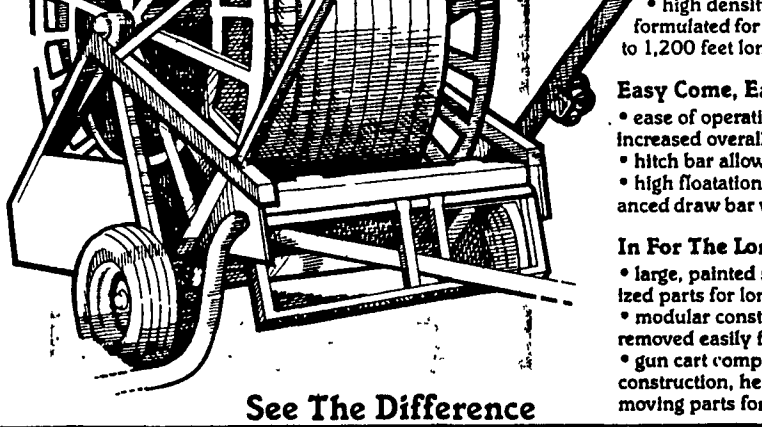
LHManurigator

What makes it different, Makes it better.



Handles The Heavy Load
- high capacity of up to 30,000 gallons per hour for liquid waste irrigation
- rugged, simple drive train, with economic hydraulic reduction for complete adjustment and high torque power plus double chain friction drive that keeps pulling during the worst conditions
- high density polyethylene pipe specially formulated for high strength and elasticity. Up to 1,200 feet long with a 3 year warranty

Easy Come, Easy Go
- ease of operation for fast pull changes and increased overall capacity
- hitch bar allows for tractor seat operation
- high floatation, low centre of gravity and balanced draw bar weight for better manoeuvrability

In For The Long Run
- large, painted steel tube frame with galvanized parts for long life
- modular construction with subassemblies removed easily for repairs
- gun cart completely galvanized with solid construction, heavy wall plumbing and no moving parts for low maintenance

See The Difference

STANDARD FEATURES

KRAUSE TILLAGE INNOVATORS INVENTED THE ROCKFLEX DISC TO BRING PLEASURE TO FARMERS

2...Excellent penetration in tough conditions.

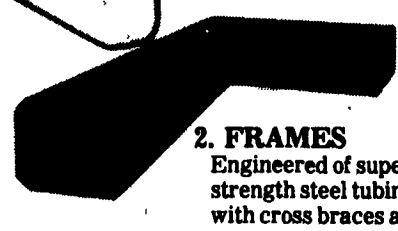
3...Level job every time.

4...Higher resale value when it's time to trade or sell.

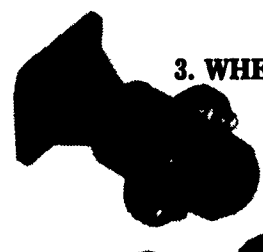
5...More timely planting.

6...More time with the wife.

1. "SUPERSEAL" BEARINGS
Engineered to assure positive greasing directly into the cartridge. The triple lip seals keep grease in, dirt and moisture out.



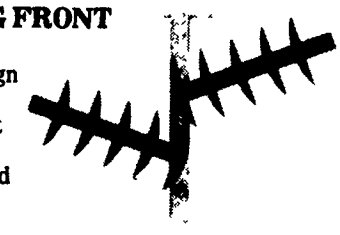
2. FRAMES
Engineered of super strength steel tubing with cross braces and gussets at major stress points.



3. WHEEL HUBS
Krause Made - Precision machined and regreasable. Every hub passes rigid inspection to assure proper tolerances.

4. TIE RODS AND SPOOLS
Alloy steel tie rods are 1¾" in diameter on heavy duty units (1½" on medium duty) - (30% to 70% stronger than many other brands.) There's a nut on both ends for easy servicing.
Krause spools are ductile iron, and weigh 20-to 30-lbs. each.

5. OVERLAPPING FRONT DISC GANGS
A unique Krause design for smoother, more uniform field finish. It eliminates the center strip of untilled ground left by conventional tandem discs.



6. "ROCKFLEX" BEARING ARMS
Krause invented the "Rock-Flex" arm in 1965. This unique C-shaped arm flexes over obstacles. It helps protect disc blades and spools from breakage. "SuperSeal" bearing is completely encased in rubber to absorb shock.

7. WING HINGES
Krause uses big 1¾" diameter bolts on heavy duty units (1½" on medium duty) with over 10" of wear surface area.

8. ROCKER SHAFTS
A full 6" in diameter with big steel tube wheel arms for maximum carrying capacity. Compare ours to other makes!

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

Over the past 8 years, we have sold thousands of T.A.'s to satisfied customers across the U.S. Some of our best customers are I.H. Dealers.

We do complete job or center housing while you wait or will sell you the parts.

Our prices on T.A.'s with the Dana Sprag, is still $595.00 with a 2 year warranty.

We also have units and parts available to rebuild old style T.A.'s, including Ramp & carrier sets for $300.00

Clutches, Pressure Plates
PTO Drives & Water Pumps

We have clutches available for most all IH tractors; including many heavier than original. We also have clutches for many other brands.

- Compare Our Prices -

All clutches & T.A.'s will ship U.P.S. and are sold on an exchange basis. Core charges Apply.

QUALITY USED PARTS

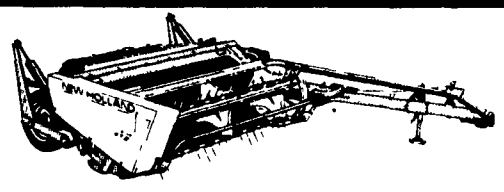
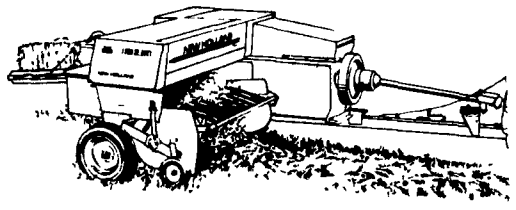
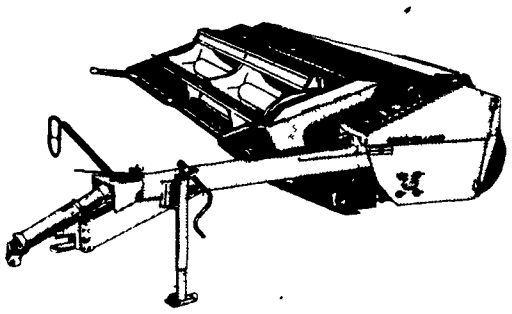
WAIVER OF FINANCE UNTIL JAN., 1989 ON HAY TOOLS!





#1 in the field.

Come in and see the industry standard New Holland Haybine® mower-conditioners. No plugging, less down time. See us today.



See it in action!

We have this New Holland Model 489 Haybine® mower conditioner in stock and we're ready to give you a demonstration. A nine-foot cut, thorough conditioning and a header suspension system that glides over rocks and other hazards to keep you on the go. Come in today.

We can save you time and work.

Don't take chances on a breakdown in the middle of your harvest. See us today about replacing that old worn out round baler with a Model 848. It features a roll-floor design for sure, fast core formation and increased base density. The 848 makes bales four feet wide and up to 4½ feet in diameter with a bale weight of 850 pounds. Choose one of four tying methods: manual, hydraulic, electric or Memory Wrap® with Bale Command. See us today.

Let's deal!

If you're worried about your old 14" x 18" baler, come on in and let's deal on a new one. The New Holland Model 316 baler is known for its reliability and capacity. It makes dense, uniform bales, features a wide Super-Sweep pickup and the most reliable knotter in the business. Stop in and let's deal!

Now Is The Time To GUNITE The Interior Of Your Silo

The SOLLENBERGER SILOS "BIG JIM SYSTEM"

The Big Jim TOP UNLOAD, BOTTOM DISCHARGE silage system lets you enjoy bottom delivery without the high cost. The feed drops by gravity down a hole formed in the center of the silage. So you never have to climb a silo to change doors, you don't have to raise the unloader to fill, and you will have a clean chute because the silage or haylage doesn't drop down the chute.

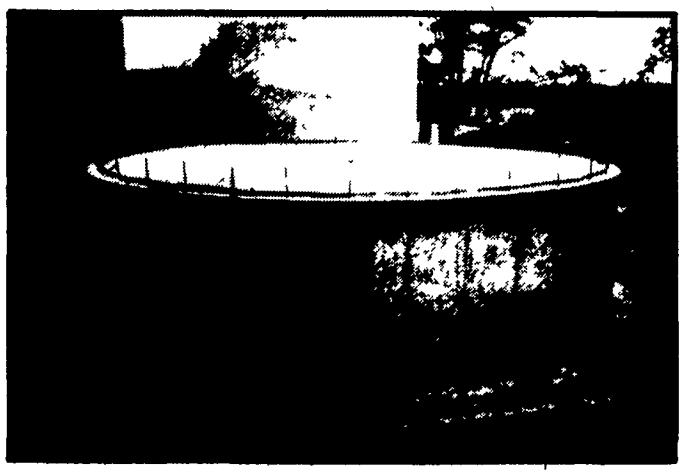
The simple design eliminates belts, pulleys, and adjustments. Since there's no need for an impeller, the full horsepower can be used more efficiently for big volume, fast feeding.

The Big Jim System is now 30 years old, and the many improvements over the years have made it a system with very low maintenance costs and long life.

Sollenberger Silos Corp. is now 80 years old, and our recent improvements on the Big Jim silo make the "Sollenberger Silos Big Jim System" something you've just got to see.

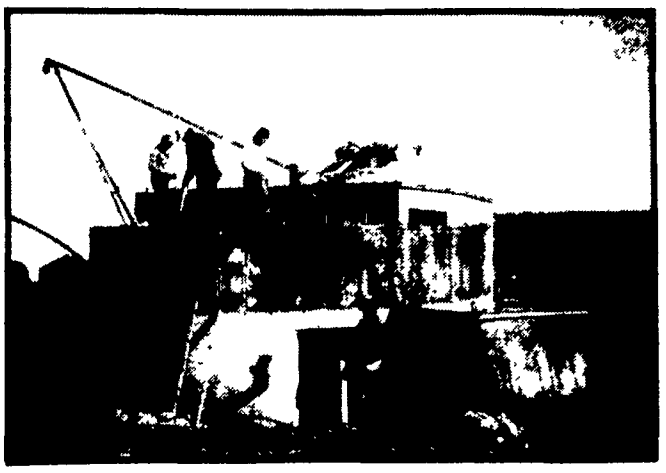
We will invite you to attend a field day at a couple of farms with the Big Jim silos; but until details are complete, please study the pictures, ask us for some free literature, and ask for names of farmers who have taken advantage of this "innovation in silage storage and feeding."

Now, more than ever, you need to store your precious feed in a poured concrete silo! The light colored, solid 6" concrete wall reflects the suns rays and practically eliminates heat damage. Some structures magnify the heat so that your stored feed, especially the protein, is severely affected.



Big Jim silo base with concrete floor, 5' off the ground with easy access tunnel. The silo is then built on the base.

For Sale:
A good used 24' Big Jim unloader. Call Bob for details.



The silo wall is a full 6" thick with the base wall 12" thick. Both are heavily reinforced with horizontal and vertical steel.

The Sollenberger Silo is equipped with double-ply redwood doors - "largest in the industry" - and hot-dipped galvanized hinges and steps, for long life and low maintenance.

24'x104' Silo with Big Jim holds over 1600 tons corn silage.

We want to help! If delayed payments, or extended credit would be of interest to you, please give us a call. We would like to sit down with you, discuss your silo needs, and how we can be of help during these critical times.

Don't Forget -- For All Your Storage Needs - Feed - Manure - Water - And Other Bulk Items - Contact Sollenberger Silos Corp. Soon.

Are You Considering Drought Stressed Corn For Corn Silage? IF SO—

These are two important points:

1. Drought stressed corn, if harvested and ensiled properly, can have as much or more value per pound than regular corn silage.
2. There is a right way to harvest and ensile drought stressed corn TO REDUCE THE DANGER OF NITRITE POISONING

If you have any questions please give us a call.

Lycoming County Fair Livestock Show Results

HUGHESVILLE (Lycoming)—Winning the grand champion trophy for exhibiting her black baldy steer, Jack, at the Youth Beef Show was a nice send-off for Cathy Murray, Muncy, who is in her last year of 4-H competition.

"I'm glad I won because it's my last year in 4-H," the 19-year-old exclaims. Cathy is currently enrolled in Williamsport Community College, Williamsport, studying computer operations.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, Muncy, Cathy has been showing dairy animals as a member of the Hillcrest 4-H Club for seven years. During those years she has won the 4-H grand championship once and captured the grand champion trophy three times in open shows. She has also won a top award for showing sheep.

Cathy says her 1200 pound steer, Jack, was purchased from Russcott Farms, Sunbury. According to Cathy, Jack won the prize because he was the "heaviest muscled steer and was well balanced."

For beginners, Cathy suggests they start with a gentle feeder steer so they don't get trampled on. "Take them out every day," she advises.

The reserve grand champion market steer trophy was captured by Laura Lovell, daughter of Ralph and Marian Lovell, Linden. Laura's Polled Hereford steer, Beau, weighed 1153 pounds. Thirteen-year-old Laura belongs to the Bottle Run 4-H Club, Linden.

Laura has been showing steers for six years and has won top prizes in the youth market steer division before as well as for showing her sheep and pigs. She says she likes winning because she gets the money from selling her animal. But, she adds, it goes in the bank to be used later for college expenses.

In the Youth Market Lamb Competition, Laura Lovell, mentioned above, secured the grand champion trophy by exhibiting her 120-pound Suffolk wether, Bambi. For Laura, it was a reeat performance of last year when she also garnered the top honors in the market lamb competition. The lamb is homebred.

Reserve grand champion award in the market lamb division went to Shane Corter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Corter, Linden, for his entry, a wether named Sundance. Since this is the fourth time Shane has won the reserve grand in the market lamb contest, it is a familiar role. But he accepts it philosophically.

"I'll try again next year," he says.

Shane belongs to the Bottle Run 4-H Club.

The grand champion of the Youth Market Hog Show is Michael Corter, son of Debbie and Gary Corter, Linden. Eleven-year-old Michael's entry was a 237-pound Duroc red spot hog named Loretta.

Michael says he has belonged to the Bottle Run 4-H for four years showing sheep, horses, and hogs, though he has only shown swine for the past two years.

Although he didn't expect to win, Michael said, he felt good about it. He said his pig won because, "She was long and lean and she was good meat." Loretta also later won the Reserve gran champion award in the open show this year.

The reserve grand champion of the youth market hogs was claimed by Jackie Snook, daughter of Kenton and Lisa Snook, Jersey Shore. Jackie exhibited her 241-pound black barrow named Mickey.

Ten-year-old Jackie has been showing swine as a member if the Nippenose Valley 4-H Club for three years. This year her pig, Mickey, later won the grand champion prize in the open show and two years ago her hog won the top prize in the 4-H competition.

Even though she's won top prizes before, Jackie acknowledged winning this was a surprise. One characteristic that contributed to her winning this year, according to Jackie, was the pig's better muscling.

One of the best things about having a 4-H project, Jackie says, is that, "You learn more about it every year." One of the hardest things about it, she reports, is the competition itself, "The wiating part—you don't know who is going to win or lose."

Pasture Management Keeps Cattle Grazing In Drought

HARRISBURG — Livestock producers with a good pasture-management program gained an extra month or more of grazing and that means more hay in the barn for winter, reports Tom Calvert, grassland management specialist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Calvert cited several reasons why good pasture management was paying special dividends during the drought. "No matter whether it was pasture or hay, if the farmer harvested his first forage crop on time, there was enough moisture for a quality second harvest. Some farmers are even getting a decent third alfalfa cutting," added Calvert.

Another advantage of intensive or short duration grazing is that even though pastures are not growing now, there is sufficient growth remaining for the cattle to continue foraging. Under intensive grazing programs, extra spring and early summer growth is harvested for hay. "They may not be making hay from extra growth," stated Calvert, "but they are not now feeding next winter's hay." Calvert added that from personal experience on his own farm, good pasture management paid off in an additional six weeks of quality pasture as compared to those using continuous grazing.

Rotational and intensive grazed pastures will recover when the rains come, predicted Calvert. Grasses in continuous pastures are grazed so low that it takes a lot of moisture before they recover. Under managed grazing, plants are not grazed as close and the grasses quickly respond to even limited amounts of rainfall.

Warm season grasses provide additional grazing benefits during hot, dry summer months. "Drought or no drought," commented Calvert, "temperatures affect grass growth. Cool season grasses stop growing when the summer temperatures arrive, but warm season grasses grow until the temperatures get up in the 90s."

Cattle are able to sustain themselves on warm season grass pastures. Calvert cited a study by Jim Garish of the University of Missouri who found in studies that Hereford cows were able to maintain a 20 pound per day milk production on the warm season big bluestem pasture. Garish found similar production on alfalfa - bromegrass pastures, indicating that warm season grasses ranked similar to a grass - legume mixture in feed value.

"From what I've seen and heard, warm season grass pastures are holding up better in the drought and hot temperatures than cool season grasses," commented Calvert. By combining intensive or rotational grazing with some warm season grasses, livestock farmers are gaining a definite advantage in this summer's battle with the drought.

Champion Livestock Sale Date Set

SCHUYLKILL — The 4-H and F.F.A. champion livestock sale will highlight the Saturday night schedule of events of the 1988 Schuylkill County Fair. The sale begins at 6:30 p.m. on August 13.

This sale is the culmination of much hard work by the young people who undertook a steer, hog, or lamb project. The animals are required to be sold at the fair auction. Bids generally exceed market price which rewards the 4-H or F.F.A. youth for their many hours spent training and grooming their animals for the show. Area businessmen and other generous individuals support the sale with their bids and make it a success.

Allan Cornman, fair livestock chairman, said, "Every year since the rebirth of the Schuylkill County Fair, we have received higher bids and set new records at the 4-H and F.F.A. livestock sale.

The 1988 Schuylkill County Fair will be held August 9 through 13 and features a wide range of amusements and entertainment in addition to the livestock events.

Krulwich To Close Pennsylvania Poultry Conference

HARRISBURG — Robert Krulwich, CBS's "Morning News" economist, will close the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation's annual Pa. Poultry Conference with his discussion of "The Election Outcome on the Economy."

Krulwich, who reports on business and economic topics twice a week for the national network, has received numerous awards for his work, frequently contributes to the New York Times, and holds a law degree from Columbia University.

The two-day conference, scheduled for Wednesday, September 28th, and Thursday, September 29th, at the Holiday Inn, Gransville, Pa., opens Wednesday morning with presentations including: animal welfare by Steve Kopperud from the American Feed Industry Association; wage and hour information by David Feinberg, consultant; environmental pollution, Paul Swartz of the Pa. Dept. of Environmental Resources; and a commodity price outlook by Dr. Milton Madison from Penn State University.

Wednesday afternoon provides conference attendees the opportunity to either participate in a golf tournament or attend a theater performance of Agatha Christie's "Murder On The Nile," followed by Wednesday evening's banquet dinner which features the hilarious Dr. Tim Stivers.

Thursday morning's session boasts three separate sessions for broiler, turkey and egg participants.

Robert Krulwich

The broiler session features University of Maryland's Dr. Dave Snyder discussing "New Techniques for Bursal Disease"; Penn State's Dr. Guy Barbato on "Improving Carcass Composition"; and Mr. Jerry Dyer, president of ASTEQ, Inc. discussing "Methods for Solving Processing and Marketing Problems."

Thursday morning's egg session features Paul Suther, Purina Mills Inc., discussing "Effective Management of Manure"; Ken Looper, president of Cal-Maine Foods Inc., on "A Word About Price Discovery"; and Dr. Morris Potter of Atlanta, Ga.'s Centers for Disease Control discussing "The Human Aspect of Salmonella Enteritidis."

Turkey session attendees can hear Dr. Dave Halvorson from the University of Minnesota discussing "Biosecurity, Surveillance and the Use of Vaccines in Disease Control"; Mike Morris of Purdue Turkey Farms Inc. on "Housing Management for Better Economics"; and Dr. H. John Barnes from North Carolina State University discussing "Osteomeylitis — A New Threat."

A separate "Ladies Program" is provided on both conference days and includes a presentation on "Managing Stress" (Wednesday morning) and preparing "Holiday hors d'oeuvres and Garnishes" (Thursday morning).

For conference and lodging registration forms, programs and other information, contact the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, 500 North Progress Avenue, Harrisburg, Pa., 17109, telephone (717) 652-7530.

Performance-Tested Ram Lambs Doing Well

STATE COLLEGE (Centre) — The PA Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center is making final preparations for PA's 10th Performance Tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe sale scheduled for Saturday, August 6, 1988 at 1:00 p.m. in the Ag Arena complex.

The 77 rams on test are doing very well in spite of the extremely hot, dry weather. After 70 days on test the entire group of rams have maintained a .98 pounds-per-day average daily gain and a lifetime weight per day of age of .97 pounds per day.

Two Columbias have gained an average of 1.15 pounds per day on test. Two Oxfords from Stone Haven Sheep Farm have gained 1.07 and 1.09 pounds per day on test respectively. Six Polypay rams have maintained a 1.03 pounds per day average with the top-gaining Polypay from Folly Farm in Connecticut gaining an impressive 1.26 pounds per day. The two Shropshire rams from Calvert Farm have gained more than a pound a day on test and the two Montadales recorded a breed average daily gain of .94 pounds per day. The eight Hampshires have been gaining a breed average of .99 pounds per day on test. The top-gaining Hamp from Bob and Donna Spangler is a very impressive ram with figures to match. He has gained 1.31 pounds per day with a ration of 133. The 18 spring-born Dorsets and the eight fall-born Dorsets recorded an identical breed-group ADG of .88 pounds per day. The top-gaining Dorset of David Dykes has gained 1.13 pounds per day with a ratio of 129. There are also two Dorsets, one from David Dykes and the other from Kenneth Staver, gaining 1.07 pounds per day with ratios of 122. The 30 Suffolks have maintained a 1.05 pounds per day gain on test and a 1.07 lifetime weight per day of age. The top-gaining Suffolk and top over all breeds is from Blue Jacket Suffolks and has gained 1.34 pounds per day with a ration of 128. One of Penn State's Suffolks is close behind with a gain on test of 1.33 pounds per day. With another Suffolk Ram from P.S.U. attained the top-lifetime weight per day of age of 1.33 pounds per day.

For more information on this outstanding group of Performance Tested rams being offered for sale or the approximately 100 ewes that will be consigned, please contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803 or phone: 814-238-2527.

Pennsylvania Beef Council Elects New Officers

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Beef Council elected its 1988-89 slate of officers at a recent board of directors meeting in Harrisburg. J. Paul Espy, a Huntingdon County beef producer was unanimously elected chairman of the Council.

Scott Yocum, of Penns Valley Livestock Auction, Centre Hall, Centre County was elected chairman-elect, and Ray Grimes of McKnightstown, Adams County, was re-elected as vice chairman.

Mildred Bunting, editor of the "Lancaster Livestock Reporter" was reelected as secretary of the Council, while Dr. Lowell L. Wilson, of State College, was elected treasurer.

"Producers have learned — often, the hard way — that they must help market their products all the way to the consumer just to stay competitive," Espy said. "With passage of the beef referendum, we know we've got a long range program. I look forward to the challenge of helping expand the many programs funded by the checkoff and of working to boost income for beef, dairy and veal producers in Pennsylvania."

The Pennsylvania Beef Council operates for charitable, scientific and educational purposes. The Council was formed to advance the image and desirability of beef and beef products by improving its competitive position and to stimulate sales of beef, veal and beef by-products in Pennsylvania and nationally.

The PBC administers the National Beef Promotion and Research checkoff, which utilizes producer funds to finance research, education, promotion, consumer and industry information programs about beef and veal.

At the PBC's June meeting, two directors were named to the Board. J. Elrose Glick, Mifflin County dairyman, was named to represent the PA Farmers' Association on the board. Glenn Hart, of the Lancaster Stockyards was reelected to the board representing the livestock market industry.

The PA Beef Council Board of Directors is composed of 21 men and women representing beef, dairy, veal, and cattle producers, livestock markets, packers and general farm organizations.

In addition to the new officers and directors, the following are members of the Beef Council: Glenn Eberly, Pa. Cattlemen's Association; Marie Painter, PCA; Ella Roush, Moyer Packing Co.; Bob Earle and Dave Smoker, veal producers; Ralph Dotterer, Grange; Charles Schilling and John Cope, dairy producers; Harry H. Stambaugh and Norm Painter, beef producers.

One meat packer remains to be elected to the board, and two directorships will be selected by Espy as incoming chairman.

Nut Growers To Meet In Annville

ANNVILLE (Lebanon) More than 250 nut lovers from the U.S. and Canada are expected to gather at Lebanon Valley College, Annville, August 7-10, 1988, when the Northern Nut Growers Association will hold its 79th Annual Meeting. Host for this year's four-day convention is the 300 member Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association.

Thirty-nine specialists will present papers on a wide range of nut or nut-related topics. The subjects will vary from "Manamgement of Cool and Warm Seasonal Cover Crops in Pecan Orchards: Implications for Bio Control and Soil Fertility" to "Nut Trivia from the Past." These experts on nut trees come from as far away as Canada, and the states of Texas, Washington, and Florida to as near as the towns of Palmyra, Etters, and Middletown.

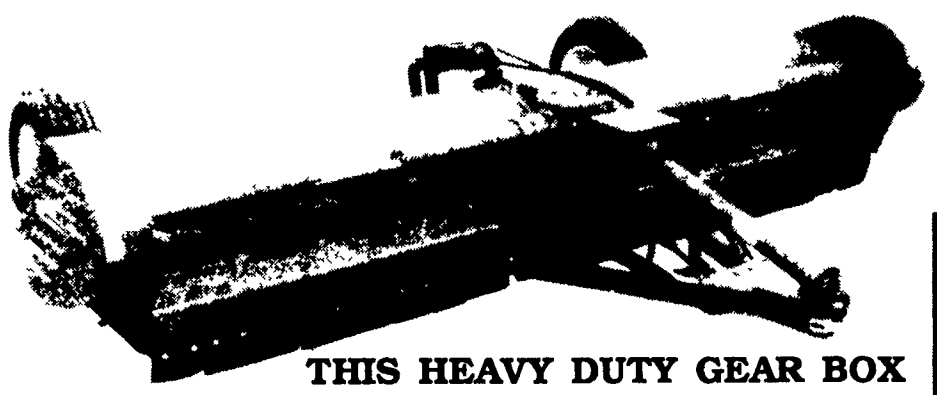
Highlights of the four-day event will be a craft show on Tuesday morning, and the Northern Nut Growers Association Annual Banquet, which will feature the crowning of King Nut.

The convention is open to all who are interested in nuts. Registration will take place in the lobby of Mund College Center, Sunday afternoon and evening. Additional information is available by calling 717 838-6881.

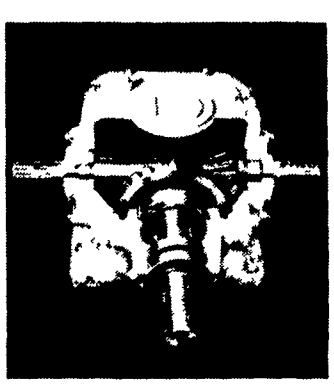
Brillion

FLAIL SHREDDERS

TWO SIZES — 12 AND 15 FOOT CUTTING WIDTHS



THIS HEAVY DUTY GEAR BOX IS THE HEART OF THE MACHINE



Available In 540 RPM and 1000 RPM

The gear box on the Brillion flail shredder is made in Brillion's own modern foundry. It is then assembled with husky machine cut gears and tapered roller bearings. Input and output shafts are 1¾" diameter. The gear box is designed to match the horsepower of large tractors... to keep going when others heat up and quit.

When you buy a Brillion you get the BEST... built-in quality with added strength where it counts..all the way from the heavier hood with replaceable wear plates, right down to the dynamically balanced rotor with knives installed to provide smooth, vibration-free operation. With your Brillion you can cut and shred a full 12 or 15 foot of residue. And you can move right along without costly and time-consuming breakdowns. The rotor shaft is made of 1¾" steel. Drives between the gear box and pulleys are 2¾" high capacity tubing, shielded by a metal sleeve. The PTO shaft is integrally shielded with a dent-resistant plastic tube.

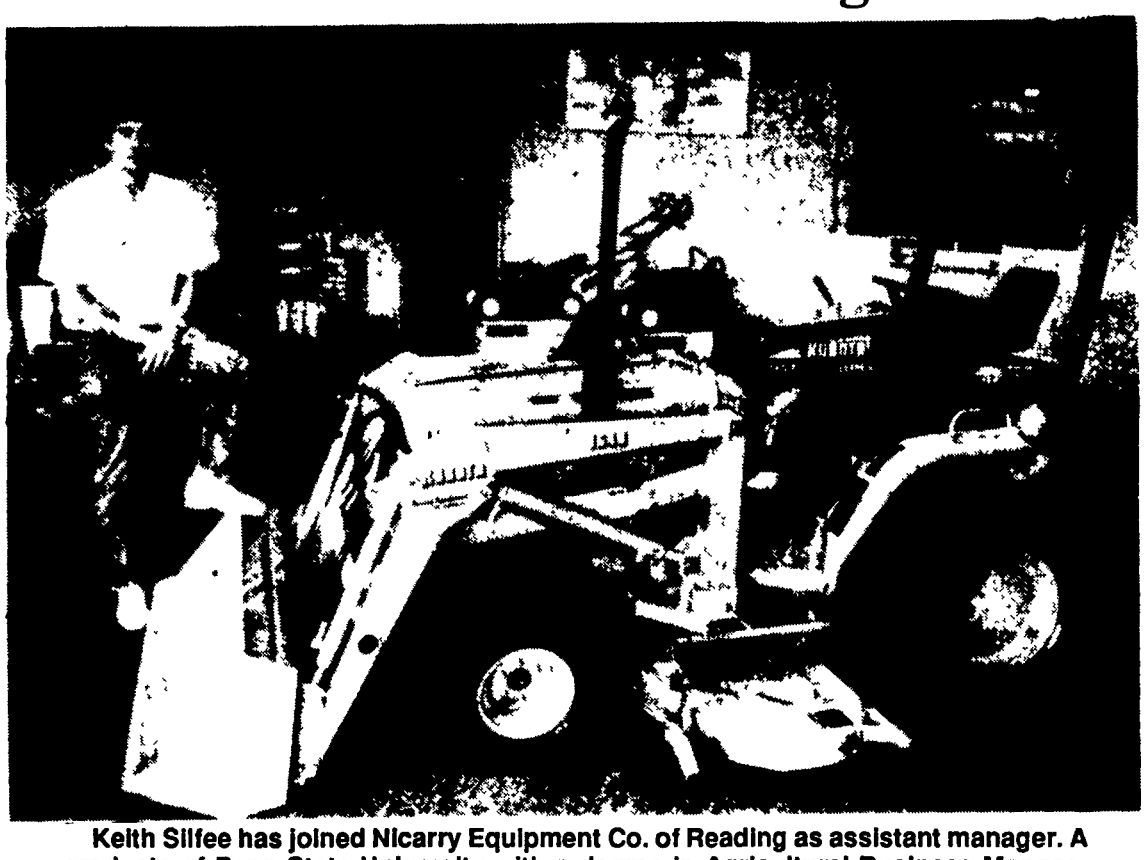
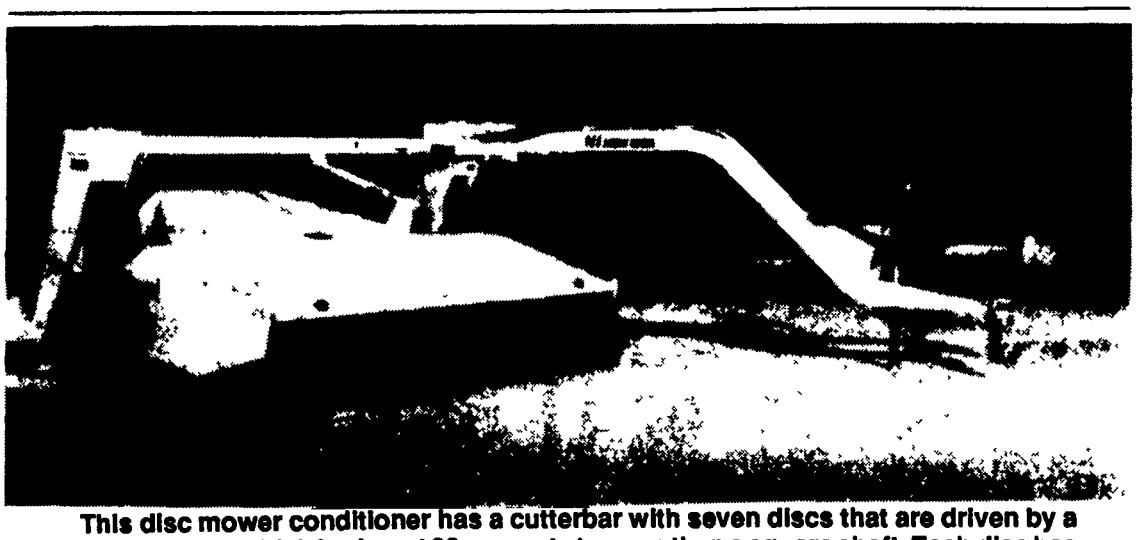
Nicarry Equipment Names Assistant Manager



Keith Silfee has joined Nicarry Equipment Co. of Reading as assistant manager. A graduate of Penn State University with a degree in Agricultural Business Management, Keith was formerly with the Lebanon office of Lancaster Farm Credit Association for seven years. He and his wife, Sandy, have two children. In addition to managerial duties, Keith will be involved with sales. Nicarry Equipment Co., located north of Reading on Rt. 61, is a full line Kubota Tractor and implement dealer featuring new and used sales, complete service and parts, and rental. In addition to Kubota, other brands of associated implements and attachments are also offered.



This disc mower conditioner has a cutterbar with seven discs that are driven by a hex drive shaft, which is almost 20 percent stronger than a square shaft. Each disc has two reversible knives for longer life.

White-New Idea Offers Disc Mower Conditioner

COLDWATER, OH — Featuring a modular-component, shaft-driven cutterbar that provides low maintenance and easy serviceability, the New Idea 5209 disc mower conditioner eliminates reel gathering and offers a superior cutting performance over a sickle mower.

The cutterbar features seven discs that are driven by a hex drive shaft, which is nearly 20 percent stronger than a square shaft. Each disc-drive unit is independent and sealed from companion units. The heavy-duty strength of the oval disc gives the 5209 increased service life than other discs. Each disc has two reversible knives for longer life.

The high-speed cutting of the 5209 directly feeds the crop into the intermeshing conditioning rolls from the cutterbar. Excellent conditioning roll performance is provided by compressed rubber tire material. Each conditioning roll is independently driven from the gearbox. A single gearbox provides power for both the conditioning rolls and the cutterbar.

The 5209 main frame is built over the header instead of under or behind it. This allows for a three-point suspension system. The three-point suspension system allows for multi-driven movement over uneven ground. The suspension system provides lateral and vertical float which prevents scalping and large uncut areas over rough terrain.

Standard equipment for the 5209 includes "power-out" plug removal; header tilt adjustment that adapts to the cutting angles of various crops and conditions; and a hydraulic tongue control that pivots the tongue from transport to working position. An 80 degree constant-velocity PTO provides a smooth, quiet performance with no chatter or vibrations. The PTO and machine drives are slip clutch protected. The 5209 is designed to provide sharp turns and create no adverse hook-up requirements.

Manager Named For Agway's Lancaster Office

LANCASTER — Agway Energy Products has announced a new manager for their Lancaster operation.

Thomas R. Strickler, a graduate of Elizabethtown College, began his career with Agway in 1979 at the Bedford, PA plant. He was transferred to Dundee, NY in 1980, and most recently has been the Propane Manager in Lancaster.

Currently, Strickler serves on the board of directors for the Central PA Hugh O'Brian Leadership seminar as Vice-Chairman. He resides with his wife Mary, and two sons, Ryan and Andrew.

Agway Energy Products is the marketing arm of Agway Petroleum Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Agway, Inc. With headquarters in Syracuse, NY Agway Petroleum began in 1936, and currently ranks near the top of the Fortune 500. With locations in nine northeastern states, they deliver and service energy fuels and equipment.

Designed to attach directly to Gehl skid loaders, these backhoe attachments have loading heights up to 6 feet 10 inches and a loading reach up to 6 feet 3 inches.

Gehl Introduces Three Backhoe Attachments

WEST BEND, WI — Gehl Company has announced the introduction of three new backhoe attachments for mounting on their line of skid loaders. These backhoes are designed for digging depths of 7 feet, 9 inches on the Model BH3010 up to 11 feet on the Model BH4010-6620 Series.

The backhoe attachments are designed to attach directly to the Gehl skid loaders, adding more capabilities to these already versatile units. According to Gehl Material Handling Product Manager Brad Boncher, "With one of these attachments for your Gehl skid loader you can perform many of the same duties as a tractor-loader-backhoe, at a much lower cost. And, these units fit on a trailer which makes it easy to transport from one job to another."

These backhoe attachments have loading heights up to 6 feet, 10 inches and a loading reach up to 6 feet, 3 inches.

For more information on the Gehl skid loader backhoe attachment, see your nearest dealer or contact Gehl Company, 143 Water Street, West Bend, WI 53095, (414) 334-9461.

Drought Affects Seed Corn Producers

BLOOMINGTON, IL — The drought of 1988 also is affecting seed corn-producing areas across the Midwest. "As with most farmers, we're right at the critical stage as far as seed production is concerned," notes Leo Haas, vice president of the Corn Belt Business Unit for Funk Seeds International.

Heat units are a big concern for seed corn producers, especially during the tasseling and pollination stage. "At this point in time, we certainly know that production has been affected," Haas says. "With moisture in short supply and the number of heat units far above normal, there will be an impact on kernel size and germination. What we don't know is how severe the impact will be."

A lot depends on how much rain does — or doesn't — fall between tasseling and pollination. "It's an unanswered question," Haas points out. "But chances are corn planted early in clean, fertile areas could still produce satisfactory yields."

All of Funk's seed corn, spread across 14 different growing areas, was planted early and good stands were recorded in late June. "All our seed fields were assured of optimum fertility," Haas says. "In fact, 98 percent of Funk's seed corn was planted in first-year corn ground.

Because heat and drought tend to advance pollination while delaying silking, increased contamination from outside fields could be an issue for seed corn buyers. Funk, however, has taken every step to isolate seed fields.

"Funk will not compromise our reputation for quality seed — or service," Haas says. "We have been in this business for 87 years. With that experience and the resources of Ciba-Geigy, our parent corporation, to draw on, our customers can rest assured we remain committed to helping them grow a crop.

"All seed returned to use this year was placed in environmentally controlled storage and will undergo extensive germ testing for quality control," Haas notes. "In the event of severely depressed yields that might affect 1989 inventories, we have our permanent off-season production facilities to fall back on."

Funk dealers will provide their customers every opportunity to obtain the seed they want for 1989 planting. "Our customers remain our No. 1 priority," Haas says. "Those wanting additional information regarding specific hybrids can contact their local Funk's G dealer.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Soil Conservation Helps During Drought

HARRISBURG — Soil conservation practices are effective in minimizing the effects of drought, reports Frederick Bubb, USDA Soil Conservation Service. Farmers who install soil conservation practices usually do so to reduce soil loss from rainfall. However, they can pay dividends in dry weather, too.

According to Bubb, there are several drought benefits from soil conservation practices such as conservation tillage, contour strip cropping and terracing.

First, these practices are designed to slow down runoff and increase infiltration. This works when those scattered, intense summer showers hit. It increases the chance that all the rainfall will soak into the dry parched soil. "Muddy water running out corn rows up and down the slope is lost as far as helping to produce a crop," added Bubb.

Second, the increased infiltration not only helps end the drought conditions, it helps prevent drought effects on crops. More moisture soaks into the groundwater in the spring due to soil conservation practices and is available for future crop growth. "Water that runs off is lost for crop production," commented Bubb. "I remember one Lehigh County farmer telling me as he applied strips and diversions, 'I want to so confuse the water so that it can never find its way off my farm.' That's a great philosophy."

Another drought benefit can be obtained from using conservation tillage practices such as no-till planting. Crop residues act as a mulch and provide another way of conserving soil moisture.

"Prevention is the name of the game," said Bubb. "We can't control the weather but the effects of weather changes can be lowered for the farmer with soil and water conservation practices."

Adjusting to Droughts and Tight Feed Supplies

Farmers who anticipate feed shortages should make alternative plans early in the season. Some ideas are discussed below, and more detailed information is available from Penn State Cooperative Extension offices in counties throughout the state.

Planting Emergency Crops

Planting crops during drouthy conditions is risky due to lack of sufficient moisture to germinate and sustain the crop. Thus it makes good sense NOT to invest in a lot of fertilizer and chemicals; they can be applied after establishment, if warranted. To help preserve soil moisture, maintain a firm seedbed.

1. Soybeans are fairly drought tolerant. To mature before normal frost dates, short season varieties need to be planted before mid July in S.E. Penna. They are not tolerant of triazine residues.

2. Long season corn planted by mid to late July can make good stalk growth providing there is sufficient moisture. Planted late, it won't produce ears, but it can make silage that is comparable in quality to sorghum.

3. Sudangrass and sorghum-sudan hybrids are fairly tolerant of hot dry conditions, and can be planted as late as mid to late July in S.E. Penna. They may tolerate triazine residues but now Prowl and/or Bladex.

4. Brassicas can be planted in July and August. They do not tolerate triazine residues. They can be direct-seeded into a firm seedbed, or no-tilled into dormant pastures, stubble or old sods. About 30-40 lbs. of nitrogen can be applied at planting time and another application can be made later if rains encourage more growth. Competition from weeds and sod crops can be controlled with burn-back herbicides.

Rape and kale are leafy brassicas that produce top growth for grazing.

Turnips and swedes are root brassicas that produces top growth and tubers; animals usually learn how to pull out and feed upon the tubers.

Rape and turnips reach maximum yield in 90 to 100 days. Both are capable of making regrowth under proper management.

5. Small grains such as barley, oats, rye and wheat can be seeded in July mid October in S.E. Penna. to provide some fall grazing and additional feed the following spring. Wheat for grain should not be planted before the Hessian fly free date.

Managing Present Crops

1. Corn. Temperature and moisture stresses can cause the following grain losses per day:

	Mild Stress	Severe Stress
3 to 4 weeks before silking	2%	3%
Tasseling, silking and pollinating	5%	13%
Grain filling period	3%	4%

Stress that occurs on corn about a month before silking affects stalk growth and silage yield more than it affects grain yield.

If one acre-inch of water can be applied at a cost of $25, about 8 bushels of shelled corn and 1 ton of silage would be needed to cover irrigating costs when shelled corn is $3 per bushel and silage is $25 per ton.

Don't be in too big a hurry to ensile stressed fields of corn, unless the ground is needed for another crop. If the leaves unroll at night, the crop is still finding moisture, and is still accumulating dry matter and nutrients. Ensile stressed stands when the leaves fail to unroll at night and the margins of top leaves begin to brown. At this stage, the crop probably won't reçover, nor benefit from irrigating. Check the moisture content of the plants and ensile the crop before it becomes too dry and fiber quality deteriates. Also refer to item 4 on nitrates.

Evaluate grain fields closely. The edge of corn fields may look OK, but pollination may be poor in the center due to heat buildup. Many stalks may not even develop an ear. Salvage these fields by ensiling them - before the crop becomes too dry. Nutrient wise, barren stalk silage might be worth about 75% the value of well-eared silage; dry silage might be worth only 50% as much. Also adjust prices for quality and harvesting costs.

About 1/5 of a corn crop's yield is cob and 1/2 is fodder. When feed is scarce, cobs and fodder are worth harvesting. Cobs are a good source of digestible fiber, and fodder can be used as a roughage for low-producing and non-producing cattle.

2. Alfalfa. To encourage new growth from the crown buds, cut established stands of alfalfa at early to mid bloom maturity or 35 days after last cutting, whichever comes first- regardless of its height. Delay cutting new stands and stressed stands unti mid bloom or later.

Cutting or gazing young alfalfa shoots or established stands before the bud stage can weaken the stand.

Wait for sufficient soil moisture before making summer alfalfa seedings.

Help alfalfa stands overwinter. Permit at least one of the cuttings to reach bloom stage of maturity. Give stands an opportunity to make at least 3-weeks growth before the normal date of the first killing frost. If more forage is needed, vigorous stands can be cut after a killing frost, but leave at least 4 inches of stubble.

3. Put up top quality feeds. Harvest at optimum maturity for maximum nutrient yield. Fill silos rapidly, harvest at the proper moisture levels and cut at the proper length to help ensure good packing and good preservation.

Ruminants need highly digestible fiber in a form that is effective. Don't destroy the effectiveness of the fiber by letting crops get too mature by ensiling them too dry or too wet, or by cutting and grinding them too finely. Remember, drought striken crops are lower in moisture content and will dry down more rapidly than usual.

4. Nitrates and silo gasses can be a problem with annual crops and weeds such as corn, sudangrass, sorghum-sudan hybrids, johnsongrass, pigweed and lambsquarters. The problem is more severe in fields fertilized heavily with nitrogen and manure, and in the first 3 to 5 days following a drought-recovering rain.

Ensiling suspect feeds and allowing them to go through a normal 3 to 4 week fermentation may reduce nitrate levels, but it increases the risk of silo gasses.

If nitrates are expected to be high, test the water and forages, and monitor total nitrate intake. To prevent low-level, chronic poisoning, especially in cattle cattle that are already stressed, some dairy scientists suggest keeping levels in the total ration below 1200 ppm (0.12%). Intakes of 1/4 to 2/3 lb. of nitrate per day can be acutely toxic to mature animals that are undergoing abrupt changes in their ration and experiencing digestive upsets. Animals that are healthy may be able to tolerate levels that are 3 to 5 times higher, especially if they are acclimated to nitrates gradually over a period of 3 to 4 weeks and if their rations are properly balanced.

5. Prussic acid (HCN) levels in sudangrass and sorghum-sudan hybrids may be a problem in dry seasons. The levels are highest in the young, rapidly growing shoots of plants, in the first 3 to 5 days following a drought-recovering rain, and in plants injured by frost.

To help prevent prussic acid poisoning, do not graze or harvest sudangrass until it is at least 18 inches tall; sorghum-sudan hybrids should be at least 30 inches tall. Levels can be reduced by cutting and drying the crop, or by ensiling it. Wait at least one week after a killing frost before ensiling.

6. Keep animals off dormant pastures; permanent pastures that are not overgrazed respond better to fertilizer applied later in the season.

Feeds and Feeding Adjustments

1. Whenever making adjustments to the dairy ration in an attempt to stretch feed supplies, be sure to meet cows' minimum forage needs. At least 50% of the total dry matter intake should be in the form of good quality forages. This level may be reduced temporarily to 40% for periods of 90 to 120 days. When forage intakes are held to minimum levels, incorporate more high-fiber concentrates and roughages into the ration. Acid detergent fiber (ADF) content of the total ration should be 18 to 20% on a DM basis. For conventionally-fed herds, cows shold consume 1.35 to 1.55 lbs. of forage DM per cwt. of body weight.

2. Make the best use of your feeds. Give the best feeds to your best animals. Store feeds separately, by kind and quality, so you can access the kind of feed you want when you need it. Use of silage bags may help you accomplish this.

Maintain high levels of efficient production - not necessarily the highest level of production. High producers give a better return on feed than do low producers.

Cull poor producers, problem animals and replacement animals that have questionable potential. If culling jeopardizes cash flow and milk bases, it may be beneficial to purchase a few good animals to replace some of the culls, especially if the price is right and there is little or no risk of introducing diseases to the herd.

Reduce feed spoilage and wastage - in the field, in storage, in the bunk, and in the animal.

For greater feeding efficiency, balance rations for different production groups, for dry cows, and for different groups of heifers. Avoid nutrient deficiencies and costly frills and excesses. Also consider the quality of protein, fiber and carbohydrates when balancing rations. Grind, chop, roll or crimp feeds properly to improve digestibility. Use a total mix ration. Or, blend the forages, feed some forages before feeding grain, and restrict the amount of grains and concentrates fed per feeding to 8 lbs.

3. Consider using alternative feeds that are more economical.

Small grains such as barley, oats, rye, triticale and wheat can replace some of the corn in the ration, and they may be a better buy than corn. Ear corn may be a better buy than shelled corn. Allow new grain to cure about 3 weeks before feeding.

Soybeans and cottonseed, are high in oil content. Remember, excess fats and oils are toxic to the rumen. Therefore, limit daily intake to about 5 to 7 lbs. per day; this keeps fat and oil intake to a safe level of no more than 1 lb. per day. Feeding levels need to be further restricted if the ration contains other sources of fats and oils.

Non-protein-nitrogen (NPN) can be an economical source of soluable protein - IF fed properly. Cows need about 30% of their protein in a soluble form, and NPN is an excellent source of soluble protein. Many feed companies offer several lines of feeds, some of which are more economical and contain NPN. NPN is also present in forages, especially legumes such as alfalfa; levels generally increase when the crop is ensiled. Two common sources of NPN are urea and anhydrous ammonia.

The use of NPN is best suited for normal, healthy, adult cattle, and for corn-based rations that are properly balanced and have a source of readily available energy. Total daily intake of NPN by dairy cows, under normal conditions, should be limited to 0.4 to 0.5 lbs. per 1000 lbs. of body weight (0.56 to 0.70 lbs. for a 1400 lb. cow). Mature cattle need to be gradually acclimated to NPN over a period of about 3 to 4 weeks. If cattle are sick and experiencing digestive upsets, it may be necessary to withdraw NPN from their ration. Do not feed NPN to young cattle under 4 to 6 months of age.

Farmers can add urea to their grain mixes. To avoid palatability problems, initial levels should be limited to 0.5% of the finished mix. If cows are in normal health, and if they are gradually acclimated to NPN over a 3 to 4 week period, levels may be increased to a maximum of 1.5%. Because of the acclimation time required, urea should also be included in the ration of dry cows and springing heifers. Proper mixing is very important to prevent toxic pockets of concentrated urea. Urea should not be added to rations containing raw soybeans.

Farmers can also add urea or anhydrous ammonia to their corn silage - providing they are not feeding NPN via grain mixes and purchased concentrates. Moisture level of the silage should be between 60 and 70%. The rate of application is about 10 lbs. of urea or about 7 lbs. of anhydrous ammonia per ton.

At these rates, the protein content of corn silage is increased from its original level of about 8.5% to a level of about 12 to 13%. In addition to providing protein, anhydrous ammonia is an excellent silage preservative. It is also a hazardous material.

brewers grains and distillers grains, may also be good buys, providing they fit into your feeding system, providing you have a reliable source, and providing you can feed them fast enough to keep ahead of spoilage problems. One way to prevent some of these problems is to bag them or to mix them with other grains and forages at ensiling time. Rate of mixing might be determined by the desired moisture and protein content of the finished blend.

For example, you want to mix 75% moist brewers grains with 25% moist corn and end up with a 30% moist blend for ensiling. What percentage (by weight) of brewers grains is needed? The answer is 10% (see calculations, below).

The goal of 30% is entered in the center of the table, and analyses (% moisture) of the ingredients is entered in the second column. The lbs. needed are determined by calculating the difference between the analysis and the goal; the answer is entered in the diagonal corner. For example, the difference between 25 and 30 is 5 (it makes no difference if this is a positive or a negative number); this is the amount of brewers grains needed. The difference between 75 and 30 is 45; this is the amount of corn needed. The total mix of corn and brewers totals 50 lbs.; this becomes the basis for computing the percent of mix.

This same process can be used to determine what blend of ingredients are needed to arrive at a desired percentage of protein - or energy, or fiber, etc.

Other alternative feeds include, but are not limited to: bakery and cannery wastes, apple pomace, dehydrated alfalfa, whey, cottonseed hulls, soyhulls, mill feeds (oat, soybean, etc.), wheat mids, hominy, corn gluten feed, corn gluten meal, citrus pulp, beet pulp, canola meal, peanut meal, linseed meal, wheat bran, malt sprouts, straw, fats and oils, fish and animal by-products, etc. IMPORTANT: If these products are fed, they need to be used with extreme caution and under the guidance of a competent nutritionist.

Ingredient	Analysis	Goal	Lbs. Needed	% of Mix
Corn	25		45	90	(45/50=0.9)
		30
Brewers	75		5	10	(5/50=0.1)
			50

Buy and Sell Feeds Wisely

1. Forages, grains, feed ingredients and complete or manufactured feeds may be a better buy earlier in the season than later. If so, it may be prudent to purchase feeds early in the season to mix with home grown feeds, or save home grown feeds for use later, when purchased feeds are more apt to be in tighter supply and become more costly.

2. When buying feeds, buy them for their dry matter and nutrient content. Consider quality. Feeds that have been in storage for long periods of time may be of lower quality due to molds, heating and insect injury. Adjust prices accordingly.

For example, if dry shelled corn is selling for $3.00 per bushel, how much is 1 ton of 30% moist shelled corn worth? First convert the bushel price to a ton price. Since there are 35.7 bu. of dried corn per ton (2000/56=35.7), multiply $3.00 by 35.7 and the answer is $107. The dry corn contains 15.5% moisture (84.5% DM). The 30% corn contains only 70% DM; because of its lower DM, it is worth proportionately less - only $88.64

The quality of some feeds deteriates with excessive wetness or dryness, so good judgement is needed to arrive at realistic values. Also consider fineness of chop, quality of fermentation, freedom from molds, convenience, hauling, storage requirements, etc.

3. Some home grown feeds may be too expensive to feed when other good buys exist. At times like this, it may be possible to increase feed inventories by selling some home grown feeds and purchasing additional quantities of more economical, alternative feeds.

HAY CURE

Aids in curing hay up to 30% moisture, thus saving protein rich leaves. It also aids in getting hay, which is not quite dry, in ahead of bad weather

ADVANTAGES OF HAY CURE

- Has a lower PH reading
- Dry, free-flowing, absorbent material
- Less corrosive - easier on equipment
- Easy handling
- More economical
- Contains 30% propionic acid
- Lower cost of application
- Proven effective on farm test

Improved Buffered Propionic Acid

SILAGE CURE

An aid to making good silage better by stimulating fermentation during the first 72 hours after ensiling, thus promoting rapid acidification and reducing heat and energy loss.

A Proven Blend of Enzymes and Bacteria
